DEPLORABLE OUTRAGE.

HENEY IS SHOT DOWN IN LAWLOR'S COURT.

Rejected Juror in Ruef Case, Exposed by Prosecutor, Tries to Kill Him.

Attempted Assassination Occurs During Intermission. Morris Haas, Ex-Convict, Saloon-keeper, Who Committed Outrage, Says Special Attorney Ruined His Life by Showing to World His Past.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

FRANCIS J. HENEY was shot down in Judge Lawlor's court in San Francisco yesterday, during an intermission in the Ruef trial, by Morris Haas, an ex-convict and rejected juror.

Heney's condition is favorable for recovery as the bullet did not penetrate the brain.

Haas was exposed in open court by Heney and the disgrace had preyed on his mind until it led to the attempted assassination. After his arrest he said that Heney had ruined his life and he was now even.

Ruef and his attorneys condemn Haas's act and deplore the shooting in unmeasured terms. Henry Ach swears he'll never undertake another criminal case.

Ruef was ordered rearrested by Judge Lawlor immediately after the shooting, as a precautionary measure against violence, and lodged in jail.

Haas was spirited away from the jail last night to avoid mob violence.

The city of San Francisco is in an uproar over the outrage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—The San Francisco bribery-graft cases had a dramatic climax today when Francis J. Heney, who has been in charge of the prosecution during its course of two years, was shot and seriously wounded, in the crowded courtroom, by Morris Haas, an ex-convict.

The shooting occurred during a brief recess in the third trial of Abraham Ruef on the charge of bribery, which is now in its eleventh week.

Heney is now in the Lane Hospital, and the physicians say that his wound is not fatal.

Haas is in the city prison. The would-be assassin is a saloon-keeper who was drawn upon the jury panel in the second trial of Ruef, and who, after having been temporarily passed by both sides, was exposed in a dramatic manner by Heney as an ex-convict and discharged from the jury.

SAYS LIFE WAS RUINED.

Haas declared after the shooting that Heney had ruined his life by this exposure, and that he had determined to kill him for that reason.

Heney had finished the cross-examination at noon of James L. Gallagher, the prosecution's most important witness in all the bribery-graft cases, and the confessed "go-between" of Ruef and the former Board of Supervisors.

Henry Ach, chief counsel for Ruef, had subjected Gallagher to a severe cross-examination for two hours in the afternoon, when Judge Lawlor declared a brief recess at 4:05 o'clock. The jury filed out and Heney and Ach and Dozier, at the request of the judge, went into his chamber to confer with him on some proposed instructions to the jury. At the conclusion of the conference, Ach, Dozier, Ruef and Judge Lawlor went out of the courtroom to the street in front of the building, which is located on Fulton street, near Van Ness avenue.

RETURNS TO ROOM.

Heney, instead of going outside to enjoy a brief airing, stepped for a moment into an ante-room, and then came back to his counsel table.

While many of the people who crowded the courtroom until there was no standing room left, had also gone out on the sidewalk, there was still a large crowd in the room.

Heney was leaning over his table, conversing with Al McCabe, chief clerk in the District Attorney's office. Directly in front of him was James L. Gallagher, the witness, and a representative of the Associated Press had just walked to Mr. Heney's table and was standing at his left elbow waiting for an opportunity to speak to him, when a small, neatly attired man approached the Assistant District Attorney from behind in quick steps, but with deliberation.

EVERY ONE SEEMED STUNNED.

Suddenly his right hand shot out and before the newspaper man, McCabe or John Foley, Heney's special bodyguard, sitting about eight feet away, could make a move, there was a flash and a loud report rang through the courtroom.

For a moment everybody seemed stunned and paralyzed. The would-be assassin, whose revolver was within a foot and a half of Heney's head when he pulled the trigger, stepped back, his arms by his side, one hand still clutching the smoking weapon, as if hesitating what to do.

For a fraction of a second an impressive silence followed the report, while the smoke of the shot lazily floated away.

Then followed a dramatic scene.

Some one shouted:

"My God! He has shot Heney."

Exclamations of horror burst from the crowd. Half of the spectators, evidently fearing further shooting, made a frantic rush for the doors.

HAAS HURLED TO FLOOR.

Before the would-be murderer could raise his pistol again, Foley and E. J. Wiskotchill, a special policeman, were upon him, threw him to the floor and wrested the weapon from his grasp.

He struggled but was dragged to the jury box, thrown on his

ASSASSIN'S RECORD.

HAAS LED POLICE ACROSS COUNTRY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Morris Haas, alias Hass, alias Max Geule, who wounded Prosecutor Heney at San Francisco today, was sentenced from the Superior Court here May 23, 1888, to serve two years in San Quentin for embezzling the sum of $275 from his employers, Schlesinger & Green, wholesale tobacco merchants of San Francisco.

His arrest occurred at Philadelphia, a year after the embezzlement, he having led the officers a merry chase across the country, hiding during long periods to escape discovery. Brought back here by Policeman John Coffee of San Francisco, he made a bluff at innocence before the Township Court, but later confessed.

Haas was a traveling salesman for the firm. He had been sent out from San Francisco on July 19, 1887, with bills amounting to $3200 to collect, and to take orders, and was to receive 10 per cent. commission and expenses, besides a salary of $75 a month.

Ordinarily it would have taken thirty days to have covered the territory assigned to him. Instead he devoted just a week to the field, and then returned to San Francisco, opening a liquor store on Montgomery street.

During his trip through Southern California he had collected a bill of $275 of J. Wild & Co., local cigar men. In course of business his firm learned of this collection, he having appropriated the amount to his own use, and he disappeared, being located in Philadelphia a year later. He was known here as Max Geule and went the pace.

When arrested at Philadelphia all his personal possessions were two pocket knives and a match safe. In course of the preliminary examination, when Policeman Coffee enumerated those articles, Haas exclaimed: "One knife had a cork screw, didn't it," suggesting where the stolen coin had gone.

DUCHESS TO BE AT WEDDING.

ONE RELATIVE FAVORS BRIDE OF ABRUZZI'S CHOICE.

Wife of Prospective Heir to Throne of Italy Plans Trip to America to Attend Ceremonies and Will Aid Miss Elkins in Securing Court Presentations.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Among the noted guests at the Elkins-Abruzzi wedding will be the Duchess of Aosta, wife of a cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, who is a prospective heir to the throne of Italy. She is a great admirer of Miss Elkins.

In the belief that the wedding of the West Virginia heiress and the Italian nobleman will take place in the United States, the Duchess is making preparations for the trip.

The Duchess is a favorite of Queen Alexandra, and hopes to introduce Miss Elkins in English court circles. Like Miss Elkins, she had more than one suitor, and found difficulty in making a choice.

The Princess was the first love of the late Duke of Clarence, but in due time she married the Duke d'Aosta, by whom she has had two sons. A tender attachment has always existed between Queen Alexandra and the high-spirited and beautiful Princess, who, had the fates willed it so, would have been her daughter-in-law.

Princess Helene was the only woman outside her own immediate family whom the Queen received at Buckingham Palace during the dangerous illness of the King at the time his coronation was to have taken place.

ANDREE'S BROTHER DOUBTS NOT.

Sees Nothing Improbable in Story of Finding of Explorer's Grave in Labrador.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prof. S. A. Andree's brother says he does not see anything improbable about the story of the finding of the grave of the aëronaut-explorer at Cape Mugford, Labrador, although a study of the log of a whaler bound for St. Joseph's Land at exactly the same time that Andree started on his balloon trip, shows that strong and variable winds prevailed in the region for which the explorer was making, and it was said that it would have been impossible for Andree to continue in one direction for more than a day. Therefore, probably, he was blown to and fro until the balloon came down, and the whole party was drowned. Another thing which throws doubt on the story is the fact that a man named Andreas went up to Cape Mugford eight years ago as one of a party of eight searching for gold. He died and was buried there.

CHINA.

EMPEROR IS DEAD.

Dowager Empress Is Reported Dying.

Official Confirmation Is Lacking and Rumor Reigns.

Imperial Edicts Name the Emperor's Brother as Regent.

Foreigners in Peking Are Bewildered by Many Developments.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PEKING, Nov. 13.—The Emperor of China was reported dead at 4 o'clock. It has, however, been impossible to secure official confirmation of this announcement.

His Majesty was transferred to the death chamber at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. At that hour he was still breathing.

Later in the day reports from the Imperial palace asserted that the Dowager Empress, for many years the real ruler of the empire, was dying. The foreigners here are dismayed at the sudden developments of the day, and the hundred and one rumors which float about the streets, whispered from one to another, are without apparent foundation. It is absolutely impossible to verify any of them.

Two imperial edicts were issued from the palace this afternoon in quick succession. The first makes Prince Chun, brother of the Emperor, Regent of the empire, and the second appoints the Regent's son, Pu Wei, heir presumptive.

Simultaneously with the removal of the Emperor from the Winter Palace to the death chamber in the Forbidden City, the members of the Grand Council assembled in the palace. The Dowager Empress was present at the meeting and is reported to have swooned and was carried out unconscious.

OFFICES DESERTED.

At half past 4 o'clock this afternoon a palace official of high standing said the Emperor was still alive. All the government offices were deserted, and affairs are at a complete standstill. The palace is crowded with officials.

Prince Chun is a brother of the Emperor. His name is Tsai-Feng, and he succeeded to the title of his father, Prince Chun, in 1891. He is a lieutenant-general of the Plain White Banner Corps, and visited Germany in 1901 as a special commissioner of the throne.

This last illness of the Emperor assumed a serious aspect a fortnight ago. It was then declared that he was suffering from a grave intestinal complaint. He has persistently refused to accept western medical aid, although medical men attached to the legations here have stood ready to offer their services. His Majesty has suffered for ten years past from chronic nephritis, which recently became complicated with diabetes and sciatica. It was admitted yesterday that his brain was affected.

The members of the grand council have been in close attendance at the palace for ten days. Statements officially gazetted that His Majesty was in conference with the councillors were absolutely untrue, and were made for the purpose of misleading the public.

The death of the Emperor of China, if it proves true, brings to an end the reign of a sovereign feeble in mind and body, who has been dominated all his life by the all-powerful influence of the Dowager Empress. Kuang Hsu's "reign" will be completely lost in the rule of the Empress.

ACCESSION ILLEGAL.

The Emperor was born in 1870. His succession to the throne was one of the many arbitrary and illegal acts of the Dowager Empress, who adopted him into a succession from a generation the same as that of his predecessor, although the laws of the Manchu dynasty, and all precedent as well, provide that succession shall go to the next following generation. Kuang Hsu was 4 years old when made Emperor.

The question of the succession has agitated the Imperial family since the autumn of 1907, when it was perceived that the health of the Emperor was seriously undermined.

In January of 1900 the Dowager Empress adopted Pu Chun, son of Prince Tuan, the Boxer chieftain, heir apparent, but she disinherited him in November, 1901, at the behest of the allied powers. Since then the matter of an heir apparent has been in abeyance, and the Dowager Empress, in whose hands the power of election was, gave no clue to her purposes or determination.

WAS FOREIGN DEVIL.

The Dowager Empress is, and the Emperor was a Manchu; in other words, foreigners in China, and under the ban of Chinese patriots and an increasing anti-Manchu party, which has sought the suppression of the dynasty, and the restoration of a Chinese emperor to the throne. It has been freely predicted that the demise of the Emperor would be followed by an attempt at a coup d'etat, but the imperial edicts mentioned in the dispatch from Peking appear to have forestalled any immediate action of this kind. Kuang Hsu was a son of the brother of the husband of the Dowager Empress.

EMPRESS DOWAGER IS ALSO DYING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PEKING, Nov. 13.—It is reported that the Empress Dowager also is dying.

This rumor, if true, would explain

BAFFLING.

MAIL CLERK IN READ CASE.

His Testimony Wanted on Sanity of Woman.

Accompanied Dynamiter to Her Hotel.

Death May Put Stop to Any Solution.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, Nov. 12.—Upon the story of E. J. Sawyer, a United States railway mail clerk, the Denver police are depending for a partial solution of the mystery which surrounds Mrs. Allen F. Read, who last Monday attempted to extort $20,000 from Mrs. Genevieve Phipps on threats of dynamiting.

Sawyer, it was learned today, met Mrs. Read while en route to Denver, and accompanied her to the American House, where she first registered under the name of Mrs. Cone.

Both the police and friends of Mrs. Read are anxious to locate the mail clerk who befriended the woman on the morning of her arrival in the city.

The authorities hope to show that Mrs. Read was rational at that time and trying to conceal her identity until she could carry out an alleged conspiracy to extort money from Mrs. Phipps and other women. They expect that Sawyer's story will show that mentally the woman was responsible, and with no indication of insanity at that time.

HOLD TO INSANITY THEORY.

On the other hand, the woman's husband and physician are hoping to get new proof of the woman's insanity when they locate Sawyer.

They declare that Mrs. Read war insane when she arrived in Chicago; that she was insane when she secured $20,000 in bonds from a Chicago bond house, and that she did not recover her senses while on the train until after the attempt to blackmail Mrs. Phipps. In proof of this they say Sawyer was compelled to assist Mrs. Read to the hotel, and that she was so confused and helpless at the time she did not know what she was doing.

Sawyer, it is said, is out of the city on his regular run on the Burlington road, and efforts are being made to reach him in the hope that he may throw some light on Mrs. Read's arrival in this city.

MRS. READ WILL DIE.

Weakened by disease and drugs, Mrs. Read may never live to undergo the experiences of the prison cell or madhouse, as the consequence of her daring attempt at extortion.

Late last night information reached Chief of Police Armstrong that Mrs. Read's condition was extremely critical. The message came from her husband, in whose care Mrs. Read was placed by order of the Chief.

"We think she will never recover," Mr. Read told the Chief. "We fear it is only a question of days, perhaps only of hours, until the end comes."

This information was corroborated by Dr. R. O. Butterfield, Mrs. Read's physician. Mrs. Read has recovered somewhat from the effects of the drug she had taken, to get relief from pain. Still her mind is not clear. She insists she remembers nothing of what had taken place in the last week.

POLICE MYSTIFIED.

The police have about reached the end of their immediate plans for investigating the case. They confess themselves nonplussed. Chief Armstrong will await the arrival from Pittsfield, Mass., of Miss Jessie Campbell, a sister of Mrs. Read, in the hope that she may be able to throw some light on the mystery because she was one of the last persons to see Mrs. Read before she left the Massachusetts town after the funeral of her father.

Should Mrs. Read grow strong again, the question will be to decide whether she shall be sent to an asylum or prosecuted under the law for assault to kill, attempted extortion and blackmail.

At present she is charged with simple assault upon the detectives who arrested her. The throwing of the dynamite may be construed as an assault with intent to kill.

Lawrence Phipps, divorced husband of Mrs. Phipps, who has represented his former wife in handling the legal side of the case, announces he has turned the whole matter over to District Attorney Stidger. It is said that both Mr. Phipps and his former wife are convinced Mrs. Read was not responsible for her act. The identity of "Madame Leroy," the mysterious woman in the case, remains as great a mystery as ever.

SEVEN SENTENCED IN LAND FRAUD CASES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

PORTLAND, Nov. 1.—The last chapter in the "Los Angeles conspiracy" case, whereby certain citizens of the State of California entered into conspiracy with certain citizens of Curry county, Oregon, in a scheme to defraud the United States of the title to about 30,000 acres of timber lands, was closed today when Judge Wolverton pronounced the following sentences:

William S. Smith, a fine of $5000 and imprisonment in the Multnomah county jail for a period of two years.

Dr. A. S. Hedderly, $5000 fine and imprisonment for six months in the Multnomah county jail.

Richard D. Hynes, fine of $2000 and ninety days in the Multnomah county jail.

William T. Kerr, fine of $2000.
Frank A. Stewart, fine of $1000.
John R. Miller, fine of $1000.
Ames O. Johnson, fine of $500.

OFFERS APOLOGY; IS SHOT.

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Nov. 12.—A dispatch from Waynesville, N. C., today announces the fatal shooting of David Vaughn, a traveling man of this city, at that place last night, by James Moody, a son of former Congressman Moody of that district.

The men had some words a few days ago, and, meeting on the street last night, Vaughn attempted to apologize to Moody, when the latter shot him. Vaughn died today. He was a member of one of the most prominent families in this section.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There was no sign today of a let-up of the cold wave.

Even partly cloudy weather, expected tonight and Saturday, probably will have no effect in breaking the grip on the cold wave. The temperature today fell to 27 degrees. It probably will drop several degrees below that by morning. The unusual length of the cold wave is taken by weather sharps as being portentous of a long, cold winter. Today's maximum temperature was 37 and the minimum 27 degrees.

DR. THOMPSON BURIED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—The most impressive funeral service which has been held in Evanston since the burial of that militant Methodist bishop, Chaplain McCabe, took place yesterday in the First Methodist Church over the body of Dr. D. D. Thompson, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, who died in St. Louis on Tuesday from injuries received when he was run down by an automobile.

Those who made addresses at the church included Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks, a fellow-alumnus with Dr. Thompson, of Ohio Wesleyan College; Bishop William Fraser McDowell, of the Chicago district, and another another Ohio Wesleyan man; Bishop Joseph F. Berry of Buffalo, N. Y., and Rev. A. J. Nast of Cincinnati, editor of the Christian Apologist.

BACK TO RUSSIA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Judge Bethea of the United States District Court, yesterday, refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus to Appolinaris Alexandrovitch, who was arrested last week at the request of the Russian government, charged with being a revolutionist. The result is that he must be returned to Russia and tried on charges of forgery.

UNIVERSAL SIGNAL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Nov. 13.—Dr. H. Milliner, an electrical engineer in the Union Pacific shops, has equipped an engine in the yards with a device which the officials declare will greatly lessen the danger of collisions. It enables dispatchers or station agents to signal engineers between stations, thus putting them practically in constant touch with running trains.

CAR FOUNDRY OPENED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—Arrangements are being made for the opening this morning of the local Peninsular plant of the American Car and Foundry Company. About 2000 men will be put to work at first and the number will be gradually increased to the full strength of 4000.

ITALIAN KING SEES SERVIAN.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Lays His View of the Situation Before Emmanuel.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PISA (Italy) Nov. 13.—M. Milanovich, the Servian Minister of Foreign Affairs, was received in audience today by King Victor Emmanuel at San Rossore, the royal estate near here. The Minister explained the situation in Servia and said it is necessary for Servia to protect herself against the Austrian "invasion." He strongly stigmatizes the methods of Austria, and said that after the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, although the diplomatic relations with Servia were unaltered, Austria treated Servia as though war had been declared and prevented the entrance into Servia at the Austrian frontier of railroad material and military supplies, ordered previously from Germany and France and even from Austria herself. Austria, the Minister continued, after having torn up the treaty of Berlin, was now ignoring existing commercial treaties with Servia.

Servia had no chance for redress; she could not appeal to The Hague tribunal, because the consent of both parties was required for such a step and it was hopeless to expect acquiescence from Austria while Servia was not sufficiently strong to answer the Austrian "bullying" by a show of force. Consequently her only recourse was in an appeal to the public opinion of the world.

The Turkish Ambassador to Italy is concerned over the audience granted by His Majesty to the Servian Foreign Minister and has in turn applied to be received by the King. His Majesty answered that he would see the Ambassador tomorrow and asked him to dine with him.

ANGRY GREETING FOR PRINCE.

Kaiser's Son Hears Hostile Demonstration of Miners at Scene of Disaster.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HAMM (Westphalia) Nov. 13.—A crowd of 1500 angry miners made a hostile demonstration this afternoon while Prince Eitel Frederick and Minister of Commerce Delbruck were visiting the scene of the catastrophe.

The miners greeted the Prince with shouts indicating their belief that the disaster was caused through the fault of the mine management.

The district governor tried, in a speech, to pacify them, but they hooted him down, and some of them struck up the "Marseillaise," blocked the road, and prevented the Prince's automobile advancing.

The leader of the men subsequently made a speech to the crowd, requesting it to disperse quietly, and this was done.

GOVERNOR INVITES TAFT.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 13.—The following telegram inviting Judge Taft to visit California has been sent to the President-elect at Hot Springs, Va., by Gov. Gillett:

"Judge W. H. Taft, Hot Springs: On behalf of the State of California, I have great pleasure in extending to you a most cordial and earnest invitation to spend with us as much time prior to your inauguration as you can spare. Our facilities for winter rest and recreation are not equaled, and beyond that, you will have a splendid opportunity to become acquainted with an empire in evolution, a part of our country which will command much interest and attention during your administration.

"We will all be delighted beyond measure to have you with us.

"Governor of California."

EMPEROR DEAD.

the two edicts issued this afternoon regarding a regency for the empire.

The foreign residents of Peking are confused by the sudden developments of today, and the various reports and rumors emanating from the palace. It is absolutely impossible to obtain any official confirmation of the reported death of the Emperor, and the condition of the Dowager Empress. There is a certain amount of speculation in regard to what is actually transpiring. It is believed the government will utilize the dying condition of the Emperor, if he is not already dead, to screen the condition of the Dowager Empress.

The edicts of today bear the name of Kuang Hsu, which is believed to indicate that he was still alive at 2 o'clock, the hour the members of the grand council were in conference at the palace, but may be a trick to hookwink the public.

The second edict says that Pu Wei, son of Prince Chun, a child 5 years old, will be trained in the palace for succession to the throne. This makes him heir presumptive.

The hour of the day at which these edicts were issued shows that the imperial family, as well as the grand councillors, before deciding upon the appointment of Prince Chun to the regency, awaited the return of Prince Ching, president of the Board of Foreign Affairs, from the Eastern Tombs, whither he went to inspect the mausoleum of the Dowager Empress.

WASHINGTON HEARS NEWS FROM EMBASSY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A dispatch was received at the State Department just before noon today from American Minister Rochill at Peking reporting that the Emperor was dying. The message was sent about 2 o'clock today, Peking time.

According to members of the diplomatic corps in a position to know about the life of the Emperor of China, his delicate health forbade free indulgence in outdoor sports.

He found his greatest recreation in the study of mechanical contrivances. His friends were able to please him immensely by sending him models and notes of inventions, and none of his subjects studied more carefully than he the reports on inventions of mechanical devices, which he utilized for the improvement of conditions in the empire.

Particularly attractive to the Emperor were clocks and watches. In the winter palace at Peking, and the royal summer residence, some miles distant, were hundreds of clocks from all parts of the world, nearly all of different makes and styles. Nothing is said to have pleased the Emperor more than to tear a clock to pieces and then reassemble its parts. He became quite expert in the adjustment of these time pieces. His collections of these contrivances is said to have been one of the most complete in the Orient, not only representing modern work, but the development of time recorders through the centuries.

WU TING FANG HAS HIS DOUBTS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Associated Press dispatches gave the first news of the death of the Emperor. When they were shown Minister Wu Ting Fang, the Minister commented:

"But reports of his death have been received before." He added, however, that while he had not been notified, such notification was not to be expected immediately after the death on account of the commotion which would follow the death of the Emperor. Confirmation of the demise, he continued, would probably be made by the American Minister at Peking.

"Through nearly all of the thirty-four years that the Emperor was on the throne, he was in poor health, the Minister explained, and added that the Emperor's death at this time would not interfere with the policy of reform which had been adopted and partially put into practice by the Chinese government. Mr. Wu said that as the Emperor had no direct descendants, the infant son of his brother would be called to the throne. Official word of the Emperor's death had not reached the State department up to an early hour this afternoon and no recent advices had been received there regarding the trend of his illness.

BANK CLERK ACQUITTED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 13.—Addison C. Altaffer, former discount clerk of the Allegheny National Bank, was today found not guilty of aiding and abetting former Cashier William Montgomery in the embezzlement of over $200,000 from the bank.

The shortage of the Allegheny National Bank is said to be $1,250,000, and Montgomery recently was convicted on charges of embezzlement and abstraction of sums aggregating over $600,000.

Harry G. Watson, former teller of the Allegheny National Bank, was held to the Federal grand jury today upon a charge of aiding and abetting former Cashier Montgomery in the abstraction of $465,000 of the bank's funds.

It was announced in Mobile yesterday that the 75th United States Artillery Company, at Fort Morgan has made new records for the fort with twelve-inch rifles. Out of ten shots, eight hits were made on a target six miles off the fort in the Gulf of Mexico.

FAITHLESS HUSBAND.

SON OF MME. MELBA DIVORCED BY BRIDE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] George Nesbit Armstrong, Mme. Melba's son, was divorced today by his wife, formerly Ruby Otway, after twenty months of unhappy union. A curious circumstance is that any one reading the reports of the suit in this evening's London papers would never be able to identify the respondent, as the son of the famous prima donna.

Ruby Armstrong, not yet 20, told a pitiable story of violence and infidelity on the part of her husband. She said he began to quarrel with and abuse her within two months after their marriage. They went to Texas and there he beat her and locked her up in her room. Later they went to Australia, where her unhappiness became intensified.

On their return to London early this year, Armstrong was thrashed by an irate husband, a Mr. Hoffman, who found him with Mrs. Hoffman at the Hotel Metropole. Hoffman also demanded $25,000. Armstrong confessed to his wife and she immediately began suit for divorce.

CRIMES AGAINST BALLOT.

CHICAGO POLITICIANS INDICTED FOR FRAUDS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] West Side politicians were stunned today when the special grand jury probing the primary election frauds returned thirty-eight indictments before Judge Freeman.

Among the number were several against Abram J. Harris, clerk of the Criminal Court, former Alderman and one of "Billy" Cooke's right hand men in the Ninth Ward, and against Edward J. Smejkal, member of the Illinois Legislature and one of the leaders in the district, whose political destinies have been controlled by Congressman "Billy" Lorimer.

It was rumored in the evening that the special grand jury had voted thirty more true bills, among them being several against other prominent politicians. They will not be returned, however, until next Friday.

Harris and Smejkal are charged with perjury in connection with the handling of affidavits and also with aiding and abetting illegal voters in violating the primary law.

In addition to the indictments against these, there is another indictment against former Police Magistrate Q. J. Chott, charging perjury. He was one of the men against whom indictments were returned last week.

The voting of true bills against men as high up in the political scale as Harris and Smejkal created the greatest consternation among politicians in all sections of the city. It brings home most forcibly the prediction made at the commencement of the investigation that the men sought were the men "higher up," who directed affairs instead of the smaller fry, who merely carried out orders.

When the fact that the indictments had been returned became known there was a buzzing about among the politicians in the Criminal Court building and the office of Clerk Harris was besieged with anxious friends desiring to know the truth at first hands.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 13.—Gov.-elect Samuel G. Cosgrove of the State of Washington, is spending the day at St. Vincent's Hospital in this city, closely attended by his old friend and consulting physician, Dr. B. R. Keyler of Walla Walla.

Mr. Cosgrove appears to be a very sick man. His physician was reluctant to speak of the ailment and condition of the Governor-elect. He is being taken to Paso Robles, Cal., for treatment.

REPEAT.

TRY AGAIN TO GET 'EM WILD.

COMMISSIONER WILL SEEK BIG BIRDS IN THEIR LAIR.

San Bernardino Man Will Go to Mexico After Turkeys Which Will not Show Fondness for Barnyards. Has Been "Hexed" to Secure Several Hundred.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 13.—The State Fish and Game Commission is again going after "wild turkeys," having engaged W. E. Van Slyke, the original commissioner, to again assail the haunts of the big birds in the wilds of Mazatlan, and not return until he has secured several hundred.

Van Slyke made the first wild turkey trip into Mexico a year ago. When he returned he had a dozen or so birds, the exact species of which has always remained a matter of dispute. He claims them to be all turkey. Some certainly are the real article, but because they have shown a fondness for barnyards and refuse to act wild Van Slyke and the commission have been criticised.

The criticism has stirred the commission to one more attempt. The first trip cost in the neighborhood of $1000, but it was doled out to the commissioner in small amounts, and upon this fact he based his admitted failure. The season of the year was also against him. At that time the birds were far into the jungle nesting. Now the nesting period is over, and with unlimited funds at his command he will be able to scoop the birds up in dozens, aided by Indian hunters, he thinks.

BURGLARS ACTIVE.

Burglars were active last night, cleaning out stores with an ease that showed that they did not fear detection or being disturbed. The Harrington millinery store, Endler's and the City Meat Market were among the places visited. All are located on the principal street, in the business center, and the daring of the thieves is seen in the fact that the quarter is heavily policed. The burglars got away with a large amount of plunder, including cash.

HOUNDS RUN DOWN DEER.

Reports from the mountains indicate that a pack of hounds is running down the deer. For over a week reports have been received, coming from widely separated points. When first heard from the dogs were baying across Huston Flats. Three days later they were heard from beyond Little Bear Valley, and now the report comes in from Old Woman Springs. At the springs a hunter took a shot at one of the dogs but missed it. The belief is that the hounds have run down and killed numerous deer.

R. Erritos stabbed C. L. Allison, an employé of the Colton cement works last night, and is now a fugitive from justice. Allison, who is a foreman at the plant, had discharged the Mexican. He will recover.

RECOVERS FROM HIGH-GRADERS.

Goldfield-Mohawk Company Gets Back $20,000 Taken from Its Mines.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, Nov. 13.—By a decision just rendered by Judge Robert E. Lewis in the Federal Court the Goldfield-Mohawk Mining Company recovers about $20 000, the value of gold ore said to have been stolen from its mines in Goldfield and vicinity by high-graders.

The decision was the final adjudication of the suit of the mining company against the Wells, Fargo Express Company, by which the ore was shipped from a station near Goldfield to Pueblo, and there replevined by a United States marshal on behalf of the mining company.

SIGMA CHIS ON COAST.
WANT CONVENTION CITY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—The grand officers of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, one of the principal college fraternities in the United States, have been in attendance at the province convention of the fraternity, which closes tomorrow, with a view of investigating San Francisco as a convention city and will probably recommend that the national biennial convention of the Sigma Chi next year be held here.

The universities of Montana, Utah, Washington, Idaho, Berkeley, Stanford and Southern California were represented in the province convention which is holding a three days' session.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Killed Beneath Wagon.

STOCKTON, Nov. 13.—Thomas Houston, employed driving a wood wagon on the J. Jory ranch near Farmington, was found dead last night alongside the road, where he had apparently fallen from his wagon. An examination at the morgue has disclosed the fact that the deceased had been run over by his wagon and terribly crushed about the hips, internal injuries causing death. He was a Red Man, and had been here but a short time.

Falling Timber Kills Man.

BELLINGHAM (Wash.) Nov. 13.—Workmen engaged in counting timber on the second story of a mill being erected at Wahl, a suburb, shouted "look out" as a timber slipped and started to fall to the ground. Joseph Hughes, a carpenter, on the first floor, put his head out of a window to see what was wrong. The timber struck his head, crushing it to a shapeless mass.

HITCHCOCK RELEASED.

Bail Given by Comedian Under Indictment Is Returned and Case Dropped.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, probably never will be tried on the two indictments now standing against him as the result of a charge preferred against him by the three young girls. District Attorney Jerome publicly announced in court today that he has abandoned hope of convicting him, and upon his recommendation the bail of $7500, under which Hitchcock has been held, was discharged. It is likely that his attorneys will, within a few days, move for a dismissal of the indictments.

The arrest of Hitchcock and his subsequent indictment and trials caused quite a sensation in the theatrical circles about a year ago. He was acquitted of two of four indictments found against him after Flora Whiston, one of the complainants, confessed that she testified falsely against Hitchcock. She is now under $5000 bail in connection with the perjury charges.

INSANE MAN IN GIRLS' SCHOOL.

Lunatic Swims River and Invades Smith College Grounds Devoid of Clothes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NORTHAMPTON (Mass.) Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A naked insane man ran up and down the walks in Smith College grounds yesterday and frightened the wits out of scores of college girls before he was caught. The man, who escaped from the State asylum on the other side of Paradise Lake, took off his clothing and swam over to Smith College, where he landed about noon, as the girls were leaving the class rooms, and as he came yelling on the scene there was a panic. The girls barricaded themselves in dormitories and watched the police chase the man half an hour before he finally gave up, saying: "That was a fine game of tag."

MEMORIAL FOR ELIOT.

Harvard Alumni Will Contribute to Fund in Honor of President of Forty Years.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There is to be raised by general subscription among the alumni of Harvard College and the University a notable memorial fund in appreciation of the great and lasting achievement of Charles W. Eliot in the past forty years as president.

It is predicted that this fund will be memorable in the history of American colleges and will testify, not merely by its total but by the number of subscribers, the loyal and unswerving admiration of all Harvard alumni for their retiring president.

No figure will be set by the organizers of this movement either for the total of the fund or for the amount to be paid in by any one subscriber.

CONSTITUTIONALITY QUESTIONED.

SETTLER ATTACKS RECLAMATION ACT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If the case now being tried in the Circuit Court of Appeals at San Francisco of Chris Hanson, a settler of Lake Kerchelus, against the government is decided in favor of the plaintiff all reclamation work throughout the country may be stopped. Hanson contends the Reclamation Act is unconstitutional upon technical grounds, chief among them that the work done by the Reclamation Service is not a Federal but a State function and that the Constitution is violated when the Federal government is permitted to conduct irrigation work within States.

Hanson had occupied his land previous to the withdrawal of public lands about Lake Kerchelus for the establishment of a reservoir to impound water for the entire Yakima Valley. The land was unsurveyed and consequently no entry had been made. The settler was offered the value of improvements but he refused, demanding the full value for the land and timber. He bases his claim on the assumption that he owned the equivalent of a fee simple title. The United States Supreme Court has decided that a settler on surveyed land acquires the rights as against the United States.

Hanson's suit was brought in the United States District Court, and a decision was rendered against the claims of the United States. The reclamation officials immediately appealed to the District Court of Appeals at San Francisco and are anxiously awaiting a decision.

LABOR.

TRAP COSTLY FOR UNIONISTS.

Hammerstein Fools Strikers to Tune of Big Sum.

Laborite Funds Keep Bogus Plasterers Off Job.

Meanwhile Real Mechanics Work on Operahouse.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Arthur Hammerstein declared today that the recent strike of plasterers on his father's Philadelphia operahouse had cost them approximately $28,000. He said that the Executive Committee of the Plasterers' Union, duped by a trap of his, had paid out the money to persuade workmen he was importing from other cities from working on the operahouse. These men to whom the funds were paid were bogus, young Hammerstein states, and while the union men were so liberal with the funds his real plasterers were secretly shipping into the city.

"It was the easiest thing imaginable," said the impresario's son. "I learned that the plasterers' union were blocking my aims to replace the strikers with outsiders by buying them off; that is, refunding them railroad fare and giving them a few extra dollars for incidental expenses. They met the outsiders at the terminals.

"To outwit them I gathered several score of men here who were out of work. I took them to the suburbs, handed them plasterers' tools, and told them to ride to the terminals. They did so, and the union men rushed at them with the money, so, of course, the unemployed men took it. My men worked in relays. When it looked as though the real plasterers were getting wise to the game, bogus workmen were shifted to another railroad."

The plasterers refused to comment on young Hammerstein's assertion.

TAKAHIRA OFFENDED.

Not Invited to British Ambassador's Dinner on King's Birthday and Reports Slight.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As fine an act of hands-across-the-sea as subtle Oriental mind ever conceived was irretrievably ruined when on November 9, James Bryce, British Ambassador, failed to invite Korgoro Takahira, Japanese Ambassador, and the members of his staff to dine at the British embassy in honor of the birthday of King Edward.

Resulting is a lot of talk not to mention an informal report from the Japanese embassy here to the Foreign Office in Tokio.

The first part of the act was carried out a year ago when the Japanese Ambassador invited the members of the British embassy to dine with him and the members of his embassy on November 5, in honor of the birthday of the Mikado. The British accepted. The dinner was the talk of the diplomatic set for days. The Japanese wondered if the British Ambassador would get out belated invitations for them for the dinner four days later in honor of King Edward. The wise ones among them hoped that for the sake of appearances he would reserve his return invitation for 1908. No such invitations were received either then or this year.

The Japanese move in itself was a startling innovation. It is the custom on such occasions to invite a few distinguished outsiders of the nationality of the legation or embassy, but never strangers. The Japanese were the first to break the rule.

BIG SUM FOR MISSIONS.

Methodist Home Society Appropriates $900,000 and Asks Million and a Half.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TOPEKA (Kans.) Nov. 13.—The feature of today's meeting of the Home Missions Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was the appropriation of $900,000 for mission work in America, and the request for a million and a half for church extension. The funds are to be used largely for work at the frontier posts and in the city slums. Eighteen of the twenty bishops of America took part in the proceedings.

Of the $900,000 appropriated today, twenty-five per cent. was declared for church extension, and the balance for home missions. The sum of $41,000 was first deducted from the total for debts and about $100,000 for administration expenses. After the grand total had been decided upon, the rest of the day was occupied in apportioning the disbursements by States. California asked for one-fifth of the total appropriation for church extension, but the motion was laid on the table. During the debate on the ratio to be decided upon for church extension in conjunction with that of home missions a delegate declared:

"The ratio of four to one for home missions over church extension is not enough. You are taking too much for the work of piling up brick and stone, while the work for flesh and blood suffers just that much in proportion."

BALKAN SITUATION WAITS.

Courier With Expected Note from Austria-Hungary Has not Yet Reached St. Petersburg.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 13.—No progress was made today in the negotiations between the powers with regard to the Balkan situation. The courier with the expected note from the Austro-Hungarian government has not yet arrived here, and it is now said his communication probably will not be presented before next week. This delay is explained by the theory that Baron von Aehrenthal, the Austrian foreign minister, desires to note the progress of the negotiations between Austria-Hungary and Turkey before committing himself on the question of the international congress.

PERSIANS FORTIFYING.

Prepare to Resist Possible Advance of Russian Troops Toward Tabriz.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 13.—A special dispatch received here from Julfa, on the frontier between Persia and Russia, says a detachment of Persian nationalists has been sent by Satar Kahn from Tabriz, and is engaged in throwing up fortifications in the vicinity of Julfa for the purpose of resisting a possible Russian advance toward Tabriz.

IN DREAD OF EVIL SPIRITS.

Girl Says Fear of the Unseen Was Impressed on Her by Daytons.

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 13.—Interest here is at fever heat over the story told by Augustina Desuerre, aged 16 years, who was recovered from Los Angeles yesterday, where her mother had sought her for some time. The girl says spiritualistic influences were employed to take her from her home and induce her to go to Los Angeles with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Dayton. Subsequently Dayton's wife went to Santa Rosa. Mrs. Clement, mother of the girl, located her daughter in Los Angeles, day before yesterday. Dayton took alarm and went to Oakland. A warrant has been issued for his arrest and he will be brought here for trial.

The girl asserts that she objected to accompanying the Daytons south, but that the woman produced spirit rappings, table tippings, and other spiritualistic phenomena, and frightened her into accompanying the pair. During her stay in the south, the girl says, she was kept in a condition of abject fear of evil which would be done her by the spirits if she deserted the Daytons. Until her mother appeared, she asserts, she was unable to break away from her dread of the unseen influences.

DOUBTFUL DUEL.

INDICTED ON MURDER CHARGE.

THREE HELD FOR SLAYING OF CARMACK.

Col. Cooper, Robin Cooper and Ex-Sheriff Sharpe Charged With Death of Former Senator — Methodist Bishop Says Carmack's Words Were True and He Knew More.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The grand jury of Davidson county this afternoon returned an indictment against Col. Duncan B. Cooper, Robin Cooper and ex-Sheriff John D. Sharpe, charging them jointly with the murder of ex-Senator E. W. Carmack. Sharpe is also indicted on the charge of being accessory before the act. An examination of the indictment shows only a few State's witnesses were sent before the grand jury in the investigation. Six names appear on the back of the indictment, as follows: Mrs. Colby D. Carmack, Mrs. Charles Eastman, Carey Folk, Dr. James Wittenberg, Mrs. Martha Morgan and Miss Mary Skeffington.

The Mrs. Carmack is the widow of the dead man. Mrs. Eastman is the lady who was between the men when the trouble started. Carey Folk is deputy insurance commissioner, brother of Gov. Folk of Missouri, who passed along the street near the time of the killing. Dr. Wittenberg runs an optical establishment in the west end of the Arcade, and is supposed to have seen Sharpe walking with the Coopers. Miss Mary Skeffington is connected with the State library.

Col. Cooper and Sharpe, who have been occupying the same cell in jail, took the news very calmly. Many rumors are afloat regarding the tragedy.

BISHOP LAUDS VICTIM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COVINGTON (Tenn.) Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Resolutions, declaring that Edward Ward Carmack died a martyr to his convictions of duty to the cause of temperance and of righteousness, were adopted by a rising vote by the Memphis conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, today. Bishop Hoss created a sensation when he declared every word Carmack uttered in his editorials was true, and if Senator Carmack was killed for what he said, the bishop said he should also be killed for affirming the editorials. This startling declaration on the part of the bishop followed a statement that he did not really believe Carmack was killed for what he had said.

"He was killed for what they knew he would say," declared Bishop Hoss.

Five Hundred People See Heney Shot Down In Court.

LATEST REPORTS.

HENEY MAY RECOVER.

At Early Hour Report Is He Has Fighting Chance.

Physicians Hope to Locate the Bullet This Morning.

Prosecutor Has Rallied Completely from Shock.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At 2 o'clock this morning reports of the condition of Francis J. Heney indicate that he still has a fighting chance for recovery.

He has partially recovered the use of his vocal organs, which seemed to be paralyzed to such an extent by the shock from the assassin's bullet, and it is now believed that no permanent injury has been sustained to them.

The physicians in attendance at his bedside declare that he is resting easy, and that they hope to be able to locate the bullet in the muscles of his neck in the morning, unless some unforeseen complication sets in.

It is too early to predict whether there can be any evil effect, such as poisoning from the bullet, but it can be said that Heney has rallied completely from the first shock from the nearly fatal wound, and that there is no evidence now that he will not survive.

There is some talk of a mass-meeting of indignant citizens to be held in Walton's Pavilion during the morning, at which time it is hoped by some radical people to so stir up indignation that an attempt will be made to do violence to the various defendants in the graft cases and to the would-be assassin. But ample precautions have been taken by the police to forestall any such a demonstration, and tonight thirty men, armed with rifles and under command of Lieut. Mullender of the Mission Police Station, have been placed on guard at the County Jail to protect Morris Haas, the assailant, and Abe Ruef from a possible attack from the mob.

The posse was hurried to Ingleside soon after the prisoners were taken there, under the protection of a strong escort. The use of rifles in the police department seldom becomes necessary, but Chief Biggy is determined to take every precaution to ward off an attack. The men have also been given extra rifles and 200 rounds of ammunition.

Haas still maintains that he considered it was his duty to murder Heney, making long rambling statements about the special prosecutor having ruined his business and blasted his life.

Abe Ruef will say but little beyond bemoaning the fact that the occurrence of the shooting has done his cause untold damage that he may not be able to undo.

MASS MEETING MAY LEAD TO VIOLENCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A mass meeting has been called for today by the Citizens' League of Justice, the organization which has been supporting and financing the graft prosecution, to be held at the Dreamland rink.

To just what degree the crowds which will attend these mass meetings will be inflamed by speakers is problematical.

Today may see San Francisco stirred from center to circumference in the throes of a popular upheaval that may have serious results.

PRESIDENT HEARS OF ATTACK ON HENEY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The first information received at the White House tonight in regard to the attempted assassination of Francis J. Heney, was through the Associated Press.

No statement in this connection was given out tonight.

Last spring, Heney came to this city to confer with the President with regard to the prosecution of land fraud cases in the West. The President has entertained a warm personal regard for Mr. Heney for the vigorous manner in which he prosecuted these cases.

BAPTISTS CONDEMN SHOOTING OF HENEY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

FRESNO, Nov. 13.—The Baptist State convention in session here, tonight passed the following resolutions upon the attempted assassination of Francis J. Heney:

"Whereas, we have heard with sorrow of the attempted assassination of Francis J. Heney, therefore, be it,

"Resolved, that we hereby express our sympathy to those who are immediately affected, that we record again our appreciation of the purpose of the graft prosecution in San Francisco, for while our present information does not enable us to pass a calm judgment upon this tragedy, we call upon our people to renew their devotion to the great questions of civic righteousness which are now on trial in our republic."

ROMANCE OF GYPSY LIFE.

Fortune Teller Arrested After Long Pursuit by Sister of Her Murdered Husband.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

OAKLAND, Nov. 13.—A sister's desire to avenge her brother's murder and the unwavering love of a gypsy woman for one of her own tribe, are chapters of a tragic story unfolded to the police yesterday, when Rebecca Butler, a gypsy fortune teller, was arrested on a charge preferred by a rancher of North Yakima, Wash., who accuses her of having swindled him out of $3000.

The woman in custody was traced all over the country by Mrs. Rose Butler, sister of Henry Butler, a layman who chose the gypsy woman from her tribe and married her. Butler was shot and killed near Uktah, Cal., last June by Solomon Palmer, with whom Butler's wife was eloping. The wife's husband followed to obtain his two children, and in the quarrel that ensued was killed by Palmer, who, however, was afterward cleared. Palmer, who was high in the gypsy camp fire councils, was rejoined by Mrs. Butler, and the two have since wandered about the country after the fashion of their people.

HENEY SHOT DOWN.

back and there held down, just as the jury, attracted by the shot, came bursting through their private entrance.

As the man who fired the shot stepped back from the Assistant District Attorney with the smoking weapon in his hand, he kept his eyes on Heney, as if to see how effective his aim had been.

Heney arose from his chair, put his hands to his head, the blood streaming through his fingers and reddening the table in front of him, leaned over a moment, and was caught as he began to fall.

He was laid on the floor, Charles Oliver and John Foley, two special detectives connected with the District Attorney's office, holding his head out of the pool of blood, which flowed from a hole which appeared to be just below his right temple.

He was conscious, and when the Associated Press representative dropped down by his side and spoke to him, his first words were:

"Send for my wife."

MAKES "DYING" STATEMENT.

Dr. H. A. Fincks, who was in the courtroom at the time, rushed to Mr. Heney's side, made a hasty examination and pronounced him fatally wounded.

Heney was perfectly composed, the peculiar smile for which he is known was still hovering around his lips.

He evidently also believed that he was fatally hurt.

Turning his eyes to Mr. John O'Gara, his assistant in the trial, he said:

"I want to make a dying statement. I believe I am going to die. I was sitting at my table when I felt what I thought was a blow. I do not know who shot me. I was doing nothing to any one."

Ruef and his two attorneys, who were out on the sidewalk, were startled by the report of the shot, and started for the courtroom, but were forced down the steps by the crowd rushing frantically out, and police refusing to admit them.

RUEF IS AGITATED.

"What has happened?" shouted Ruef to the Associated Press representative as the latter ran out to the nearest telephone.

"Heney has been shot," was the reply.

"My God, who did that?" he asked.

Ruef's automobile stood in front of the building, and he immediately ordered the chauffeur to get the nearest physician. The car returned a few minutes later with Dr. A. S. Tuschler of No. 703 Van Ness avenue.

Medical assistance was somewhat slow in arriving and Dr. Tuschler was the first person on the scene. Heney in the meantime lying on his side in the courtroom with a piece of rug under his head.

It was some time before the ambulance arrived which conveyed the wounded Assistant District Attorney to the Central Emergency Hospital, but four blocks, from where he was removed about 3 p.m. to the Lane Hospital.

NEWS SPREADS QUICKLY.

The report of the attempted assassination spread throughout the city like wildfire and caused excitement and indignation.

An immense crowd gathered around Carpenters' Hall, to where Judge Lawlor had moved his court this week, on account of the lack of room and facilities in the temporary criminal court building.

Several hundred people followed the ambulance from the hall to the Central Emergency Hospital and downtown thousands gathered around the bulletin boards.

Within a few minutes after the shooting, Chief of Police W. J. Biggy, W. J. Burns, former United States Secret Service agent, who is at the head of special detectives employed by the prosecution in the bribery-graft cases; Rudolph Spreckels, the prominent capitalist who financed the prosecution; Captains of Police Gleeson, Duke and Wright, and a large force of police, were on the scene.

There was no hostile demonstration in the big crowd in front of the building, but some threatening murmurs began to be heard.

HAAS MAKES STATEMENT.

Ruef was surrounded by a large number of people and quietly slipped away, going with Dr. Tuschler to the latter's office for a little while. This led to a report that the former political boss had disappeared, and Special Agent Burns censured some of his men for allowing Ruef to get away, and Chief of Police Biggy immediately sent men to hunt for him.

Ruef, however, appeared in front of the building a little later, and sent in word that the officer at the door would not let him in. He was taken at once into the courtroom.

In the meanwhile several acts of the tragedy were being played in different parts of the courtroom. While Heney was lying on the floor, the newspapermen approached the would-be assassin, who up to that time had not yet been identified, and asked him for his name.

At first he refused to give it, then he said:

"I am Morris Haas. Heney ruined me. I don't care what becomes of me now."

In another corner of the building Ach and Dozier, Ruef's counsel, were in the chambers of Judge Lawlor.

ACH CONDEMNS SHOOTING.

"My God!" exclaimed Ach, "I wish I had never taken a criminal case in my life. I'll never take another when I get out of this one. This is a dastardly outrage. I cannot express myself in strong enough terms.

"Heney did not denounce this man Haas, if he is the one who did the shooting. In the pursuance of his duty, he disclosed the fact during the other trial of Mr. Ruef, that Haas was an ex-convict, and as such had him dismissed from the jury box. I sincerely hope that Heney will recover."

Dozier also regretted that he was engaged in a criminal case after having several times made a resolution that he would not again take one.

"It's getting to be a pretty state of civilization when a man engaged in the pursuance of his duty is shot down in an open court-room. It was a dastardly act, an outrageous deed."

Ruef also denounced the attempted assassination most vehemently.

"I was outside in front of the building talking to my attorneys when we heard the shot," said he. "We tried to get in but were stopped by the crowd that rushed out. The first that I knew that it was Heney who had been shot, was when a newspaper man came running out and shouted it to me as he ran up the street. I immediately ordered my chauffeur to take my car and get the nearest physician that he could find. I cannot find language strong enough to denounce the attempt to kill Heney."

Even before Heney had been removed from the court-room, Captain of Police Duke took Haas in charge, and after informing him that whatever he might say would be used against him, began to interrogate him, the statement of the ex-convict being taken down in shorthand.

Haas was convicted of embezzlement in San Bernardino county, and on May 15, 1888, was sentenced to three years in San Quentin. He served two years and eight months, having earned four months by good behavior, and was released on January 25, 1890.

Some years later he was married and has a wife and four children. He lived with his family at No. 1848 McAllister street, and was engaged in the saloon business at the time he was drawn upon the jury panel for the second Ruef trial, last May.

RUEF REARRESTED.

After being passed by both sides, Heney learned that he was an ex-convict. He dramatically confronted Haas with his picture in convict stripes, closely-cropped hair and a number across his breast. Haas was forced to admit his penitentiary record and was immediately discharged from the jury.

From his statement, it appears that he has been brooding over his exposure ever since that day, and has nursed a deep hatred of Heney which culminated in today's tragedy.

At 5:15 p.m. Judge Lawlor reconvened court. He had already sent the jury to the St. Francis Hotel in charge of deputy sheriffs.

As soon as a semblance of order was restored, the court ordered Ruef, who has been at liberty on bonds aggregating $1,500,000, into the custody of the Sheriff, and he was soon afterward taken to the County Jail. His counsel, Ach and Dozier, offered formal objections to the action of the court.

FEAR OF MOB VIOLENCE.

Dozier then demanded that Gallagher, the witness, be also ordered into the custody of the Sheriff until his cross-examination had been finished. This was refused by the court.

The action of Judge Lawlor in ordering Ruef into custody was taken, it is said, not so much for fear that he would endeavor to flee, as for his own safety from possible mob violence.

Evidently fearing that some demonstration might be made also against the would-be assassin, the police removed Haas tonight from the city prison. It could not be learned whither he had been taken.

"I'll live to prosecute that man," declared Heney on the operating table at the Central Emergency Hospital, while the surgeons were probing his wound.

The wounded assistant district attorney was entirely conscious and grittily endured the ordeal.

Mrs. Heney arrived at the hospital a few minutes after her husband had been taken there, and later accompanied him to the Lane Hospital, where she is at his bedside tonight.

After an informal consultation, Drs. Terry, Moffitt and Bunnell announced at 9 o'clock tonight that the patient was resting easy, and that at 11 o'clock the doctors would determine whether to use an X-ray or probe for the bullet.

COURSE OF BULLET.

The bullet entered the right cheek, and passed through the head underneath the brain cavity, finding lodgment in the region of the left ear.

The Associated Press was the first to receive and send out the news of the attempted assassination of Heney, even being the first to give it to the local papers. So great and intense was the interest in the case that the Associated Press office was soon deluged with inquiries, not only from all parts of the city, but by telephone and telegraph from all sections of the State.

HAAS QUESTIONED.

For more than an hour Haas was interrogated by Capt. Duke and W. J. Burns. Haas made a rambling statement, declaring one moment that he had determined to kill Heney and saying in the next that he hoped Heney would not die, and that he had nothing against him, but doggedly maintained all the time that neither Ruef nor his attorneys had anything to do with getting him on the jury in Ruef's previous trial, or with his attempt to assassinate the Assistant District Attorney.

"My name is Morris Haas," said he. "Yes, I shot Heney. He ruined my life. Heney pronounced his own death sentence when he denounced me in court. I have had no business at all since that time. It was an outrage of Heney to do that.

"I am the wronged man, not he. People ostracised me; they would not even look at me any more. Heney had no right to do that. My conviction and serving in the penitentiary was public record. Why didn't he look into that.

"My God! I have a wife and four children. Do you think I would have brought those children into the world to have them branded that way through Heney's exposure of me in that way? I don't care what becomes of me now. You can hang me or do anything you want with me."

"FOR HUMANITY'S SAKE."

Haas asked Burns to take some cigars from one of his pockets, retain one himself and give him one, as he could talk better then. He also asked repeatedly that the handcuffs be taken from his wrists, saying "I won't hurt you."

It developed from Haas's replies to questions put to him that today was the first time he was in the courtroom in Carpenter's Hall, and the third time that he had attended Ruef's present trial.

He said that he had spent some time today in a nickelodeon on Fillmore street, saying that he "went there to hide because it was dark," and went home about 2 o'clock, feeling "miserable." At 3:30 he left his home and walked to the courtroom, arriving there a little after 4, just after a recess had been taken.

Pressed again and again by his interrogators, as to why he had shot Heney, Haas said:

"I will give you a reason. I did it just for humanity's sake."

"Why didn't you shoot Ruef for humanity's sake?"

"Because Ruef did not denounce me that day. Oh, what I have suffered since then—don't talk. I had to do it. I didn't take any revenge upon Mr. Heney. I absolutely didn't."

MANY SAW SHOOTING.

Four uniformed policemen were in the hall, half a dozen of the prosecution's special detectives within a few feet, one of them detailed especially as his bodyguard to see that no attempt was made upon his life, and several court bailiffs, and attaches scattered about the special prosecutor who was shot in sight of 500 persons.

As news of the shooting spread through the city, crowds assembled about the newspaper offices where bulletins were displayed, and a gathering of 200 persons or more stood about in front of the Lane Hospital until late at night waiting for news of the condition of the wounded man.

So uncertain was the temper of these gatherings that the police officials decided to keep a strong guard about the County Jail at Ingleside, where Haas and Ruef were lodged. Thirty extra patrolmen were detailed to strengthen the jail guard, while the reserves from the Potrero and South districts were assembled and kept in quarters at the station houses throughout the night, ready for any emergency.

WIFE AT BEDSIDE.

Throughout the night Mrs. Heney remained at her husband's bedside, bearing up well under her fear of the consequences of his wound.

Every few minutes until a late hour automobiles or carriages arrived at the hospital door bearing friends of the injured man, anxious to hear the latest bulletins as to his condition. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Spreckels, who made several trips to the hospital, usually accompanied by Detective W. J. Burns.

From the moment the attorney was removed from the courtroom to the Emergency Hospital, Mr. Spreckels was at his side until he was finally established at Lane Hospital.

There was a rumor afloat tonight that Detective John Foley, Mr. Heney's special bodyguard, and one of the first to seize Haas after the shooting, had been relieved from his post, but Detective Burns, when asked as to this, refused to make any statement.

HINT OF VIOLENCE.

Although there were no demonstrations among the crowds, it was noticeable there was a hint of violence in the general attitude of those who composed the gatherings. It is believed it would have taken but little to incite riot with Haas as the object of the mob's wrath.

Discussing the shooting tonight, Detective Burns said:

"I think Heney owes his life to the fact that Haas fired downward. Had Heney been on his feet it is doubtful if anything could have saved him. Several persons saw Haas approach and one at least saw that he had a gun, but all were paralyzed with fear, or some other emotion, and unable to move in time to prevent the shooting."

The Citizens' League of Justice was assembled tonight and adopted a resolution, which in effect is an expression of public indignation at the attack of Heney. It was announced the League had called a mass-meeting to convene tomorrow to consider the subject further.

Two popular mass-meetings have been announced to be held on Sunday, the subject to be the attack on Heney.

Resolutions of public confidence in Heney and the work of the graft prosecution will be presented.

Hiram Johnson, Charles S. Wheeler and other prominent attorneys of this city, hastened to Mr. Spreckels tonight to volunteer their services in carrying on the work that Heney is forced to lay down, at least for a time. No announcement of what would be done as to these offers was made public.

Mr. Spreckels, in discussing the shooting of Heney, shortly after he had heard the news, said it was getting to be a matter beyond the courts when law-abiding citizens were held up in mockery on the streets, and such things as the attack on the District Attorney could occur.

"It is time drastic measures were used to suppress the reign of lawlessness," he said.

HENEY'S HARSH METHOD AROUSED HAAS'S ANGER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] During a brief intermission today in the Ruef case, Francis J. Heney, chief prosecutor in the graft cases and Assistant District Attorney, was shot by Morris Haas, and is now lying at a hospital in a serious condition. The shooting was the result of an exposure of Haas's criminal record made by Heney in a previous trial of Abe Ruef for the Parkside bribery cases.

Heney had been in Judge Lawlor's court all day trying the case of bribery of Supervisor Furey. When court adjourned James Folley, his bodyguard, who usually sticks very close to the lawyer to guard against any attack, had walked to the rear of the room. Heney was seated at a small table at the side of the courtroom and was talking with Al McCabe, one of the deputies in Dist.-Atty. Langdon's office.

Suddenly Morris Haas, liquor dealer, who had been a venireman in the Ruef Parkside bribery case, sauntered into the courtroom, came up behind Heney and pulling out his pistol shot him in the right temple. He fell out of his chair while McCabe grappled with Haas and prevented him from firing a second shot. Heney was rushed to the hospital and Haas was taken to the city prison.

Haas, who is an undersized German, was in a wildly excited state but declared that he had shot Heney because Heney in the Parkside bribery case had first accepted him as a juror and then had had him rejected because he claimed Haas was an ex-convict and therefore unfit to serve on a jury.

"I shot him," Haas shouted, "to get even for humiliating me."

Judge Lawlor had adjourned court for a five-minute intermission. The jury had retired to an adjoining room. Former Supervisor Gallagher was in the witness chair, and Heney, seated at a table a few feet away, was talking with him. Haas came in, walked behind Heney, and, without a word, when only four feet away, fired a thirty-eight-caliber Smith & Wesson revolver, hitting Heney in the right temple.

OBSERVERS STUNNED.

As soon as Heney was shot, Judge Lawler ordered the doors of the courtroom closed, and no one was allowed to leave. The trial has been carried on in Carpenters Hall, No. 130 Fulton street. The room is small, and was crowded with spectators. There was no violence attempted toward Haas, the people in the courtroom and the judge apparently being stunned by the enormity of the deed.

Heney lay on the dirty floor of the courtroom, his head was propped up by overcoats, while Dr. H. E. Franck, who was the first physician to reach his side, examined the wounded man. Franck, after an examination, gave it as his opinion that Heney could not recover, as the bullet had penetrated the brain. The wounded man was then removed in an ambulance, and Haas, heavily guarded by police, was taken away to jail.

After the crowd in the courtroom recovered from their first amazement, they clamored to get at Haas, but the officers had jammed him into a corner of the jury box, and no one was allowed to get near him. Haas was under the influence of liquor, and talked wildly. He said:

STATEMENT OF HAAS.

"Heney ruined my business by exposing my prison record. I wouldn't consider myself fit to live if I had not killed him. I did it for the benefit of humanity. There are thousands who wanted me to do it."

Then after a moment he said:

"I have everything to live for. I have a wife and children. But I couldn't help shooting this man, even if I hang for it. He had done to me what no man can forgive. He had injured and humiliated me."

Haas seemed greatly excited and he talked in a maudlin, drunken way. It was plainly evident he had nerved himself for the deed by the liberal use of whisky. He has not a bad face, his eyes being pleasant, but his mouth shows cruel lines. He is short, but a very powerful man.

Within a few minutes after the shooting, Detective William J. Burns arrived at the courtroom in an automobile, accompanied by Rudolph Spreckels. Together they stood over the bleeding form of the special prosecutor, and they superintended his removal to the Emergency Hospital.

THE EXCITEMENT.

Outside the courtroom the news flew rapidly and created the most intense excitement. The district around Van Ness avenue and Fulton street, where the temporary courtroom is located, was soon jammed with an excited crowd, eager to hear the news. It seemed incredible that so many people could be gathered in a few minutes. There were some who shouted to lynch the assassin, but the police cautioned these men to keep quiet.

THE CAUSE OF THE CRIME.

The incident which led Haas to shoot Heney occurred in Judge Dooling's court April 24 last. Ten jurors had been secured to try Ruef in the Parkside bribery case. Heney arose and in dramatic manner declared he had evidence that one of the men on the jury was unfit to serve.

Taking from his pocket a police identification card, Heney walked over to the railing behind which the jurors sat, and showing the photograph to Haas, asked him if he knew the man. Unnerved by the suddenness of the disclosure, Haas stammered an acknowledgment that the photograph was of himself and then requested that he be spared the disgrace of publicity. Heney, however, was relentless.

"You have been convicted of a felony, have you not?" he asked, "and have served a term in San Quentin?"

The juror admitted that he had, but protested that he had been pardoned and had been restored to citizenship. That was in 1888 and he had been convicted at San Bernardino of embezzlement. The man on whose accusation he had been sent to prison, Charles Lessinger, had subsequently committed suicide by jumping out of a window of the Waldeck Sanatorium.

"I asked to be relieved from serving on the jury when I was first called," added Haas, "but was refused. I did not want to tell of an experience which would bring disgrace on me after all these years."

The episode brought Frank Murphy of Ruef's counsel to his feet with a protest. He thought it scandalous that public odium should be thrust on Haas, when, if the District Attorney's office had told the defense privately of this discovery, the juror would have been quietly excused.

"I have no doubt of that," said Heney, "but I doubt if you knew of an ex-felon being in the jury box. and we did not know that you would say anything about it."

"If I were guilty of pursuing the same methods which you pursue, that might be so," retorted Murphy hotly.

Haas left the court, with tears in his eyes, and most of those who saw his humiliation were sorry for the man.

LANGDON SCORES THE PROSECUTION ENEMIES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

FRESNO, Nov. 13.—District Attorney William H. Langdon of San Francisco tonight gave the following stenographic interview to the Associated Press:

"The slanderous, lying, boughten press should now be satisfied, since it accomplished the purpose it set out to do, namely bring about a sensation.

"Not having been contented with the assassination of men's characters, they have resorted to the barbarous methods of removing from their sphere of action and usefulness, the men whose duty and sense of right impel them to oppose the nefarious schemes of rich criminals.

"The noisy portion of the public has tried to create the impression for some months that the prosecution should be stopped, as it was injuring business. The great mass of the people, however, upon every opportunity they have had to speak through the ballot, have stood squarely for the continuance of the graft prosecution.

IS OPTIMISTIC.

"I am optimistic enough to believe it will always be so in any community, however far it may drift from the higher ideas that should be found in civic life, in city, State and nation.

"The great mass of the people stand for civic decency, common honesty, in public and private affairs, and though they may be misled for a time, yet they are inherently honest and in the long run will uphold the right and condemn the wrong.

"I do not think it would be proper or opportune to express an opinion as to the effect this attempted assassination will have upon the graft prosecution, as I feel that the loss of the life of a man like Heney would make any success far too costly.

PROSECUTION TO GO ON.

"However, the graft prosecution will go on. Neither kidnaping, bribery, dynamiting or assassination will paralyze the arm of the law. The law must be enforced, the prosecution must be carried to a successful termination or anarchy must be admitted to hold sway in San Francisco. That admission will never be made.

"The cause of good government has received a severe shock by the attempted assassination of Heney, one of its leading advocates, who has been absolutely unselfish in his services to the public. I know positively that Heney has given his entire time to the public service without one dollar of compensation either given or promised. There are few men in this country who possess the traits of character which make Heney the indomitable, fearless, persevering prosecutor that he is known to be.

"I trust Heney will recover, and I hope the press of California—that portion of the press which has been unjustifiably hostile to the graft prosecution—will realize the error of its way, and will hereafter support and sustain the cause of good government, regardless of the personality of the men engaged in the work.

NO VIGILANTES.

"The hostile press should realize that it is one of the causes of the divided sentiment in San Francisco. It has caused Haas to be found, who, in open court, and in the presence of many persons, should wantonly shoot down a public prosecutor. The press and the men who have undoubtedly primed and encouraged Haas to wreak vengeance upon Heney from a fancied wrong, arising out of the public work, are to blame entirely for the tragedy of today."

Mr. Langdon was asked if he believed the attempted assassination of Heney would give rise to a vigilante committee. He said:

"I am a law officer of the county of San Francisco. I shall use every means within my power to suppress any movement of that kind, should it be suggested or started. I believe in enforcing the law through the regularly organized channels.

"While it may be a slow and tedious method, yet it is the safest and best, and the only one that will be tolerated."

ter, upon whose aid and advice, and above all, upon whose staunch and steadfast loyalty I could rely in any and all occasions. No President could wish more total and hearty support than you always have given me. I thank you for it; I shall miss you when you leave the Cabinet, and I wish you well in whatever work you may undertake and wherever your life may lead.

With regret, therefore, I accept your resignation to take effect upon the 1st of December.

With all good wishes, faithfully yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

CABINET CHANGE CONSIDERED.

NEWBERRY POPULAR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Truman H. Newberry, the new Secretary of the Navy, is one of the most successful of the younger men called to public life by President Roosevelt. For some time during the illness of Mr. Metcalf he has virtually been at the head of the department and has made an enviable reputation. President Roosevelt regards him as one of the distinct "finds" of his administration.

Whether or not Mr. Newberry is to remain in the Cabinet under President Taft no one knows.

Although it has not as yet been officially disclosed, there is reason to believe that President Roosevelt and President-elect Taft have an understanding as to the future of Mr. Loeb.

It seems to be pretty settled that Mr. Root is to be the new Senator from New York despite the dissatisfaction felt by former Gov. Black and Mr. Woodruff, both of whom are very ambitious.

While no positive statement can be made at this time, all the indications are that the new Secretary of State, after March 4, will be George von Lengerke Meyer, the present Postmaster-General. Mr. Meyer is one of the present Cabinet who is sure to be retained by President Taft.

It has been generally supposed that Mr. Taft would want Mr. Meyer to take the Treasury Department, but the present probabilities are that, if Mr. Root leaves the State Department the present Postmaster-General will be his successor.

U. S. TERRY APPOINTED.

GOVERNMENT OFFICE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The President today appointed George S. Terry to be Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New York in succession to Hamilton Fish.

Mr. Terry served as assistant treasurer of the Republican National Committee under Treasurer George R. Sheldon.

The Assistant Treasurership of New York was first offered to Job E. Hedges, who declined the honor.

OUR OWN MAKE.

HOME PRODUCTS NOW THE THING.

"MADE HERE" EXHIBIT WILL BE BIG DRAWING CARD.

Demand for Local Goods Already Increased Because of Next Week's Big Demonstration, and Much Good Already Is Noted—Winner of Prize in Advertisement Contest.

The wide publicity given to the movement to boost home products has already increased the demand for local manufactures, and all the merchants of Los Angeles are preparing for an unusually active trade next week.

In connection with "Prosperity Week," a number of business men have prepared short, pithy advertisements for The Times, calling attention to the brands which they have pushed as their exclusive products. The list is instructive, ranging from soap and olive oil to schools and feathers.

This is believed to be a favorable time for calling attention to wares made and sold by Angeleños, as the attention of the purchasing public is now directed toward all things made here.

"Made in Los Angeles" will be a slogan for the coming week. And until one has investigated the vast range of manufactures here, he will have no idea of the many articles that are strictly home products.

In the announcements appearing in The Times are more than a score of separate heads. There are jewels, olives, soaps, beans, cigars, automobiles, tamales, poultry foods, portable houses, beer, paper, fish, ostrich feathers, office fixtures, furnaces and many other articles covering a wide field.

Inasmuch as the merchants and manufacturers are the ones who make possible such celebrations as the Fiesta and the entertainment of Shriners and the Elks, they believe that loyal citizens will be willing to patronize home industries at least for one week. And if for one week, why not for all time, if articles as good as the imported can be made and sold in this city?

As many small firms push the products of eastern concerns because of larger profit, it appears that the citizens must be educated to ask for home products. Business cards, such as are appearing in The Times, serve to drive in the argument that loyal residents of this city should patronize home manufactures.

The Chamber of Commerce expects that the result of "Prosperity Week" will be felt for months, perhaps for all time, as the buyers when once accustomed to home brands will probably always use them in preference to those made in the East.

F. B. Silverwood has won the prize offered by the Chamber of Commerce Committee on Publicity for the best display advertisement of home products for Prosperity Week. A great banner will be made to commemorate the event, and will be carried in the industrial parade on Wednesday next, and afterward will be given to Mr. Silverwood, to use as he sees fit. The banner will be appropriately inscribed, and will be an elaborate affair. Nine hundred and twelve copies of the Silverwood advertisement were sent in to the Chamber of Commerce, while Bishop & Co., the next nearest competitor, had a total of 680.

The Auto Vehicle Company ran a close race with John W. Makin for third place, 103 advertisements of the auto company being received, while Makin got 102 votes.

The Southern California Wine Company received 61 votes, and there were many scattering votes.

ELKS TUG FOR A TOUCHDOWN.

Big Attendance Today Will Put Ball Over Line.

Lucky Thousands Loot Country Grocery Store.

Greatest Crowd of Festival Is Expected Today.

"Emperor William of Germany" and "King Edward VII of England" were visitors at the Elks' Harvest Festival at Shriners' Auditorium last night. Emperor William was irritated because his opinions were criticised, and King Edward, who had heard of the festival, wired just in time to catch the Emperor in a wanderlust mood. They took Count Zeppelin's airship and reached Los Angeles about 9 o'clock in the evening, the mighty balloon alighting easily in front of the big, blazing Auditorium.

Accompanying them was the Count himself, carrying a satchel of money. They were lavish spenders at all the booths, especially when it was found that the coins, instead of being 25 gold pieces, were bright pennies. During the evening they put 2000 coins in circulation.

Emperor William was Frank Dorner, treasurer of the Liberal Alliance, and King Edward was C. R. Coleman. Count Zeppelin was Harry Earle of the Belasco Theater. The impersonation of each man was the hit of the evening.

Thirty-five hundred was the attendance last night, and the crowd was representative of the Woodmen of the World, Women of Woodcraft and the German-American Alliance. It was the snappiest night of the whole week. The accretions to the original programme were so numerous that the three-ring circus was insignificant in comparison. With two drills going on in the dancing inclosure by teams of the Woodmen, and the theatrical programme on the stage, the ballyhoos all in good voice and the grocery besieged by the biggest crowd of the week, the Elks wore smiles of satisfaction.

NEAR A TOUCHDOWN.

"It's a hummer," said Chairman Flint. "It may not beat Wednesday night, which has the banner so far, but it is the most aggressive, pushing bunch we have yet had. The way things are looking we will push the $20,000 goal pretty close by tomorrow midnight, even if we don't make a touchdown. Every vote should come today and help put the ball over."

Today's matinée promises to begin a climax that will be the complete triumph of the Elks. It is the last day of the festival, and the matinée is "open to the world." The night programme is under the auspices of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, United Commercial Travelers' Association, Railway Mail Association, The Eagles, Royal Court and Modern Woodmen of America. Preparations are being made for the biggest crowd of the week, both for the matinée and evening each being replete with good things calculated to round out and finish the great spectacle.

Last night's programme was full of life and action. There were five drills by companies of Woodmen and Women of Woodcraft, the regular stage programme, and an interpolated number by the Turnverein Germania, in which sixteen girls, half dressed as boys, executed some pretty dances, under the direction of Dr. Carl Ross.

RAID ON GROCERY.

The night would have proved a Waterloo for the grocery had not the Elks had such an inexhaustible stock. The shelves have been kept full every night, but last night the raid almost emptied them and the baskets that were carried away bore silent testimony to the success of the raid. But the wily Elks have the stock to put back on the shelves for this afternoon and tonight, and those in the final charge may get the best loot.

The grotesque parade in charge of the Native Sons and Daughters, which will begin at 7:30 o'clock tonight, has expanded a little in numbers and features, and promises to be one of the hits of the week. It will march from Sixth and Hill streets to Broadway, thence north to First, thence east to Spring and south to Ninth street, where it will disband. The Elks' Marching Club, the letter carriers and the rough riders will be the first part, and the grotesque features will be the second. All the features of the second have not been made public because the Native Sons want to spring some surprises in comic creations.

At 12 o'clock tonight the festival proper will end, but the grand drawing of prizes will not take place until Monday evening. As fully 15,000 persons are interested in this drawing, and as the aggregate value of the prizes is in excess of $25,000, the attendance record is likely to be beaten. The drawing itself will be a spectacle, as there are thousands of articles to be drawn and the lucky winners are expected to take them away without delay.

Figures from the grocery booth give an idea of the magnitude of its business alone. At the close of Thursday night's business, 18,262 articles had been drawn at the store. The greatest number was on Wednesday night, when 6042 were drawn. Thursday night was second, with 4710, Tuesday third with 4116, and Monday night lowest, with 3393. By appearances last night the record of Wednesday night is in danger, when the count is made this morning.

TODAY'S PROGRAMME.

The programmes for today are:

Afternoon—Special music furnished on stage by members of the Venetian Lady Mandolin Orchestra, Josephine Frankel, directress; interpolated numbers; bass solo, "O Golden Land of Peace," George A. Carr; songs and dances, Petite Baby Brown; baritone solo, "Queen of the Earth," soloist, Frederick Bowdidge; child singer, solos by Miss Jean Davidson; costumed act, violin and vocal, "The Strollers," Master Harvey Johnston, Miss Sibyl Anne Marie Johnston; soprano solo, "Tosti's Good-by," Mrs. L. V. Rhea; intermediate numbers by the Venetian Lady Orchestra.

Evening—Fancy drills by companies of Modern Woodmen of America; overture, Kammermeyer Orchestra; Kaleidoscopic Pageantry of magnificently costumed lady participants of the Elks' Harvest Festival in grand march; address of welcome, by Brother John G. Mott, member of No. 99, B.P.O.E.; monologue, F. W. King; solo, "Old Song," Mrs. Marguerite Walker; songs and dances by Petite Baby Brown; whistling solo, "The Frog and the Nightingale," Nell Howard Murray, D. R. McGlashen, accompanist; assembly ball entered into by participants, visitors and patrons.

NEW YORKERS BOOST.

State Society at Monthly Meeting Gives a Helping Hand to "Prosperity Week."

A big lift to "Prosperity Week" was given by the New York State Society at its monthly meeting last night at Maple Hall, Fraternal Brotherhood building, South Figueroa street. Banners and pennants calling attention to the great week to come were displayed at every available point, and it truly was a home products night, though the participants all were imported originally from the Empire State.

A charming musical and literary programme was given early in the evening, and later the five hundred attendants, mostly members of the society, which now numbers nearly eight hundred, adjourned to the banquet-room, where a tempting repast was served by the ladies of the organization. President F. G. Haley presided, but the affair was entirely informal and there was no speechmaking. Many recent arrivals from New York were greeted.

GETS A NEW TRIAL.

Judgment in Imperial County Criminal Case Reversed on Account of Court's Instruction.

An instruction given by the judge of the Superior Court of Imperial county in a criminal case, is considered a ground for a reversal of judgment by the Second District Court of Appeals. In an opinion handed down yesterday, George W. Charles, convicted of the robbery of a pool hall proprietor, is granted a new trial. The portion of the court's instruction complained of was: "Evidence is to be estimated not only by its intrinsic weight, but also according to the evidence which it is in the power of one side to produce and of the other to contradict. Therefore if weaker and less satisfactory evidence is offered when it appears that stronger and more satisfactory evidence was within the power of the party to produce, the evidence offered should be viewed with distrust."

Charles did not testify in his own behalf, but two witnesses who had seen him on the night of the robbery endeavored to prove an alibi. The appellate court cites the case of the People against Cuff, as an authority for its view of the case.

SEEKS DEATH WHEN HURT.

Chinese Peddler, Injured in Runaway Accident, Drinks Poison in the Receiving Hospital.

Lee Chow, a Chinese vegetable peddler, was thrown from his wagon yesterday morning and terribly injured. The celestial was driving a fractious horse when the animal became frightened and ran away pitching him out.

The wheels passed over his face, crushing his left jaw bone and tearing his scalp. His right wrist was broken.

F. S. Gates of No. 732 Kohler street was passing the corner when the accident occurred. He stopped his large automobile and with the assistance of F. W. Anderson, a motorman of Glendale, he lifted the injured man into the swift car and hurried him to the Receiving Hospital.

After his injuries had been dressed, Chow took advantage of the surgeon's absence from the room and drank about a quart of bichloride solution. Most of the antiseptic he spat out, thereby saving himself from serious consequences.

NEW ENGLAND SUPPER.

The New Hampshire Society will serve a New England supper at Tuesday night's meeting in Burbank Hall.

DESPERATE.

BREAKS FOR FREEDOM FROM POLICE LAIR.

WHILE being detained in the detectives' office at the Police Station yesterday afternoon, Robert A. Taylor, a politician, charged with issuing several forged checks, made a bold dash for liberty. He was chased for several blocks before he was captured by Detective Grant Roberds. When Taylor was safely lodged in jail once more, he stated he did not mean to escape, but wanted to get away long enough to secure money with which to make the checks good. He was committed, however, without bail.

In a complaint sworn to by Capt. C. H. Hance, City Treasurer, Taylor is charged with forging the name of John P. Taylor to a check for $38. It was drawn on the Traders' Bank of Los Angeles, and was returned marked "no funds."

The police also have a check drawn on the same bank for the same amount which was cashed by John N. Hunt, County Treasurer. To this check was signed the name of George Stewart, which the bank declares is a forgery.

Frank Mason, a saloon-keeper, also holds a check written by Taylor for $12 on the same bank.

Taylor admitted passing the checks yesterday, the detectives say, but declares that he has money enough to cover the respective amounts. The warrants were issued for his arrest about a month ago and Taylor has been dodging the police since that time. He was arrested at his home at No. 1016 East Forty-third street, when he went there to visit his parents.

Taylor was at one time in the city street department and has held several other petty municipal jobs. Capt. Hance says that he has known Taylor for some time. About a month ago Taylor rushed into the City Treasurer's office and presented the check which he asked Mr. Hance to cash. He said that the check was written by his brother.

In the same manner he victimized County Treasurer Hunt and Mason. Capt. Hance gave Taylor a chance to make the check good, it is said, but that he failed to do it and consequently a warrant was issued for his arrest.

After Taylor was taken to the Police Station he was left in the private detectives' office, while Detectives Chapman and Horne were making out his commitment. He saw the opportunity and quietly slipped out a private door into the hallway. Detective Roberds saw him tiptoe out, and when he called for Taylor to stop, the latter ran. He was captured at Fifth and Hill streets with the assistance of citizens.

SLASHING.

BUBBLES IS NO MATCH FOR AD.

Wolgast Shows His Superiority in Every Round.

Colored Boy Did Little but Run Foot Race.

Clarence English Wins from Herberts in Bloody Bout.

Ad Wolgast beat Bubbles Robinson, ten rounds.

Clarence English beat George Herberts, ten rounds.

"Hobo" Dougherty and Jap Togo, draw, six rounds.

Young Sinnet knocked out Roy Rogers, four rounds.

Ad Wolgast is a boy who can hit just as hard with one hand as he can with the other. He shines at swinging, glitters with toughness, scintillates at infighting, and beams with self-protection. He seems good at everything. He bores in with his head down and with his hands before his face, peers from behind his fists and frightens his opponent into the belief that he cannot be hit. For these and various other reasons he easily beat young Bubbles Robinson last night before a large crowd at McCarey's weekly boxing show at the Naud Junction pavilion.

Robinson was thrashed before he entered the ring. He backed up in front of too much class, and knowing that he was beaten when the race began, he found himself bringing up the rear at the finish.

Bubbles is a good preliminary kid, but he has no business with such as Wolgast, for he would be thrashed a dozen times a day in fighting that kind. Of what use is all one's knowledge of boxing and feinting if the other fellow will not stop when he is punched? Bubbles learned this early in the battle last night and took the wisest course open to him, and the only one, and this was in running away. He footraced to beat the band in every round, with Wolgast in close pursuit. Always on the run, Bubbles had practically nothing but an uppercut that Wolgast almost invariably caught on his arms.

FIERCE SLUGGING.

Once or twice in the fierce slugging that Bubbles was forced into to save himself, while backed against the ropes, he caught Wolgast with swings on the face, but these merely made Wolgast shake his head and charge in for more. Half way through the fight the kid spit blood, but that only made him chase harder after Robinson. There never was a time that he was in danger and from the first going to the last one, the only thing in the uneven fight was whether or not Bubbles could stay the ten rounds. He stayed, but that is about all that can be said about him, for he did not make much of a showing.

There was little difference in any of the rounds, for in the first Bubbles started to back up and run away and he didn't stop until they shook hands at the finish. Wolgast laced him some fearful swings in every round but the black boy gamely stuck it out to the finish and while he slugged back desperately at times, his blows seemed to lack force or direction or something, for Wolgast never eased up. Bubbles's face was swollen and his lips bled in every round, for Wolgast's clips and leads and swings rasped that sore mouth from beginning to end. Wolgast's face was little marked.

Wolgast started on Bubbles hard in the first round by running him into a corner and slugging him with hard rights and lefts to the neck. The attack was so fiercely sudden that it took the starch out of the colored boy and he was easy after that. In the second round Wolgast hit him low in charging forward in a clinch and Bubbles backed away, holding his groin while Wolgast was swinging rights and lefts to the head. The blow hurt but it was probably not a foul one, although a few of the bugs thought so. In this round, as in the third, Wolgast allowed Bubbles to swing on his face, uppercut him and clip him with rights, but he merely turned his head and bored in. In the fifth, Wolgast began playing for the colored boy's stomach and such blows made the latter more afraid.

Bubbles was very bloody in the seventh and weak and wobbly and it appeared as if he would be knocked out, but he managed to run away and save himself.

BLOODY PRELIM.

Clarence English and George Herberts in the semi-final of ten rounds, furnished one of the most bloody scraps seen here in many months, and although English won all the way, Herberts never quit and forced the battle in almost every round, except the last. A stream of gore flowed from his right eye, starting in the second round, and it not only made his face gory, but trickled and splashed over on English's shoulder and body, and all through the fight he was marked with red streaks. It was a fierce scrap from the start, with never an idle moment and the slugging was fast and furious in every round. The sports expected either one to be knocked out in any round, but the generalship of English carried him through to a victory at the end, and while he gave Herberts an awful mauling, he took something of a beating himself.

The curtain-raiser of six rounds between Roy Rogers and Young Sinnet lasted but four rounds, and Sinnet knocked out Rogers. He put him down in the first round, again in the second, and four times in the fourth; and the last time was a knockout from a right to the jaw. Sinnet is a fierce little thing and will beat a lot of boys around here.

The second prelim between Hobo Dougherty and the Jap Togo, was a wild slugging match and was about an even thing. Although the Jap did the greater part of the forcing, he was generally met by straight lefts from Dougherty, receiving a swollen eye in the melee.

The card was a very good one and certainly furnished a big lot of excitement for the big crowd of bugs, who paid more than $2000 for the fun.

BARRY GOES EAST.

MAY MEET JEANETTE HERE.

Jim Barry, the heavyweight who beat Jim Flynn and Battling Johnson here, left last night at 8 o'clock for New Orleans. He expects to return in three or four weeks, when Manager McCarey of the Pacific Athletic Club has promised him a match with Joe Jeanette, the big negro who has fought Jack Johnson several times.

Barry stated last night that he would like to get on with Al Kaufman and that McCarey had offered them a $5000 purse. Barry had agreed to cut this any way Kaufman wanted and even winner take all, but Delaney wired back that other arrangements had been made. It is queer that Kaufman should sidestep all the live ones and go around the country trying to pick off the comparatively easy pugs. Guess Delaney is not a fox.

Coffroth Stung Once.

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 13.—James Coffroth, the San Francisco fight promoter is making a determined effort to save $75 bail money posted by him for the release of Harry Monahan, Robert Farrelly, and Harry Warner, in charge of his Gans-Nelson fight pictures, who were arrested in Visalia last month upon complaint of George May, a Bakersfield transfer man.

May alleges battery as a result of a fight he had in unsuccessfully attempting to prevent Monahan and his companions from boarding a train after having refused to pay him a $3 transfer bill.

Coffroth posted bail for the appearance of the men in court last Saturday. They did not appear and in his endeavor to save the $75, Coffroth has telephoned that Farrelly and Warner have disappeared from San Francisco. They have been given two weeks in which to appear, and if they do not the bail money will be forfeited.

Driscoll Easy Winner.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jem Driscoll, England's champion featherweight, completely outfought Matty Baldwin, Boston's best lightweight, in their six-round fight at the Fairmont A. C. tonight. The little Englishman proved himself a marvel of cleverness and at times during the contest, even out-Attelled Attell, the champion of the world.

'FORE! 'FORE!

GOLF TOURNEY STARTS TODAY.

SEVENTY-FOUR ENTRIES IN FOR SIX-ROUND CONTEST.

Fifty Men Will Probably Start on First Round This Afternoon and Play Must Be Ended in Six Weeks. Ladies to Meet on the Riverside Course Tuesday or Wednesday.

The Los Angeles Country Club will be a busy place this afternoon, for the start is to be made in the big handicap medal play tournament of six rounds, that will require six weeks to finish. Without doubt it will be the biggest event that club has ever had in point of numbers at least, for there are no less than seventy-four entries. The start is to be made at 1 o'clock, and if the entire number of men appear for play, some of them will be held back, for the bunch could not complete the course in one afternoon. It is not likely that more than fifty will show up this afternoon, for the players have two weeks in which to finish the first two rounds.

The entrants are as follows:

E. H. Bagby, Joseph Ball, W. A. Barker, L. T. Bradford, H. Braly, J. A. Brown, R. E. Burbank, W. W. Butler, F. N. Comn, A. H. Conger, J. E. Cook, J. S. Carroll, George Denis, Dr. D. K. Dickinson, E. RIVERSIDE GOLF.

TOURNEY ON TUESDAY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 13.—A golf tournament will be held on the Victoria Club links next Tuesday and Wednesday, under the auspices of the Southern California Women's Golf Association. The mornings will be devoted to putting and driving contests and in the afternoon a handicap tournament will be played. A number of well-known women golf players from Los Angeles, Pasadena and other cities in Southern California are expected.

Victoria Club golf enthusiasts played the first of a series of mid-week tournaments Thursday on the club links. In a foursome, the first prizes were won by Mrs. W. S. Gilmore and Mrs. M. A. Chase, who defeated Mrs. Harry Kearne and Mrs. Jack Brown.

Y.M.C.A. ATHLETICS.

Long List of Events to Be Contested Each Saturday Evening During the Next Four Weeks.

An all-round athletic competition will be held by the Young Mens' Christian Association on each Saturday evening from November 14 to December 5, inclusive. The schedule calls for 20 events, 5 events each Saturday evening.

Each contestant will be awarded a certain number of points for what he accomplishes in each event. The man scoring the greatest number of points will receive a gold medal, the second a silver medal and the third a bronze trophy.

On Saturday, December 12, a pentathlon event will be held, which will also include five events, consisting of twelve-pound shot-put, running high jump, three standing broad jumps, quater-mile potato race and pole vault.

The events on November 14 will be: Standing broad jump, distance snap, shot-put, twenty-yard dash, high kick. November 21: Two standing broad jumps, rope climb, a 220-yard dash, high dive and fence vault. November 28: Three standing broad jumps, dips on parallels, half-mile run, standing high jump, and throwing a ball. December 5: Running high jump, pull-ups, quarter-mile potato race, hop, step and jump, and pole vault.

Tennis at Stanford.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 13.—In the finals of the handicap tennis tournament, C. H. Morgan of San Diego won from C. C. Peabody of Ontario by a score of 2-6, 6-1, 7-5, and 6-2. Morgan is a freshman, and from the outcome of this preliminary tourney he promises to become an intercollegiate representative.

Berry Has Hopes.

Manager Henry Berry of the Los Angeles baseball team will probably leave this evening for Fresno to have a conference with the manager of the outlaw team there, on the subject of having the club enter the proposed Class B league.

UTAH TEAM HERE.

The Utah Agricultural football team, which is to meet St. Vincent's this afternoon at Fiesta Park, arrived in this city last night at 8 o'clock and is registered at the Hollenbeck. Coach Walker, a former University of Chicago player, is in charge of the squad, which is composed of the following nineteen men: Student Manager Wrigley, Capt. Brassard, and Frew, Hanson, Benson, Cordon, Egbert, Batt, Paddock, McCombs, Bryant, Nelson, Martineau, Holden, E. Brassard, Froerer, Little and Coburn.

Coach Walker reports the team in excellent condition and he is confident that his players will defeat the Saints today. The team came to this city from Santa Barbara, where the men rested two days and held practice. The trip from Logan, Utah, was made in a leisurely manner and the men are as fresh as if they had come but a short distance.

The Mormons average nearly 170 pounds stripped and will average several pounds heavier than the Saints. The "Aggies" are the huskiest team that have appeared here this year, outweighing the Colorado Miners, and the Saints probably will have a harder game than against the Coloradans. Coach Walker attributes the defeat of his team at the hands of the Colorado School of Mines to the fact that one of his players was fatally injured early in the game and that the "Aggies" became disheartened. He believes the Mormons are fully equal to the Colorado team.

The Utah men are anxious to win and Capt. Brassard says his men will fight during every minute of the game. The players are a clean set of men, nattily attired, and full of exuberance. As soon as they alighted from the train they broke out with a series of Utah yells and cheers for Los Angeles, St. Vincent's and everything in general.

The game will begin at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Coach Walker of the "Aggies" was unable to decide upon the officials he desired for the game, but they will be selected this morning from the following list: Coach Draper of U.S.C. Law School, Coach Warner of Sherman Institute, Coach Noble of Los Angeles High School, Casey Hook, and Coach Pierce of Pomona College. The Mormon coach was very cautious in the selection of officials and expressed the desire that he be permitted to interview personally the men whose names were submitted by Coach Hempel of St. Vincent's.

A HARD MATCH.

The game today promises to be the hardest-played match of the season. The Mormons are accredited with a style of play that involves fierce, aggressive, offensive work, and as the Saints are strong in hard, daring playing, the match probably will be smashing and full of fight. The Saints will be outweighed, but they are game to the core and are determined to give the visitors a warm reception.

The shake-up which Coach Hempel has made in the personnel of the St. Vincent's team is expected to add strength to the eleven. Shute, the former U.S.C. player, will play fullback on the local eleven, and his speed and bucking ability is being counted upon to gain yards. Stoney will play left end and will do the punting for the team. Holleran will be in his old position at center, and Thompson will replace Stewart at right guard. Coach Hempel considers this arrangement far superior to the former make-up of the eleven, and confidently believes that his men will at least play even with the Mormons.

A big rally was held at St. Vincent's last night, and practically the entire student body will be in the rooting section. The students believe the team has more than a fighting chance to win, and the players will go into the game with the assurance that an unusually large number of supporters are behind them.

The length of halves will be thirty minutes. The line-up:

St. Vincent's.		Utah.
Rheinschild, 176	R. T. L.	Paddock, 185
Thompson, 175	R. G. L.	Bryant, 178
Holleran, 158	C.	McCombs, 184
Murray, 156	L. G. R.	Nelson, 195
Leffert, 180	L. T. R.	Hansen, 187
Stoney, 165	L. E. R.	Cordon, 157
Ybarrando, 145	Q. B.	Egbert, 125
Casey, 160	R. H. L.	Brassard (c.,) 184
Tortes, 156	L. H. R.	Frew, 185
Shute, 160	F. B.	Batt, 180

Substitutes—St. Vincent's: Dingman, end; Cunningham, fullback; Huppert, end; Stewart, guard. Utah: Bensen, Conger, Holden, ends; E. Brassard, quarterback; Martineau, Froerer, guards.

U.S.C. AND POMONA.

BIG GAME AT CLAREMONT.

CLAREMONT, Nov. 13.—Two days of open practice finish up the work of the Pomona 'varsity's preparation for tomorrow's contest with U.S.C. on Alumni Field. The team has shown the same steady improvement during the week that has characterized its work during the entire season, and the eleven will go into the game against U.S.C. stronger than at any time before this season. During the secret practice of the early days of the week the men have been worked hard, and are now running off difficult formations with greater smoothness than when last seen in open practice.

The change during the week in the line-up is that at right tackle, where Art Tangeman replaces Kepner. Tangeman's experience and speed have won him the place from the freshman, even though handicapped by the loss of nearly the entire season's practice. Metz will start at right half, and Parker and Gore will probably begin the game at the end positions.

While not over-sanguine, the men believe that they have about an even chance against U.S.C. On comparative scores they are doped a little behind, but team work and the fine fighting spirit which Coach Stanton has put in the men are expected to win them points. The team is fortunate in having a big list of substitutes; the second eleven has developed under coaching so that it is almost the equal of the 'varsity. Barring a man in the second's backfield, the two elevens are nearly evenly matched.

Student support of the team is running high, and while many of the undergraduates are not counting on a victory, the knowledge that the team will fight to the end has led to fine backing. A song and yell practice was held in the gymnasium yesterday afternoon, and another practice will be held on the football bleachers this afternoon, when the team will be given its final send-off.

The annual Pajamarino, the biggest rally of the year, will be held in the gymnasium tonight and on the football field this evening.

The faculty have excused the football men from Saturday work, and after this morning's recitations they will rest up in preparation for the game. The teams will line up as follows:

Pomona.		U.S.C.
Parker	L.E.R.	Wallace
Fuller	L.T.R.	Haigler
Crawford	L.G.R.	McDuff
Weinland	C.	Allan
Taylor	R.G.L.	Ruschaupt
A. Tangeman	R.T.L.	Hatch
Gore	R.E.L.	Geller
Ball	Q.B.	Ickes
Shupt	L.H.R.	Clarke
Metz	R.H.L.	Paulin
Becker	F.B.	Burek

CURTAIN-RAISER.

L. A. HIGH AND TIGERS TO PLAY.

Los Angeles High School and Occidental College are to meet in their annual football game at Fiesta Park today at 1:30 o'clock. The match will serve as a curtain-raiser to the St. Vincent's-Utah contest, but as the game will have an important bearing on the determination of the Southern California championship, much interest is centered in it. More than 900 High School students will occupy the blue and white rooting section, and 400 Presbyterians, accompanied by the college band, will cheer for the Tigers.

Coach Noble of High School is confident his team will score at least two touchdowns against Occidental unless the Presbyterians have improved since their last match. Occidental students believe that the Tigers have a fighting chance to win, although they realize that the men will have to play their best game.

The High School players are in excellent condition as a result of the long rest which they have had. Occidental also is in good physical condition, although the team has undergone a shake-up this week. Wieman is to start the game at fullback in place of Fred Thomson, who will be used either at left tackle or right end. In case Thomson starts the game in place of Landreth, Fred Johnson will be moved from left halfback to right end, and Carus will take Johnson's place. The latter arrangement probably will be used by Coach Gorton.

High School will have a slight advantage in weight, although the Presbyterians believe their opponents will be unable to gain through the line. Silent and Conrad, the All-Southern California center of last year, will be pitted against each other at center, and as Silent is considered to be Conrad's strongest rival for the honor, a fierce fight probably will result.

Coach Noble of High School will use the same line-up as in the previous games of the season. Grimm, right tackle, is slightly out of condition on account of blood poisoning, but it is expected that he will last throughout the game. The line-up:

Occidental.		L. A. High.
Johnson, 162	R.E.L.	Geissler, 165
McDermont, 160	R.T.L.	Shores, 185
Conrad, 170	C.	Silent, 220
Patterson, 154	L.G.R.	Hunter, 165
F. Thomson, 180
Hopkins 143	L.E.R.	Maguire, 160
Thomas, 138	Q.B.	Cass (c.,) 147
Collins, 160	R.H.L.	Brant, 160
Carus, 150	L.H.R.	Declus, 145
Wieman (c.,) 170	F.B.	Winget, 170

Length of halves, 25 minutes; referee, Draper; umpire, Pierce; field judge, Reinhart.

Smoker for Alumni.

The Harvard and Yale alumni associations will hold an informal smoker to commemorate the Yale-Harvard game, which will be played in the East today, at Levy's tonight at 7:30 o'clock. All Harvard and Yale men in the city have been invited to attend.

"MOODY'S MILITANT CHURCH" will be the subject of an article in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday that will be especially interesting just now while the Torrey meetings are in progress.

HOT GAME.

BLUE AND GOLD TEAM TO MEET CARDINAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The eve of the eighteenth annual intercollegiate football game between the University of California and Stanford, which is to take place on California field tomorrow, finds the California men in excellent physical condition and prepared to fight the battle of their lives. The undergraduates are full of fighting spirit and the 'varsity will get the strongest bleacher support that has been awarded a California 'varsity in years.

The last practive before the game was held last night behind closed gates. Today the team has been given absolute rest, although they were taken to the theater this afternoon. Trainer Christie has been in a fret all day through superstitious fear that Friday and the thirteenth would be a combination that would bring bad luck to some one. Such has not been the case, however, and everything is in prime condition tonight.

Berkeley is swarming with old grads who have come from points as distant as Nome and Capetown to see the finest 'varsity that their alma mater has put in the field for years. Every effort of the coaches throughout the entire season has been to develop a team that will bring home a victory to the State University after four years of defeat. All those who have followed the two 'varsities and who have been in a position to watch the local men closely, believe that California will win tomorrow, provided the men make full use of their training and their excellent physical condition. No matter which team is victorious, the game will be won in the second half, say experts.

The policy of Taylor and Schaeffer in giving every man on the squad a thorough tryout and then trying the selected ones out in the different positions seems to have been a wise one. Because of these tryouts the team was not simmered down until two weeks ago, but since then practically all the men who will go into the game tomorrow have played together and the best team in the university has been found.

Many of the dopesters seem to overlook Taylor's policy and have been figuring the result of the game by the large scores that Stanford has piled up in the preliminary matches. Stanford's team was practically picked two months ago and California's two weeks ago, due to the different policies of Lanagen and Taylor.

Betting tonight varies from 10-7 to 10-9 with Stanford the favorite.

In speaking of the game tonight Capt. Butler said: "Personally I think we'll win. We are going to give a surprise to some of these wise ones who are figuring and betting on 10 to 7 dope. The team is in fine shape and every man is prepared for the contest of his life."

Markwart and Phleger, who will play the front ranks tomorrow, are both playing in a big game for the first time. Markwart played on the 1910 freshman team and was a 'varsity sub last year. His gilt-edge work of the last two weeks won him his position over Farmer of Hanford, who was generally picked as one of the front rankers. Phleger is a freshman and played on his class team against the Stanford babies a month ago. He is a fighter and a strong all around player.

Budelman, the giant lock of tomorrow, has played the same position for the last two years. "Boots" is in the worst physical condition of any man on the team as he is suffering from an infected scrum ear and has had two operations on the member this week.

Barnicott at the side rank is a veteran of last year and has shown himself to be one of the hardest working and cleverest forwards on the team. He is looked upon to do much because of his strength, knowledge and fighting spirit. Freeman, his mate, is a man who has played for the last two years at five-eighths, but because of strength and weight was moved to the scrum this year. He has apparently found his ideal place, although his training as a back increases his efficiency.

Pauly in the rear rank hails from San Diego. He made his freshman team last year and surprised every one by the great game that he has played all season, which has fully justified his selection. He is one of the lightest men in the scrum, but makes up for this by speed and headwork. Sorenson, from Fresno, who plays with him, is the strongest player in the scrum. He played last year at three-quarter, and his training there has made him invaluable in the lock. Swift and heavy, he has been the cause of many California scores in the preliminary games.

Dwiggins at half is in a class by himself. While he weighs only 135, he makes up for this in quick wits, nerve and kicking ability. He can kick from any position in almost any direction, and as a punter is excelled only by Capt. Butler. He played as a wing three-quarter last year.

Cerf at five-eighths is playing the position for the third year. Fast and heavy, a fierce tackler and good kicker, he is almost ideal for the position. Elliott, who will play the other five, was captain of this year's freshman team and has earned his 'varsity place through hard work and clever playing.

Harris at center three-quarters is a freshman who has caught on to Rugby in a hurry and will probably gain much for his team tomorrow with his speed and toe. Watts and Webster at the wings are good men. Watts is a freshman, while Webster makes the 'varsity after subbing for the last two years. Both are fast men, good passers and good kickers.

Swartz at wing forward is another sophomore who made his freshman team and who has outclassed all other contenders for his position this year.

Capt. Butler at fullback is in a class by himself. He is undoubtedly the best punter on the Coast and has no equal as an offensive and defensive fullback. Fast and sure, he seldom fails to get a man when once he dives for him. His open field tackles have been one of the features of the year.

California has an abundance of subs and will not be weakened to any very great extent should any of the above be injured.

Up to last night the advance sale of tickets totaled more than $20,000. As the advance sale in the past has been only about two-thirds of the total receipts, a record crowd is expected.

STANFORD READY.

EXPECT AN EVEN BREAK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Conditioned to perfection, coached to efficiency, with fighting spirit ripe, both on the team and in the student body, the Stanford Rugby fifteen will journey to Berkeley tomorrow with an intense determination to add a sixth consecutive victory to their Cardinal banner. The fifteen sturdy players are the best that could be secured. Though not over-confident, Capt. Crawford's words voice the sentiment of the fifteen.

"We have an even break and expect to fight our hardest to win."

Trainer Moulton honestly believes Stanford will win while Coach Presley says:

"The team is prepared for a hard fight."

The comparative scores of the two teams point victory to the Cardinal. Although such a comparison is often untrustworthy, it is overwhelmingly on Stanford's side. The Cardinal has run up a total of 168 points in nine games against twenty by its opponents.

California in the same number of games, against the same adversaries, has made seventy-eight points, with thirty-eight charged against her. This relates to Stanford's offensiveness, while the defensive is likewise very powerful. Stanford has only been defeated once and by the Vancouver team, while California has lost two and tied one. Stanford has also a slight advantage in weight, with an average of 166, to the adversaries 161.

With the tell-tale statistics, a pack of eight veterans and seven competent new men, the student body is exuberant with confidence of victory in their eighteenth annual battle with the foe across the bay.

A comparison of the respective opposing players gives Stanford the preference. At half, Erb is fully the equal of Dwiggins in headiness and speed, while Erb out-classes in kicking. The forward packs are nearly even. Both possess fight. Stanford may outplay them as individuals, but the State men may fight with a grimmer determination.

In the backfield Stanford should shine. California has no match for the speedy Holman, while Scott and Cadwalader may break even with the freshmen at center and wing, for both Stanford men are also new on the front line. Ganong has already successfully opposed Cerf and is fit to repeat it. Mitchell's brilliant offensive work easily places him ahead of Webster. At full, Capt. Butler is steady and probably a better punter than Faulkner.

G. Jenkinson of Vancouver will referee. The sale of seats has broken all records. Manager Marrett of California says:

"Teams will play to 'standing room only.'"

HARD ON Y.M.C.A. FOOTBALL TEAMS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EVANSVILLE (Ind.) Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles E. Daugherty today swore out warrants charging manslaughter against members of the Y.M.C.A. football teams of Henderson, Ky., and Evansville, who took part in a game last Saturday in which Daugherty's younger brother received injuries from which he died.

Opening Season Promises to Be Very Active One—Frank Mackey to Arrive in December.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 13.—That the Riverside polo season will be particularly active this winter is the opinion of all the local players. The first practice of the season will be played on the polo grounds at Chemawa Park Saturday afternoon, when all of the Riverside stars will be out to try their skill.

STOCKTON, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today a committee with ex-Mayor M. J. Gardner at the head, left for Los Angeles to hold a conference with James Morley and other southern fans over the proposition of the city of putting a team in the California, or so-called Outlaw League which has been fast encroaching upon the alleged organized baseball under the Pacific Coast League auspices. The committee went prepared to consider the proposition and in all probability Angel City will be given high-class baseball the coming season.

Stockton led off with a positive declaration for independent baseball yesterday San José came out strong for the same proposition. Sacramento and Fresno will follow suit, as Manager Moreing owns the franchise in Oakland, where he will spend most of the players who worked here this season, the majority of the clubs in the north want outlaw ball. Two cities will be added Santa Cruz and Alameda and it is up to Los Angeles to get into the running with a strong team.

Information has been received here that James Morley and his friends will back a club in the southern city for $50,000, and this has caused much talk here. The fans want independent ball here, and even should some of the other managers be so foolish as to go in for class B ball, Stockton will be instrumental in forming a new outlaw league, as organized ball will not be tolerated here under any circumstances. The sports in this city have watched the career of the Pacific Coast League for the past few years and do not want any baseball of that kind.

With Los Angeles in the new league the strength will be added, and the game will be given the best sport that has been witnessed since the days of baseball, when the players worked for their money. It is the intention of Manager Moreing to have continuous baseball in Oakland the coming year.

Club of America Sends Congratulations.

Students Listen to Aeronautic Talks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—[To The Times, Los Angeles, Cal.] The Aero Club of America tenders congratulations to the Aero Club of California on its first trans-continental balloon race, November 15.

AERO CLUB OF AMERICA.

The Aero Club of California takes the following telegram, sent to The Times this morning, to indicate that the Ferris race Sunday is sanctioned, although official action cannot be taken in addition of the local club with national body has not yet been

Aero Club of America thereby loses the honor of having the first continental balloon race conducted under its auspices and if a record is made it will probably be declared official, and be credited to the Aero Club of California.

The club is to meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Chutes Park where official action will be taken to conduct the race according to the rules and as prescribed by Dick Ferris, the owner of the balloons, will permit.

The ascension of a balloonful of gas will be made early yesterday morning from Chutes Park, because of a defect in the valve. The valve was pulled to allow some of the coal gas to escape during the night, and when the valve was opened it caught in its grasp part of the canvas flaps. This left an orifice through which the light hydrogen escaped. Capt. Mueller was up out of bed and found what was the matter and pulled the valve in place.

Manual Arts High School students and their friends, to the number of 1000, listened to talks by Capt. Wild, Prof. J. S. Berbe and Prof. Twining in the High School Auditorium yesterday afternoon, and the speakers were introduced by Capt. Wild spoke for a few minutes and told many experiences in his life as a balloonist. Capt. Wild was unable to be present as he was busy with his hydrogen gas plant filling the balloons.

Yesterday afternoon a class of seventy mechanic students visited the plant and listened to a short talk by Prof. Twining. They saw the first gas made in the United States and the latest generation of the hydrogen gas.

It is believed that before night today there will be enough gas in the balloons to get them away, and by 5 o'clock they should be filled and ready.

The United Press has arranged with correspondents all along the route out for the balloons and their progress will be telegraphed as soon. The aeronauts will drop messages to the earth when they are seen and in this way what is going on.

GOLF AT RIVERSIDE.

Golfers Promises to Be Very Interesting One—Frank Mackey to Arrive in December.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 13.—That the Riverside golf season will be particularly interesting this winter is the opinion of all golfers who have put in an appearance at the links. The first practice of the season will be played on the golf grounds at Chemawa Park next Saturday afternoon, when all of the golfers will be out to try their skill.

Harry Golden Patten, who has returned from an extended trip to Canada, where a number of good matches were played, reports that country and England are very active in Riverside with their golfers to pass the winter and engage in the polo games and tournaments which have been planned.

Frank J. Mackey, the millionaire polo player, is expected to reach Riverside some time in December. He will bring with him the fastest team of polo players that has ever been seen in action on the Chemawa field. Accompanying him will be the captain of the International Ireland team and two of the most brilliant players in England.

Maj. C. G. Ross is expected to arrive next week from his home in Alberta, B. C., to take part in the games.

JOCKEY ADMITS SLACK RIDING.

STEWARDS AT EMERYVILLE SET DOWN SCHILLING.

Rides Three Winners and Then Rests up—New York and Latonia Horses Arrive at Emeryville—Military Man Wins Feature Event in Card of Ordinary Caliber.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—The stewards of the Emeryville race track took their first action of the season yesterday, when they suspended Jockey Schilling for his ride of Captain Kennedy, second choice in the fifth race.

Schilling had won three of the five races, every one in which he was driving, and had earned the cheers of the track visitors, but he took it easy after he had the fifth race practically won, and was beaten by a scant nose. The jockey confessed his fault and was set down.

Before his suspension took effect Schilling rode in the last race, piloting his horse to victory.

There were no features to the card at Emeryville today, but interesting sport resulted. Charley Paine was a disappointment in the fourth, stopping badly after showing early speed.

Military Man closed fast and won in a drive from Spring Ban and Orchan. The fifth resulted in the victory of Astronomer, a well-played favorite from the Chinn stable. The horses of Max Hirsch and Ed Heffner arrived today from New York, and a carload owned by Mose Goldblatt and L. H. Miller from Latonia. Results:

Six furlongs, selling: Hazel T., 105 (C. Ross,) 2 to 1, won; Novgorod, 107 (Upton,) 4 to 1, second; Match Tulia, 99 (Sweet,) 7 to 5, third; time, 1:13 4-5. Calera, Prince Ormonde, Smiling Jack and Roy Shumway finished as named.

Six and one-half furlongs, selling: Amanda, 103 (Kirschbaum,) 4 to 1, won; Distribution, 107 (King,) 7 to 1, second; Royal N., 110 (Rettig,) 15 to 1, third; time, 1:21 1-5. San Oak, Brian Boru, Mike Anheim, Mistress of Rolls and Sir Angus finished as named.

One mile and seventy yards, selling: Be Thankful, 103 (Kirschbaum,) 7 to 5, won; Milshora, 102 (Walsh,) 8 to 5, second; Rotreu, 107 (Gilbert,) 8 to 1, third; time, 1:45 1-5. Rosy Light and Royal Red finished as named.

Mile and seventy yards, selling: Military Man, 100 (C. Russell,) 18 to 5, won; Spring Ban, 102 (Walsh,) 16 to 5, second; Orchan, 97 (E. Sullivan,) 8 to 1, third; time, 1:45. Charley Paine and Lazell finished as named.

Six and one-half furlongs, selling: Astronomer, 110 (Upton,) 6 to 5, won; Smiley Metzner, 102 (C. Russell,) 7 to 2, second; Von Tromp, 105 (Taplin,) 14 to 5, third; time, 1:19 4-5. El Ball, Kokomo and George P. McNear finished as named.

Six furlongs, selling: Semphronium, 105 (Walsh,) 11 to 5, won; Toll Box, 109 (Powers,) 6 to 5, second; Aunt Kit, 102 (Post,) 7 to 1, third; time, 1:13 3-5. Jim Hanna, Guerrara, Ornate, Coppit and Carenia finished as named.

PLEAD FOR A GAME.

COLUMBIA WANTS FOOTBALL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Students of Columbia University, who have never become fully reconciled to the abolishment of football at that institution, have been unable to stand the strain of the present season any longer.

They have broken forth with an appeal to President Butler for "just one game" this fall. To strengthen their appeal the students point out that a deficit was incurred by the 'varsity crew last year, and that with the receipts from a football game this could be wiped out.

SONOMA GIRL.

BREAKS WESTERN RECORDS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Nov. 13.—The most notable incident of the Arizona Fair today was the smashing of trotting records by Sonoma Girl, owned by J. A. Crabtree, and driven by McMahon three successive miles in 2:07¾, 2:06¾ and 2:06 flat.

This is the fastest trotting time ever made in a race in Arizona or California, and the three fastest successive heats ever trotted west of the Mississippi River.

The contesting horses were Carlokin and Zomalta, second and third in all heats. Carlokin crowding Sonoma Girl in the first two.

Handicap pacing and trotting races, patterned after the Readville, Mass., handicap, dead starts, proved very interesting and a novelty in American racing.

The half mile dash and repeat was won by John Griffin in 0:48¾, 0:49. Large attendance, many minor events.

NEVADA RACING.

TO DRIVE OUT GAMBLERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

RENO (Nev.) Nov. 13.—Following the report that California racing promoters would come to Nevada if horse racing is stamped out by the California Legislature, J. E. Monroe, vice-president of the Anti-Gambling League, today said that the league would present a petition to the coming State Legislature, asking that these California promoters be refused a franchise to carry on racing in this State.

He also declared that another petition calling for a special election to drive gambling out of Reno, under the initiative and referendum act, will be circulated next week. He says it is the inetntion of the league to continue holding these special elections until gambling has been driven from Reno.

Results at Latonia.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 13.—Latonia results:

Six furlongs: Mique O'Brien won, Medora second, Sister Phyllis third; time, 1:18 4-5.

Six furlongs: Claiborne won, Killington second, Ludhiana third; time, 1:19.

Mile: Buffoons won, Dispute second, Floreal third; time, 1:47.

Six furlongs: Sea Swell won, Sally Preston second, Dainty Dame third; time, 1:15 2-5.

Five and one-half furlongs: Snake Mary won, Marmorean second, Harriet Rowe third; time, 1:10 4-5.

One and one-sixteenth: Apt won, Gilvedear second, Gambrinus third; time, 1:53 4-5.

WARNER IS CHAMPION.

Drouillard Defeated in Deciding Game of Chess in Big Kansas City Match.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles F. Barker of Boston has again successively defended his title of checker champion, by drawing five games with Joseph Drouillard, today. Barker won the match and a side bet of $2000. The match arrangements called for fifty games, but by being unable to record a win today, Drouillard is placed beyond the possibility of winning, and the last seven games will not be played.

The final score is ten wins for Barker, two for Drouillard, and thirty-one draws, a total of forty-three games played. From the opening day of the match it has been apparent to checker experts that Drouillard stood little chance of winning. His knowledge of book games is good, but in original play he was outclassed by Barker.

Gotch and Hackenschmidt.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] World's champion heavyweight wrestler, Frank Gotch, and George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion" from whom he wrested the title in Chicago last April, met here today and agreed on a return match for some time between January 1 and March 1, 1909. The purse will be large.

Moody Beats Corbett.

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fred Corbett was tonight defeated by Willie Moody in the wind-up at the State A. C. Corbett was the more aggressive of the pair, but Moody's superior judgment of distance pulled him out a winner. Corbett knocked Moody down in the fourth round.

COMPETITION.

OUTLAW BALL MAY ENTER LOS ANGELES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today a committee with Manager M. J. Gardner at the head left for Los Angeles to hold a conference with James Morley and other baseball fans over the proposition of the city of putting a team in the California, or so-called Outlaw League, which has been fast encroaching upon the well organized baseball under the Pacific Coast League auspices. The committee went prepared to consider the proposition and in all probability Stockton City will be given high-class baseball the coming season.

The season will be opened off with a positive date for independent baseball Sunday, when San José came out for the same proposition. Sacramento and Fresno will follow suit and Manager Morsing owns the park in Oakland, where he will have most of the players who worked for him last season, the majority of the fans in both want outlaw ball. To this end will be added Santa Cruz and Vernalis and it is up to Los Angeles to get into the running with a team.

Word has been received here from Morley and his friends will have a club in the southern city for the season, and this has caused much talk here. The fans want interstate ball here, and even should the other managers be so foolish as to refuse class B ball, Stockton will be influential in forming a new outfit, such as organized ball will not prosper here under any circumstances. The sports in this city have followed the career of the Pacific Coast league for the past few years, and do not want any baseball of that class.

With Los Angeles in the new league Stockton will be added, and the fans will be given the best sport they have witnessed since the palmy days of baseball, when the players worked for their money. It is the intention of Manager Morsing to stage baseball in Oakland the coming year.

THEY NOT IN IT.

WILL OPPOSE BERRY.

Dispatch from Stockton that he is to be interviewed by the four city business men on outlaw baseball in this city, Jim Morley stated emphatically last night that while he might like to go into baseball here, he certainly would not take the management of any outlaw team in Los Angeles as long as Henry Berry was at the head of the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League. This sounds fine, and proves that Morley is a game sport.

CLOSE CONTEST.

HOLLYWOOD DEFEATED.

Brownsberger Commercial College defeated Hollywood High School at basketball Friday afternoon on the Brownsberger court, by a score of 11 to 10.

The next game will be with the Harvard five this morning on the Harvard grounds.

The line-up:

Brownsberger.		Hollywood.
Moran	forward	Potter
Lamont	forward	Priester
Bennett	center	Candee
Rapp	guard	Claypool
Torbett	guard	Ball

Length of halves, 20 minutes; referee, Bibo of Polytechnic; field goals, Moran 1, Potter 1, Priester 1; foul throws, Moran 9, Priester 3, Potter 2.

Baseball Barbecue.

The baseball barbecue that is to be given by Manager Berry of the Los Angeles team to the players, directors and newspaper men, will be in Griffith Park next Thursday. The guests will go to the park in automobiles, which will start from the City Hall promptly at 11 o'clock.

White Sox in Nevada.

RENO (Nev.) Nov. 13.—Harley Johnson of the local baseball nine today wrote an acceptance to the proposition of Manager Charles Comiskey of Chicago to have the White Sox team play here on its way to California next spring.

Saturday is Children's Day

—and the Fifth Street Store is their favorite store. It doesn't "just happen so," like a fairy tale, but we make special preparations for the comfort and pleasure of the little folks. Make it interesting for them as well as decidedly profitable for their parents. Today will be one of the biggest Children's Days we have held. We want every boy and girl to come and bring their parents.

Nobody can effectively imitate the Fels-Naptha easy way of washing.

The Disappearing Undershirt.

Mr. Bigfellow—"Heavens, Mary! What have you done to this undershirt? Look at it! 'Tisn't half as big as it was the last time I wore it. Another washing and it will disappear entirely."

Mrs. Bigfellow—"Woolens will shrink, my dear, no matter how carefully you wash them."

Anty Drudge—"Nonsense! Try the Fels-Naptha way. It will bring the dirt out in a jiffy. Not even a single rub on the washboard is necessary. Just a few rinsings and a loose wringing by hand. The woolens won't shrink or roughen either. Fels-Naptha soap is particularly effective—prevents roughness as well as shrinking."

Do you understand Fels-Naptha soap? It is like your sewing-machine—in that it saves labor and does the work better.

No woman who understands the sewing-machine would go back to hand-stitching. No woman who understands Fels-Naptha would go back to the old way of washing clothes.

Fels-Naptha is more than a different kind of soap—it is a different way of washing. Which is what we mean when we ask if you understand Fels-Naptha.

You don't boil the clothes; you don't even use hot water. You don't stir the clothes; you don't even do much rubbing on the board. All the hard labor you used to do yourself to loosen the dirt, is done by Fels-Naptha soap.

With a white wash, you simply wet the clothes, rub the Fels-Naptha soap on them, then put the pieces in the tub with just enough lukewarm or cold water to cover them. In a half hour, the Fels-Naptha will loosen the dirt; a little rubbing and a thorough rinsing will take it all out. And the clothes will be whiter and sweeter than they ever were with boiling and hard rubbing.

The Fels-Naptha way is easy to understand—simply follow the directions on the red and green wrapper.

The failure of imitations emphasizes the worth of Fels-Naptha.

Men's and Young Men's Clothing

Overcoats $15 to $50

WHEN YOU'RE READY to select your suit or overcoat, you'll probably look in here first or last. You'll find that we're selling more fine suits and overcoats, say from $20 up, than anybody else in town. We sell a mighty good line of suits and overcoats at $15 and $20. They're made by five of the best makers in America. At $25, and from that up, we just "beat 'em to a frazzle," as our strenuous President puts it. There's nothing in Los Angeles, or anywhere else, to match the value we put before you. The models are striking, distinguished; the fabrics are the pick of the market.

Classified Liners.

Times Classified rates: the rate for inserting "Want" ads. in The Daily Times is 1c per word for each insertion; in the Sunday issue 1½c per word, each insertion; minimum charge 25c; except under following classifications the rate for which is 10c per line, minimum charge 30 cents: "Society Meetings," "Personals," "Special Notices," and "Baths and Massage."

"Liner" (classified) advertisements for Sunday insertion received over the counter or by telephone after 11:30 o'clock Saturday nights will be inserted under heading "Too Late To Classify."

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 10:30 o'clock Saturday night. Rate 1¼ cents per word.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 77,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than in the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times" any time of day or night and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

THE TIMES will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered, for more than one time.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times in payment for "Liners," as no mistakes can be rectified without them.

SPECIAL NOTICES—

PROPOSALS FOR SUPPLIES FOR THE WHITTIER STATE SCHOOL.

In pursuance of the action of the Board of Trustees of the Whittier State School, sealed proposals will be received by the superintendent of said school at his office in Whittier, Los Angeles county, California, up to 12 m., Tuesday, November 25, 1913, for furnishing the following supplies, to be of California manufacture or production, where price and quality are equal, and to consist of—

1—Coffee, tea, sugar, syrup, rice, etc.
2—Canned goods.
3—Groceries.
4—Soap, chloride of lime, caustic soda, washing powder.
5—Flour, meal, barley, etc.
6—Beef, mutton, bacon, ham, lard.
7—Coal and crude oil.
8—Dry goods.
9—Drugs.
10—Hardware, etc.
11—Paints, oils and glass.

All parties desiring to bid will address, Superintendent of the Whittier State School, Whittier, Los Angeles county, Cal., for terms, specifications and blank forms.

In order to preserve uniformity and to facilitate the work it has been resolved to receive no bids unless made upon blank forms furnished by the superintendent.

The number of class bid for should be plainly marked on outside of envelope containing bids.

Bids will be opened at 2 p.m., November 24, 1913, and awards made as soon thereafter as possible. Price and quality of goods will govern in all cases.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities therein.

OXFORD SQUARE IS AMONG BEST RESIDENCE LOCALITIES.

There are others just as good, but Oxford Square has advantages peculiarly its own. It is in the heart of Wilshire district. It has choice surroundings and superb outlook on every side. It has excellent transportation facilities. It has an automobile driveway. It was platted and improved at a time when labor and material was not high priced. It has the advantage of all the latest and best methods of improvement. It has wide cement walks and cement curbs and gutters. It has pretty parkings and choice palms and shade trees. It has stone pillars intersected by handsome electroliers. The lots are wide and 171 feet deep, with private driveways. It has building restrictions. In short, everything that contributes to a refined and select neighborhood and it can be sold cheaper than any other property.

FOR A CHOICE RESIDENCE SITE OR FOR PROFITABLE INVESTMENT IT'S THE BEST THING OFFERED IN LOS ANGELES TODAY.

THE CITY IN BRIEF

"Made-in" meditation!

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Red Apples.

Talk about red apples. The Times acknowledges the receipt of a box of the handsomest of the season from Peters & Evans—the shippers of the famous Yucaipe apples, beautiful mountain fruit.

Y.M.C.A. Law School.

The Young Men's Christian Association will open a law school on next Friday evening, with Judges Wilbur and Jamison and Messrs. W. J. Hunsaker, W. D. Gray and Lynn Helm as Advisory Committee, who will speak on the advantages of legal training for business men, at different times during the course.

Fire Department's Picture Present.

A fine photograph of the 240 members of the Los Angeles Fire Department, together with the Mayor and Fire Commissioners, has been presented to the department by Coules Studio. The entire picture is six by eight feet, and will be placed in the department headquarters, No. 217 South Hill street. Many persons viewed it at the studio yesterday.

Cupid Shy?

"Friday the Thirteenth," was noticeable at the County Clerk's office yesterday. Only four marriage licenses were issued and only one company filed articles of incorporation. The average number of licenses for an ordinary day is twenty, and for an ordinary Friday a dozen. Yesterday's record of four is the smallest number issued any day for several months.

Shock Too Terrible.

Mrs. Katherine Johnson of No. 1430 East Twenty-first street, who witnessed an accident Wednesday in which her mother was instantly killed and her sister seriously injured, is in a critical condition as a result of a mental collapse. Attendants in the insane ward of the County Hospital state that Mrs. Johnson constantly rehearses the details of the terrible affair, and that she is becoming unmanageable.

St. Mary's of Knoxville.

The Southern California Chapter of the Daughters of St. Mary's School, Knoxville, Ill., are planning to celebrate "Founders' Day," December 5, and would be glad to invite any who as teachers or pupils may at any time have been connected with the school. Any such should send her address to Miss Imogene Seamans, secretary, Southern California Chapter, Daughters of St. Mary's, No. 1507 Monterey road, South Pasadena.

President-elect Taft Invited.

A rumor having reached the Chamber of Commerce yesterday that President-elect Taft might come to California this winter to pass several weeks, a telegram was sent to him, extending a hearty welcome from the citizens of Los Angeles. The message was directed to the President-elect at his temporary residence in Hot Springs, Va., and it is expected that he will respond with definite information as to the prospects of his making the trip.

Boy Injured by Brick.

While playing in Echo Park yesterday afternoon George Goeder, aged 14 years, of No. 823 Everett street, was struck on the head with a brick by a playmate. Goeder felt dizzy from the blow and started home. When he reached Bellevue avenue he became unconscious and was taken to the Receiving Hospital by Special Officer Best, who found him lying in the street. He recovered about two hours later and was taken home. The blow only caused a slight contusion, and the physicians say he will not suffer permanently.

Seeks Relief for Dorr.

Attorney G. W. Van Pelt is seeking a way of escape from bankruptcy for his client, Fred Dorr, "broke" broker, by an attempt to secure the assent of the creditors to an agreement which will remove the case from the jurisdiction of Lynn Helm, referee in bankruptcy. The scheme provides for the payment of all prior claims in cash and the execution of two unsecured notes, one for $10,000, payable in nine months, and one for $15,000, payable in one year. In addition, it is proposed to organize a stock company with the creditors as stockholders. Dorr will agree to turn over to them one-half of the yearly profits until all claims are paid in full. The next meeting of creditors is set for the 18th inst.

Octogenarian Booster.

Mrs. Elizabeth O. Condell, more than 83 years old, mother of Mrs. J. H. Young of No. 123 South Bunker Hill avenue, has just returned, unescorted, from her old home in Decatur, Ill., where she has been visiting relatives for the past two months. The aged woman has lived here several years and regained her health to such an extent that she made up her mind to go back East on a visit. She went alone and astonished her old friends by her remarkable vigor. She told them that the climate of Southern California would make any woman young again, and while in Decatur she did considerable boosting for this section. Upon her return she informed her daughter that all the old ladies in her native town were planning to come out here to take the "climate cure" for old age.

OVERREACHES HIMSELF.

Well-dressed, Gentle-mannered Man Arrested on Charge of Obtaining Money Fraudulently.

D. B. June was arrested yesterday by detectives, and a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses placed against him. June is a man of fine appearance, gentle manners, and was exceptionally well dressed at the time of his arrest.

The complaining witnesses are J. E. Mackey, who alleges he gave up $25, H. M. Patterson, $5 and H. J. Semank, who says he delivered valuable furniture to June's apartments on Hill street.

The men charge that June represented himself to be a scion of the famous Sterling family of Scotland, and stated that he had valuable securities in the Merchants Trust Company, but could not get at them.

WOMEN THRIVE ON KEEN WITS.

Bonifaces Seek a Reckoning With Clever Pair.

Two Hauled in for Smooth Operations on Coast.

Strongly Protest Innocence of Any Wrongdoing.

Charged with making an easy living off hotel-keepers in almost every city of the Pacific Coast and with having enjoyed themselves at the expense of others for more than two years, Mrs. Augusta Bart and her daughter, Miss Nina Bart, were taken into custody yesterday by Detective Freeman of Pasadena and Detectives Hosick and Ziegler of Los Angeles.

The women, both loudly proclaiming their innocence, were hustled from their comfortable apartments in the Chickasaw Hotel, No. 626 South Hill street, to the Police Station. They were locked up there until Freeman had attended to a few details regarding the case, and then, Ziegler and the Pasadena officer guarding them, they were taken to the Crown of the Valley for trial.

The warrants for the arrest of the women have been in the possession of Freeman for several weeks and a close watch was kept to insure their capture. They arrived in Los Angeles a short time ago and their movements were traced until Freeman decided to cause their apprehension.

Managers of La Solano Hotel of Pasadena are the complaining witnesses. They allege that both women stayed at their hotel more than two weeks, ate the best food to be had, occupied the choice rooms, lounged about the lobbies and had servants at their beck and call during their stay; then departed, forgetting to settle with the cashier.

LIVED WELL, DIDN'T PAY.

The Hotel Ingraham has a like story to tell. Both women are alleged to have lived well at that hotel and then to have skipped without paying. Detective Hosick stated yesterday that he was preparing complaints again the women, based upon the charges made by the management of the Ingraham.

According to the statements of the officers working on the case, the women have been conducting a gigantic swindle with the sole purpose of living in luxury and paying nothing for it.

With no capital on which to start, the officers allege, the women worked their scheme so well that they lived on the fat of the land and were never apprehended until yesterday.

Hotel Fairmont of San Francisco, a number of minor hotels of that city; hotels of Berkeley and Oakland, the Hotel Potter, Santa Barbara, and almost every summer resort on the Coast received a costly visit from the pair, according to the officers.

Wherever they went they were cordially received because of their good manners and semblance of refinement. The younger woman could speak several languages, could play well on the piano and had a beautiful voice, as well as a cork leg. The loss of the limb was the entering wedge for sympathy and the voice soothed the ruffled spirits of the landlords when they went for their bills.

So the pair traveled up and down the Coast, taking life easy, stopping here and there, tasting the rare viands of the hotel tables and the soft linen and elderdown of the hotel suites; then folding up their tents and silently stealing away while hotel-keepers snorted their fury and officers kept on the track in vain.

MANY ALIASES.

At various places the women appeared as mother and daughter; at other places they let it be known that they were sisters. Several hotels knew them as a young, wealthy invalid and companion. Still others were informed that they were aunt and niece.

Any kind of a story went well with the hotel-keepers. The young woman rippled her pretty hands over the "steen" hundred dollar piano in the hotel parlor, her sweet voice rose in a glorious burst of song, and the proprietors of the hotels looked and listened and then leaned back with their thumbs shoved through the vest armholes and seemed to count the dollars as they looked at their "classy" guests.

To German grocers, Miss Nina Bart, sometimes known as Miss Ida Bartz, other times called Miss Ida Graves, and elsewhere spoken of in sundry and many aliases, spoke German. Her soft voice carried weight with it. Groceries came free to the house after she had told of her travels on the Rhine. Things ran smoothly as she told the French pastry man of his own dear "Paree," where she had spent so many pleasant hours.

Her charm in securing food and having it charged, is said to have been little short of hypnotism.

"They are the smoothest women of their class I have ever met," said Capt. Flammer yesterday, following the arrest. They were hustled to the rogues' gallery and there photographed and measured, so that the police could keep track of them.

SCORES OF VICTIMS.

At the time of their former visit to Los Angeles, the women were sought by a score or more tradesmen. Even the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company came within the net, and was minus a few dollars' worth of gas.

The women conducted an advertising scheme, whereby they agreed to take charge of a house, pay a certain amount of rent, and board the owners free.

They changed residence about every two weeks. They would enter a neighborhood, live in a nice house, and be introduced to the tradesmen by the people with whom they resided. That gave them a good standing with the tradesmen, with the result that the merchants were out a quantity of merchandise.

At the home of George C. Robinson on South Grand avenue the women lived two weeks, the girl appearing SAN PEDRO TO SPLIT OR NOT?

Harbor Control Is Bound up in Its Decision.

North-enders of City Would Join Los Angeles.

Fate of a Free Port Rests With the Trustees.

San Pedro, by the great free harbor, guardian of the Angel Gate, is engulfed in a political maelstrom which is raging so furiously that the echoes are reverberating from Sacramento to San Diego.

The harbor city is divided against itself. There is a conflict of interests that renders harmony impossible; at the same time it is intensely jealous of the harbor that it finds itself unable to control. One faction is calling lustily for help, the other is barring the door.

The Los Angeles Harbor Commission just happened to be there when the disturbance started; its reception was that generally accorded to the innocent bystander. Now the Harbor Commission and the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce have drawn off and are receiving the returns over the long-distance 'phone.

The "North End" started two weeks ago petitions calling for San Pedro city separation. This section comprises the progressive element of San Pedro. Failing to win in their fight a year ago for consolidation with Los Angeles, the north-enders circulated petitions for an election, having for its object the division of the city at Fifth street.

The north end seeks to be disincorporated that it may join Los Angeles. The stiff-necked south end, like Pharaoh of old, is not inclined to "let my people go."

LEADER OF DIVISIONISTS.

Louis Hansen is a leader of the north-end divisionists. His faction has already secured signatures of enough voters of San Pedro to compel the Council of that city to call the election which is to decide the question of separation. The north end has signed the petition almost as a unit, and about half the south end has signed it, too.

But the city administration, the breweries and the other "interests," are ready to "spend a million" to keep San Pedro intact. This faction is reputed to have a sack big enough to hold a Standard Oil dividend. On the water front yesterday the rumor was rife that the petition has been signed so numerously in order that the faithful may secure enough election money to tide them over a hard winter.

Interest in the movement is Statelong; it is a spectacular attempt by those in favor of consolidation to draw the cork that helps bottle the "Free Harbor."

The statute under which the election is sought stipulates that separation must carry both in the strip that is to be cast out and in the whole city. The separationists assert that they will carry the north end with a big enough majority to overcome the opposition which they expect to encounter south of Fifth street.

MUCH BELOW SURFACE.

This separation election really means a great deal more than appears on the surface. There is a suit pending in the State Supreme Court over the legal status of East San Pedro. This is the section that was annexed both by San Pedro and Long Beach. The latter city has temporary possession, but a number of leading attorneys hold that San Pedro will win in the Supreme Court.

A wide section comprising Terminal and several miles of harbor and slough would all be ready for annexation to Los Angeles in case San Pedro should win the suit and the separationists should win their election.

"If we can force this election, the problem of how we are to unite with Los Angeles will be settled," said Chief Hansen yesterday. "By separation, more than 5000 feet of harbor frontage will be released, so that it may become a part of the city of Los Angeles. This of itself will give to Los Angeles practical control of the inner harbor. It will open the way for municipal docks and will assist materially in developing what is bound to become the greatest harbor on the Pacific Coast.

BELIEVES IN CHANGE.

"This separation election takes consolidation out of the hands of the Legislature. San Francisco and the north will not be able to hamper longer our development. The people here are alive to their interests, and I believe that the vote will be overwhelmingly in favor of separation.

"Separation means consolidation for the whole of San Pedro with Los Angeles. The portion remaining will have a population of less than 3000; it can then disincorporate and join Los Angeles, too. Then we can snap our fingers at the Legislature."

Capt. Amos A. Fries, Corps of Engineers, U.S.A., the engineer in charge of the government work in San Pedro Harbor, is taking a lively interest in the separation movement.

"If it can be carried through successfully, this city separation election will solve the problem of consolidation," said Capt. Fries yesterday afternoon in San Pedro, "but this will not be easy to accomplish. The great interests here are opposed to the movement; they desire to keep San Pedro intact as a municipality of itself.

"This movement is making history for the free harbor. It is a drastic remedy; if it wins it means the early development of what is certain to be one of the world's great harbors. Los Angeles has the credit and the initiative to build public docks and to handle the commerce of the south coast. The day she gains a firm footing in San Pedro Harbor will mark the beginning of a new era of commercial development in the Southwest.

"But if the separationists have overshot the mark, their defeat will react on the proponents of consolidation, and the development of the harbor may be delayed for years."

AN OPPOSITE VIEW.

Minor P. Goodrich, a young San Pedro attorney, looks with disfavor on the separation movement. Goodrich is a resident of the north end; he says he doesn't want his residence legislated outside of San Pedro.

Goodrich said yesterday that the attempt at separation will end only in legal entanglements which will hinder consolidation with Los Angeles.

"Separation on so extensive a scale

WILLIAMS BEREAVED.

Coroner's Chief Deputy Receives News of the Death of His Mother in Minnesota.

Fred J. Williams, chief deputy in the office of Coroner Hartwell, received a telegram last night announcing the death of his mother, Mrs. Dorcas Williams, at 6 o'clock last evening at her home in Rochester, Minn., after an illness extending through three months, most of which time she was confined to her bed.

Mrs. Williams was aged 74 years, and was the wife of D. H. Williams. She was the mother of four children, two daughters and two sons, including Fred J. Williams of Los Angeles, Frank E. Williams of Rochester, a married daughter in Nebraska, and another now visiting in London, England.

Mrs. Williams had lived in Rochester for forty-two years, in the same house. She was afflicted with complicated heart trouble and had been a sufferer for several years.

Her death was not wholly unexpected by Deputy Coroner Williams, who returned to Los Angeles from Rochester only three weeks ago, after spending a month at the bedside of his parent. Mr. Williams may go to Rochester to attend the funeral. He awaits a reply to a telegram sent last night.

Old People Form Audience in the Afternoon.

In the front row at the Torrey Gospel Tebernacle, yesterday afternoon, sat a pair of patriarchs in the faith. They have occupied the same seats every afternoon since the famous evangelist began his campaign for the Aged Pillars of the Torrey Revival.

These faithful "regulars," ranging in years from seventy to ninety, are on hand for every meeting, always in time to get the same seats at the front. They were caught by the camera as they approached the tabernacle yesterday afternoon.

COLLEGE GIRLS IN JUBILATION.

THREE HUNDRED OF THEM JOY IN CHRISTIAN WORK.

Students of Southern California Places of Learning Sit Together at Capitola Banquet, Have Much Fun, and Cheer Those Who Are Working for Uplift—More Today.

More than 300 college girls of Southern California, with their yells and songs and "classy stunts," made things hum in the big dining-room of the Young Women's Christian Association last evening, where they had gathered at the invitation of the Territorial Committee for the Capitola banquet.

The bright faces of the girls, laughing at one another across the flower-decked tables, made a vivid picture, and the pennants of the seven institutions represented there added a distinctive note, for the banquet ushered in the Y.W.C.A. student conference which will formally open today. This conference and the great annual meeting at Capitola are the only occasions conversion of sinners and the "warming over" of Christians.

Their upturned faces beamed with joy; their lips frequently moved as if in assent to the words of the speaker, and every line in their time-seamed faces was tense with earnestness when they sang with trembling voices the songs they learned in the long ago.

The afternoon audiences have grown daily in numbers, and yesterday every seat was taken. These are distinctly different from the night audiences, as they are chiefly composed of men and women past middle life.

Many of them arrive at the tabernacle an hour before the doors are opened in order that they may secure the seats in which they have become accustomed to sit. They stand in groups at the entrance and discuss startling passages in the evangelist's sermons. Sometimes they get into warm controversies.

"As I came up the aisle this afternoon," said Dr. Torrey, yesterday, "my attention was called to the presence here of a lady whom I had not seen for twenty years."

He then related how she had sent for him in Minneapolis, and how he had found her a helpless invalid on a bed from which she had not moved for four years. At her request, he prayed for her recovery. The next day she went out calling, and on the following Sunday, she was in the congregation to which he preached.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Council is to purchase a new fire engine and five new trucks for increasing the department's efficiency. A site near Main and Fourth streets is also soon to be chosen for a new station.

Justice Selph yesterday began the preliminary examination of A. A. Talmage, accused by Dr. Ray D. Robinson of attempting to extort $150 from him on the 9th inst.

On grounds of desertion, Mrs. Ethel Hall Darnell of Monrovia, was, by Judge Oster, granted a divorce from Benjamin E. Darnell.

The Board of Education of San Pedro filed an answer to the mandamus suit brought by W. C. Houghton before Judge Conrey to test the State compulsory vaccination law.

AT THE CITY HALL.

NEW EQUIPMENT TO FIGHT FIRE.

COUNCIL TO BUY ENGINE AND FIRE WAGONS.

New Site for Station Near Main and Fourth Streets Will Be Another Improvement Soon to Be Settled—New Hose in Downtown Districts.

With the purchase of 12,000 feet of fire hose disposed of after the usual squall, the City Council is preparing to advertise for the purchase of $10,000 worth of new equipment for the fire department. Specifications have been prepared by Fire Chief Lips and sent to the Council for the purchase of one third-size steamer, one city service hook-and-ladder truck and four combination hose and chemical wagons. While this equipment will be bought soon, it is not expected to be in service before spring, because the new buildings where it is to be in use will not be ready by that time. Besides, the Council must provide especially for the salaries of eighteen additional men to man the new companies.

The new engine, hook and ladder truck and one combination hose and chemical wagon are to be placed in the new fire station at Main and Forty-fourth street. A combination wagon is to be placed in the new station at Vermont and Normandie avenues. The other wagons are to find service in replacing others in downtown stations.

After these purchases are made the Council will move in the direction of purchasing a site for a new station near Fourth and Main streets. This will probably not be done until after the holidays. This new station is to be well equipped and the first-class steamer recently purchased, but which has never been used, is to be part of the equipment.

Chief Lips says the new fire hose will be put in service in the downtown district after it has stood the required test. Under the demand of the Council every section will be tested separately before being accepted. The Chief believes the order will result in an excellent quality, because the manufacturers have declared they will furnish a hose that will meet all emergencies.

New Dog Office.

The well-furnished, cosy room at room 304, Laughlin building, on Broadway, near Third street, is now the main office of the city poundmaster and is open for the administration of the new humane system of handling animals under the ban of the law. Dr. W. A. Lamb, who is the poundmaster, will file his bond today and will name his two deputies. Then the new system will be in shape to begin work Monday morning. The new office is equipped with both telephones and its fine furnishings are the gift of a humanitarian—a woman—who stipulated that her name should not be divulged. Dr. Lamb says it will be some days before the new system as planned will be in full operation.

TOOTH FIGHT GOES TO COURT.

TALMAGE ROW WITH ROBINSON REACHES TRIAL STAGE.

Club Member, on Preliminary Examination on Charge of Extortion, Moves Through Counsel for Dismissal of Complaint—Writing Letter to Dentist Is Set Forth.

Archibald A. Talmage, the California Club member arrested Monday evening at the club on a charge of extortion preferred by Dr. Ray D. Robinson, a local tooth-puller, who got angry with his customer, was before Justice Selph yesterday afternoon for preliminary examination. Talmage was accompanied by Mrs. Talmage and his daughter, Virginia, for whom Dr. Robinson did the dental work that caused the trouble between the two men.

Sidney Dodge, a messenger boy, was the first witness called by the prosecution. He testified that he was called to the California Club last Monday morning and received from the hall clerk a letter addressed to Dr. R. D. Robinson. He said he at once took the letter to Dr. Robinson at his office in the Grant building and gave it to Dr. Robinson, who opened it.

Deputy Constable John Johnston, who arrested Talmage, testified that at Talmage's arraignment Tuesday morning, he heard Talmage say to his counsel, Attorney Wisehart, that he wrote the letter complained of.

Dr. Robinson corroborated Dodge's story of the delivery of the letter and identified the missive at which he took offense. The letter, which is signed with Talmage's name, states that unless Robinson send to Talmage at the California Club before 2 o'clock, November 9, a certified check for $150, Talmage will make public a full exposé of Robinson's transactions.

Attorney Jud Rush, for Talmage, then began a cross-examination of Dr. Robinson by asking him whether he had ever committed any crime or suffered any disgrace that Talmage knows anything about.

When answered with an emphatic negative, Attorney Rush at once moved to dismiss the charge, arguing that, under such a state of facts, the statute covering the crime of extortion does not apply and that Talmage had not been proved to be the author of the letter. A long debate ensue between Attorney Rush and Deputy Dist.-Atty. North for the prosecution. Decisions were quoted voluminously, and Justice Selph finally adjourned the hearing to this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Talmage did not present any defense, though he had witnesses ready to testify as to the work that Robinson did on his daughter's mouth. Talmage paid $250 for the work; Robinson demanded $350 more. Talmage concluded that he had already been overcharged $150 and the dispute culminated in Talmage's arrest.

WILL TEST LAW.

VACCINATION AT ISSUE.

What is said to be the first suit ever instituted in California to test the constitutionality of the State compulsory vaccination law will probably come to a hearing before Judge Conrey next Friday morning, to which time it was continued yesterday by request of counsel.

W. C. Houghton has brought suit against the Board of Education of San Pedro, and other city school officials, to compel them to admit to school attendance his sons, Frederick and William, who were refused admittance to the San Pedro schools on October 5, because they were not vaccinated. Houghton refused to have his children vaccinated, and sent them to school regularly every day to demand admittance, holding that he was compelled to do so under the State compulsory education law, which requires that minor children shall attend school.

The suit he has instituted against the San Pedro school authorities is to determine which of these apparently conflicting school laws is constitutional.

The defendants in the suit yesterday filed their answer to Houghton's complaint. They state that the Board of Education of San Pedro on July 7 last decided to inforce the compulsory vaccination law in the San Pedro city schools. Four physicians were employed to vaccinate all unvaccinated school children, and notices were given to all parents of the new regulation governing attendance at San Pedro city schools.

The city superintendent, on October 1, notified all children that they must present vaccination certificates on October 5 if they were to continue to attend school. The Houghton children did not present certificates, and were therefore excluded, according to the regulations of the Board of Education.

The city officials set up the statutory character of the State compulsory vaccination law as their defense.

MARRIES YOUNG.

DIVORCE FOLLOWS SOON.

The infatuation of a 17-year-old girl for the proprietor of a Monrovia skating rink, her marriage to him, and her discovery that the fellow deliberately married her, not because he loved her, but because he wanted her to support him, were facts brought out by a divorce suit in Judge Oster's court yesterday.

Mrs. Ethel Hall Darnell of Monrovia testified that she married Benjamin F. Darnell, formerly proprietor of a Monrovia skating rink, in October, 1906. She was 17 years old at the time, and yesterday she said that Darnell had never really supported her, but had expected her to make a living for both. She said her mother had set him up in the restaurant business twice and that she (the wife) had worked in the restaurants. But both ventures proved a failure and Mrs. Darnell had next gone to piano playing in a moving picture show. Her husband was lazy and shiftless, and seemed unwilling to do any work, she said.

Charles Goodale, former partner of Darnell in the skating rink, testified that, before his marriage, Darnell had told him he did not care anything at all for the girl he was going to marry, but he wanted her mother's money. Darnell also said, the witness testified, that his wife had a good voice and he calculated that she could make a good living for him, as he did not care to work any more than he had to. In reply to a question by the court, Goodale said his former partner was not dissipated.

The decree was granted.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BLIND PIGS. Detectives Louis Duni and Victor Carey, under the direction of Chief Detective S. L. Browne of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the District Attorney's office, yesterday conducted a raid on the drug store of Ernest Battell at Sherman and arrested James Roddick, the manager, for selling liquor without a license. A large quantity of stuff was found in the place. Another raid was made on Cahuenga Tavern, near Hollywood, run by Conn and Anderson, under a restaurant, but not a liquor license. Conn, Anderson, and Roddick were arraigned last evening in the Pasadena Justice Court, where Roddick was fined $200 last September on his arrest for a like offense.

INCORPORATION. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with the County Clerk by the National Concealed Bed Company, capital stock $50,000.

AUTO PATROL HERE.

New Machine Will Make Its First Trip Today, Supplanting Horses on the "Wagon."

The big Gearless patrol automobile, purchased by the city of Los Angeles at an expense of $4000 for police work, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday morning and will make its first duty trip today.

The machine is built along the lines of a racer. It was manufactured by the Gearless Company of Rochester, N. Y., and was shipped to Los Angeles. It is a seventy-five-horse-power affair, with a capacity of sixty miles an hour in the speed line.

Yesterday afternoon several speed tests were made, with excellent results. The big car was sent spinning against the steepest hills of Los Angeles, and went up and over them like lightning.

Jack Mott, William Plieski and Jack Hill, veterans in the art of driving the big patrol wagon horses, have been receiving instruction as chauffeurs for the past month or more, and will be put in as drivers of the new car. An expert will be with them for the first week or more to give them instruction on the management of the new machine.

The car will hold ten men when crowded, and stretcher straps will be made in the walls to carry the injured.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

COURT CLEARS FORMER BEAU.

CHARGES OF PASSING BOGUS CHECKS DISMISSED.

Banker Testifies That One-time Social Pet at Washington Has Account and Case Falls Through. Pawnbroker Held on Embezzlement Charge Brought by Woman.

Following a brief preliminary examination before Justice Chambers in the Police Court, yesterday afternoon, C. E. Young, at one time a social lion of Washington, charged with passing ficticious checks, was released, and the complaints dismissed.

Young was arrested several days ago by Detectives Ritch and Roberds. There were five or six checks, held by various saloons and hotels. These checks were alleged to have been signed by Young, and the holders complained that they could not cash them.

The proprietor of the Wellington saloon filed the complaint and turned over Young's check for $20 to the police.

Young, although a man of education, with a good record as an attorney, did not have a single friend in Los Angeles who would supply his bail.

He remained in jail until yesterday, when he was taken before Justice Chambers for preliminary examination. The proceeding was short.

A banker took the stand and stated that Young had the right to draw on the bank to the extent of $100. That testimony settled the case, although it was not stated why the checks were not honored.

The court readily exonerated Young, and the case was scratched from the docket.

Hawley Is Held.

F. R. Hawley of the Stimson block was given preliminary examination before Justice Frederickson of the Police Court, on a felony embezzlement charge, yesterday, and held for trial in the Superior Court under $1500 bonds.

Hawley was taken before Justice Frederickson last Thursday, and pleaded guilty to a charge of conducting a pawn-broker's business without a license. Miss Isabel Williams complained that on May 4 she pawned a diamond valued at $400, and received $85 from Hawley. She alleges that when she demanded the return of the gem, Hawley refused to make a statement regarding its whereabouts, and would not return it.

She then filed the charges, charging felony embezzlement.

Hunts Shirt Waist.

Mrs. Louise McGarry of No. 1601 Griffith avenue was granted a warrant yesterday to search the apartments of Mrs. Dorothy Smith, a trained nurse, who lives at the Picomain apartments.

Mrs. McGarry was injured a short time ago and employed Mrs. Smith to care for her. She alleges the nurse took a shirt waist belonging to her, and the warrant was solicited in an attempt to recover the property.

FOUNDER'S FRIEND PRESENT.

First Vice-President of King's Daughters and Sons Graces Meeting of Order Here.

Special interest attached to the first annual convention of the Southern California branch of the International Order of Kings Daughters and Sons, held yesterday at the First Methodist Church, on account of the presence of Miss G. H. Libby of New York City, who is the first vice-president of the order.

Miss Libby has been connected with the King's Daughters and its founder, the late Mrs. Margaret Bottome, for many years. She wears the little silver cross, worn by Mrs. Bottome during her life time.

Mrs. Parsons, one of the members present yesterday at the convention has worn her cross for twenty-two years, having joined the King's Daughters when it was first organized in New York, twenty-two years ago.

Rev. and Mrs. Alvah Grant Fessenden, now of San Bernardino, came to Los Angeles to attend the convention. Mrs. Fessenden is Southern State secretary and presided at the day's sessions. She related briefly the objects of the order, and the growth during the past year. She reported six new circles organized, two in the Grandview Presbyterian Church, three in San Bernardino, and one in Hollywood.

A number of interesting talks were made during the day, and an especially fine report from the Los Angeles Day Nursery under the King's Daughters' management.

The election of officers resulted as follows: State secretary, Mrs. Alvah G. Fessenden; assistant State secretary, Mrs. Mason; recording secretary, Miss Marie Crow; treasurer, Mrs. Swartzel.

A reception will be held this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in honor of Miss Libby, at the Westmore Hotel, and a memorial service for Mrs. Bottome will be conducted. Rev. E. P. Ryland of the Church Federation will make the address, and Miss Mollie Adelia Brown will sing. The Silver Cross Circle of South Pasadena, and the "Whatsoever Circle" of the Grandview Presbyterian Church will have charge of the reception.

there under the name of Louise Lieper. She was invited to several exclusive affairs, and society welcomed her.

She was selected as the honored guest of the Averill Club and was to have delivered an address on Parisian customs.

The address was never delivered because the heartless tradesmen demanded their pay and it was necessary for the women to move away, which they did, making a quiet exit.

TRAPPED AT LAST.

"We have received many reports regarding these women, but could never get track of them," said Detective Zeigler, yesterday. "Finally, as I was about to leave San Francisco, after having attended a case there, I was warned by a hotel keeper that these women were headed for Los Angeles and that I had better look out for them. I met them on the train. They were certainly the easy talkers. At Santa Barbara I wired Detective Hosick to meet us at the station and follow the women. He did so and they went to the Van Nuys Hotel. They stayed there for a day or so until the arrival of the manager, who had heard of them, and then they made a hurried departure. We kept them under watch until we received complaint from the Hotel Ingraham regarding a debt of $55 owed by these women.

"We went to the Hotel Chickasaw this afternoon and as we were about to enter we were met by Detective Freeman of Pasadena, who had also been keeping watch on the women. He had two warrants for their arrest. They have lived under any number of aliases, and so far as we can learn their operations have been unlimited in the 'living easy for nothing' business. We have other complaints against them and will probably file them."

Both women appeared at the City Jail in fashionable automobile coats of gorgeous blue silk. They were very well dressed and appeared greatly grieved that charges should have been preferred against them.

OUR OWN BIG SHOW.

Made in Southern California Display Open Tonight, the Mayor Pressing the Button.

The old Panorama Rink on Main street will be the Mecca tonight and some time to come for people who want a practical demonstration of the fact that Los Angeles has taken its place as one of the leading industrial centers of the country, and that Southern California, as a whole, is producing about everything that may be desired in the way of luxuries and necessities.

The Mayor is down for the first number on the programme at 7:45 tonight. His duty simply will be the touching of a button, and the act will set in motion the machinery of the Made In Southern California Exposition, and inaugurate the original home-products boosting proposition.

Over 150 exhibits of industrial institutions of various descriptions are there. Immense engines and hoisting apparatus, the concentrated sweetness of the flowers that bloom in the sunny climate of Southern California, canned products of orchards and shrubberies, sweet-tooth morsels manufactured from pure beet sugar, the products of the great vineyards, and even the bottles, will be seen displayed attractively in booths.

In extent the exposition exceeds anything of the kind ever held on the Coast, and is over twice the size of the initial show held at the same place last year.

Among the attractions provided for the patrons of the exposition is a model theater, constructed immediately north of the lobby at the Main-street entrance. Here will be given continuous afternoon and evening performances of Zukor's "Humanovo," which made a great hit in New York, where it originated, and which has not heretofore been produced on the Coast.

The theater, as well as the main exposition building, are amply protected from danger by fire by the installation of a complete water system, which can be put in service at a moment's notice by means of an engine installed as one of the exhibits, and which was manufactured in Los Angeles.

The cooking school, with its corps of trained cooks, is in readiness for giving instructions as to the best methods of applying the art culinary to the products of Southern California. Cesare la Monaca, the youthful leader, will have his musical organization, the Royal Italian Band, there.

WE DEFEAT IT.

Los Angeles County Votes Down "Number One" by Majority of Seventeen Thousand.

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 1, exempting corporations from city and county taxes, fared badly in Southern California. Every county south of the Tehachepi appears to have voted against it. The official count of the votes on this amendment in Los Angeles county was finished yesterday by the Board of Supervisors.

The totals are as follows: For the amendment 12,837, against the amendment 29,959 votes; majority against, 17,072. This adverse majority is sufficient to insure the defeat of the amendment. In the North the vote was very close.

SAN PEDRO POLITICS.

has never been attempted in the State before," says Goodrich. "The call for the election is open to attack on the contention that the separation act does not contemplate cutting off so large a slice as to reduce a city from a higher class to a lower. I doubt if the Supreme Court will decide that this is the intent of the act.

"A second objection is that the separationists have no way to force the Council to call the election at once. When the petition is presented, the Trustees may set the date for the election two years ahead. This will block consolidation for at least two years.

"I think that if we are to consolidate we should consolidate as a whole and not dismember ourselves."

The petitions calling for city separation will be presented to the City Trustees of San Pedro at their meeting next Tuesday. At that time they will probably be referred to the City Clerk for verification of the signatures. The Trustees are opposed to the separation and they are expected to hold off the election as long as possible.

FINDS FOR DEFENDANT.

The second District Court of Appeal yesterday sustained the judgment of the lower court in favor of the defendants in the case of A. C. Butler against May C. Agnew and Elias N. Agnew. The plaintiff urged a reversal of judgment in favor of the defendants because it was not supported by the findings, but the appellate Court states that his point is not well taken.

the district, the strike recently reported by telegraph from the Gold Roads mine is one of the greatest importance. It was made in the Billy Bryan shaft at a depth of 700 feet, and the ore carries very high values. It is said that the property has now developed six separate and distinct ore shoots, and it is conservatively reported that the mine now has 300,000 tons of $10 ore in sight. F. L. Bosqui, who was in charge of the metallurgical problem solved by the erection of the Goldfield Consolidated plant at Goldfield, has been at the Gold Roads for some time superintending the installation of improvements at the mill. It is said that experiments have proved that it will be necessary to put in tube mills in order to obtain the highest possible extraction. William Bailey of this city, who is one of the directors of the company, is now attending a meeting of the Gold Roads in Paris, and it is expected that telegraphic instructions will soon be received for the management to proceed with the installation of the tube mills and other improvements at the plant.

Movements of Mining Men.

L. W. Powell, managing director of the Calumet and Arizona and Superior and Pittsburgh, has returned to Bisbee, after a visit to his family in this city.

T. N. McCauley, president of the Mascot Copper Company, has opened offices in San Francisco, and will probably remain there for some time. His company also maintains offices in this city, Salt Lake City, and Chicago.

Fitz-James MacArthur, better known to the mining world as "Fitz-Mac," is a guest in the city, and will remain for a few days. He has done a great deal toward bringing the mines of Arizona before the world.

EXCITEMENT.

BORES CAUSE OF MUCH COMMENT.

SUDDEN SEARCH FOR OIL NEAR OROSI, TULARE COUNTY.

Secrecy Shown by Bakersfield and Selma Capitalists in Prospecting New Field—Conditions Very Similar to First Discoveries at Bakersfield and Coalinga.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VISALIA, Nov. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Without making the intentions generally known, Bakersfield and Selma capitalists have begun to bore for oil near Orosi, in the northern part of Tulare county. This has caused much excitement in that vicinity and among Visalians who own land in the vicinity. A derrick was completed yesterday. A well which will be put down 800 feet, was started today by John Legrange, of Selma.

Indications of oil said to be flattering and several wells put down for irrigation purposes lately have contained oil on the surface of the water It is understood eastern oil experts have said the prospects of obtaining petroleum in that vicinity are first class. This prompted the Bakersfield and Selma men to take a chance. They are confident they will succeed. Conditions are very similar to the first oil discoveries at Bakersfield and Coalinga.

LARGE SUGAR BEET ACREAGE.

The Pacific Sugar Company has announced that a large acreage has been signed up and will be planted to sugar beets to supply the Visalia factory next year. Arrangements have been completed for the planting of 1000 acres in the Visalia district during the present month, and 2000 acres between December and next March. Besides this 1000 acres will be planted in the Corcoran district and if the factory at that place is to be operated next year, as now seems probable, an additional 4000 acres will be put in there. The beets are being planted earlier this year than ever before, as experiments have shown that they will do very well when planted in November and will be ready for the factory in June of the following year, thus insuring a longer campaign.

George Wallace, an old pioneer of California who first came to the State in 1849, died day before yesterday at his home in Porterville. He was well known throughout the county and valley and left a large circle of relatives and friends.

REJECT ALL BIDS.

The Supervisors rejected yesterday all bids received for the construction of a new bridge near Kings River, north of Traver. The old bridge was washed away by floods some time ago. The bids ranged from $8817 to $9200. The Supervisors think the bridge can be built according to specifications for $7000.

Work on the new $12,000 Catholic Church in this city was begun yesterday. When completed the building will be one of the finest churches in the city.

The Visalia High School football team will play the Lowell High School team of San Francisco on Christmas Day, in this city. The local High School held the championship of the valley for several years and this year's team is apparently as strong as those of former seasons. Last Saturday the Visalia team won from Hanford by the score of 50 to 0.

LAND OFFICE BUSINESS.

Business continues lively at the land office. John G. Sorgen of Delano made additional homestead entry for the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 2-25-27, yesterday. Ernest Strong of Visalia made homestead entry for the south half of the northwest quarter, southwest quarter of northeast quarter and northwest quarter of southeast quarter of section 24-17-27; J. Pace of Farmersville, for northwest quarter of section 30-18-28; John H. Tatman of Porterville, for northwest quarter of section 10-22-29.

The following cancellations were received: Nora L. Baird of Coalinga, desert land entry embracing the south half of the northeast quarter, south half of lots 1 and 2, and lots 3 and 4 of section 30-20-17. William M. Butler of Dinuba, southeast quarter of section 30-26-22. Napoleon B. Witt of Porterville, northeast quarter of section 28-19-16. Henry C. Witt of Success, south half of section 28-19-16.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

WELLS INVADE HOME TRACTS.

Plans of Fine Residences at Beverly Given up.

Country Club's Territory Is Bounded by Holes.

Lively Scramble for Land in That Vicinity.

An extension of the oil belt about a mile north of the Los Angeles Pacific's Hollywood and Sawtelle lines, west of Beverly, seems assured by the results attained at the Consolidated Petroleum Company's well just west of the Los Angeles Country Club's tract. The drill was down 1790 feet, yesterday, and the last fifty feet had been in live oil sand, interspersed with a small amount of shale. The hole is filled with water for drilling purposes and it is impossible to tell how much oil is there, but it comes up in fair quantities in the baler. It is apparently about 18 gravity.

The drill passed through dead sand at about 1350 feet. Now it is going through a shell. From the indications, the owners believe the well to be only the capping of the main body of oil sand. There is sufficient gas pressure to make the water bubble in the baler but not enough to cause a flow.

The distance to the nearest producing well, the Amalgamated's first rotary drilled hole, just south of the railroad track, is about a mile. The company has 740 acres in one body and will immediately start another well, south about half a mile, using a rotary to go the first 1500 feet and then changing to a cable string. The present well is cable-drilled. The Amalgamated's hole, just south, is the one in which the water has never been successfully shut off. The Consolidated has shut off the water in its new well without difficulty.

North, and a little east, of the Consolidated, the Sloan Oil Company, composed of Ion L. Clark and associates, has a well down about 1600 feet and has no oil yet. It is in shale and the men are working with a ten-inch casing. This is a quarter of a mile from the Consolidated's well. A strike will make the Country Club's tract touched by producing holes on the north, west and south.

The Amalgamated owns practically all the land around the club except the Consolidated's tract. Making a fine residence district at Beverly is no longer thought of as the oil district is coming closer and closer and various companies are known to be endeavoring to get as much of the land as they can. The interesting feature is that it was all owned by the individuals in the Amalgamated at one time and they placed it on the market as residence lots, with a proviso against drilling within certain distances.

East of this point, about a mile and a half on the road toward Hollywood, the Northwest Oil Company, a concern chiefly owned by Thomas R. Gabel, formerly general manager of the Los Angeles-Pacific and one of the owners of the Consolidated, is down 800 odd feet. A formation of chist rock has been encountered and drilling is extremely difficult and slow. Despite the general opinion that this is an unfavorable formation, oil has been encountered, but in very small amounts.

Ion L. Clark, Edwin M. Clark, B. W. Watlington, and associates, have leased 200 acres west of the Amalgamated's first drilling site, between The Palms and Sawtelle. They have ninety days to start their first string but hope to be at work within thirty. The Amalgamated has about 1000 acres leased there, it is understood, on one-sixth royalty.

New Field in Ventura.

J. M. Kellerman will start drilling at once at the southwest corner of the Tapo ranch, in Ventura county, ten miles west of the Los Angeles-Ventura counties' line and north of Strathearn station on the Espee's Santa Paula line. The land is undeveloped but has fine surface indications. Sands and seepages are plentiful. The nearest producing wells are the Union's in Torrey Cañon, five miles north, and the McCray wells, five miles east. The outlook, judged from what is found in these wells, is for a 22 to 25 gravity oil at something like 2000 feet. For the present, Mr. Kellerman will work the property as a personal venture but may form a company later.

Nicodemus Location Wrong.

An error was made by the Nicodemus people in giving the location of their No. 3 well, which is reported to have flowed recently. Instead of being on section 4-31-22, the first land held by the company, it is on 34-30-22, two miles to the northeast—the old Belgian Petroleum property. This land is within the proven belt. There are two producing wells of 1200 and 1250 feet, yielding an aggregate of fifty barrels of about 15 gravity. The latest well is down 1600 feet, and is going farther. The strike recently reported was below the depth of the old holes. Section 4 is still untouched, and only drilling will demonstrate its value.

Santa Fe Drills on Ten.

The Santa Fé has taken over the claim of W. P. Cunningham and associates to section 10-32-22, and has two rigs at work. This is one of the tracts which fé claimed by Elmer E. Jones. The latest report is that the casing has collapsed at 600 feet in Mr. Jones's well on section 14, stopping work temporarily. Mr. Cunningham is said to be down about 1400 feet, and it is supposed that he has struck some oil.

Hydraulic Method With Cable.

The Amalgamated has been quite successful in the Arcturus No. 4, drilled by the combined hydraulic and cable tool method, of which M. H. Whittier is the originator. The prediction that to drill into the oil sand by this process would spoil the well has failed to come true. The result is very encouraging, and the method will be tried at other wells. It has been successfully used at Coalinga.

At Newport Beach.

At Newport Beach the Balboa well is showing up better since drilling was re-commenced after the blow-out last week. The tools are covered with oil and the owners are very sanguine.

J. M. Kellerman reports very good luck with his well three quarters of a mile from the Balboa's, and adjoining the Newport Bay's property. Both are at 2600-odd feet.

Oil Men and Notes.

F. E. Mannell has resigned the management of the St. Lawrence Oil Company, which is drilling in the north end of Midway.

The Los Angeles Aqueduct Bureau is to call for bids for furnishing 500 barrels of crude oil a day.

W. S. Porter, general manager of the Associated, is a guest at the Van Nuys.

W. M. Dunham of Coalinga, well known in oil circles, is at the Natick.

M. V. McQuigg, chairman of the committee from the northern fields to organize the producers of the South, has been in the North for several days, and hence has not announced the membership of the Organization Committee. He is expected hime today.

Cortland Lawrence, late with Pearson & Sons on the Isthmus of Tehauntepec, Mex., is at the Hollenbeck. This is his first visit to California.

BELMONT ANNEXATION.

"Whiplash" Joke on Long Beach May Prove Boomerang to New City of Belmont Heights.

The people of the Long Beach School District, which includes at present, the city of Belmont Heights, are much exercised over what they believe to be an attempt of the latter city, to "crib" a new school house which is now in course of construction, at a cost of $25,000.

The people of Belmont Heights have set on foot an election to annex a "whiplash" strip of territory, running in an irregular line, from the ocean front, in a northwesterly direction to Wilmington, and shooting off to the north at American avenue, a half-mile east of the end of the proposed line at Wilmington Colony, a distance of one mile, to Spring street, taking in The Willows. At no place is the strip more than sixty feet wide, and sometimes less than thirty feet.

The whole proposition looks ridiculous," said a Long Beach man yesterday, "and is regarded as a huge joke by many people, but the joke may be turned."

The school house that has been included in the proposed annexation would fail to Belmont, should they be successful, and according to law they would be compelled to pay the entire expense of its construction, which would not be at all funny. The election is called for November 27, and it is only a concidence that there are just twenty-seven voters in the strip. If successful a large number of students will be cut out of high school privileges, unless they should see fit to pay tuition.

FINDS HER MOTHER DEAD.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Walbridge, aged 58 years, of No. 5317 Central avenue, was found dead about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon by her daughter, Mrs. Leona Silva, who had gone to spend the afternoon with her. After a superficial examination, Dr. A. N. Wilson, who had been her family physician, announced that she died of heart failure. Mrs. Silva recently came from the East to spend two months with her family. She passed most of the time with her mother. About an hour before Mrs. Silva started for her mother's house she telephoned what time she would be there. Mrs. Walbridge had apparently been hurrying to get her house work finished, and the attack of heart failure was probably induced by exhaustion.

COURT OF JUSTICE NO PLACE FOR GUNS.

The shooting of F. J. Heney, special prosecutor of the so-called graft cases, in Judge Lawlor's courtroom at San Francisco, yesterday, was one of the sensational climaxes which have come thick and fast in the course of these prosecutions, that have been marked by scandal, brutality and viciousness from the start, bringing one reproach after another upon San Francisco.

The would-be assassin in this latest outbreak was a criminal who had a grievance peculiarly his own. He evidently was under the influence of liquor. He cannot lay the blame on anybody else, no matter how many offers of immunity may be made to him. He is a bad character and has fully explained his motive in firing at Heney. He must pay the penalty for his crime, his dastardly and horrifying crime. He is an enemy of the public weal, with whom the public will have no patience.

The shooting again suggests the unwisdom of the San Francisco policy of tolerating and carrying of guns in a court of justice. We have seen the contending lawyers and others displaying these weapons in open court, day after day in that city, and boasting of it. Indeed, it has been the fashion to go to court in San Francisco, armed. It is a most dangerous and reprehensible practice and it is full time for the San Francisco courts to stop it. We commend to their attention the example of a Los Angeles county judge who recently, learning that a number of men were in his courtroom with guns in their pockets, compelled every man-jack of them to go out and disarm.

FROM SLAVERY TO THRONE.

The Emperor of China is reported to be dead; but his fate counts for little in that of the Flowery Kingdom. The real governor has long been the Queen Mother, Tsi An, aged about 67.

This woman, who since 1861 has governed with much ability some 400,000,000 humans, was once a slave. An American Ambassador to China at about the time of the Boxer uprising wrote of her that she would take her place in history by the side of Elizabeth of England and Catherine of Russia.

Up in Manchuria in some rural district in 1831 was born to a Manchu a girl baby. Hard times oppressed the house of this noble barbarian and he migrated to South China to seek fortune in a new country, Canton was the new abode. The little girl was then about four years old. Ill fortune was persistent and the child fished out driftwood along the streams to warm the house and cook the meager fare. She picked up such herbs as were edible and attainable, and did scavenger work along the streets for what could be eaten. No relief came.

The mite of a child prevailed on her father to sell her into slavery in order to get something for the rest to eat. The little slave was competent, tactful and gained the favor of her new master. Being Manchurian, she had the natural use of her feet, and in some way not known she learned to read. So she grew and in a small way prospered until 1848, when she was 17. In spite of hard fortune, rough work and spare living, she was a beauty.

Like many of her sex, her face proved her fortune. The Emperor at that time, one Hein-Fung, was childless and advancing in age and desirous of an heir, as Napoleon, he proposed to try a new wife. An imperial edict went abroad that all Manchus in the empire who had comely and intelligent daughters of 15 to 18 years should dispatch them to the palace at Peking to have a wife for Hien-Fung chosen. The pretty slave girl running the streets of Canton read the edict, looked in the mirror and said in her heart, "Why not I?" She said it to her master. He not merely approved, but fitted little Tsi out in pomp to go to Peking. Out of 9000 Manchu damsels the slave child was one of the ten who endured the sifting process. Admitted to the presence of the Emperor, she found favor in his eyes as she had in others before, and became the second wife of the Brother of the Sun and Cousin of the Moon. Beauty and vivacity no doubt won the heart of the Emperor. How gain favor in the eyes of the derated Empress? A pretty face would not assuage female jealousy. Diplomacy, girl! This is your card to play now. Little Tsi held the trump, played and took the trick. She was almost as great a favorite with No. 1 as with her lord. She became doubly dear to the royal heart when in due time she presented him with the greatly desired heir to the throne.

The idol of the old King's heart, persona grata to the Empress, with her royal infant to love, things went swimmingly with the slave child transformed to Empress. No cloud obscured her sun until when the little prince was 6 the French and the English made war on China. Hien-Fung fled to the mountains, taking Tsi and the little Prince along. The "foreign devils" marched to Peking and there made a treaty of peace on their own terms with the Minister. The humiliation broke old Hien-Fung's heart and he died, as becomes one with that important organ smashed. This was in 1861. He left the throne to the little Prince, Tung-Chi. He was but 12 years old. There was a regency. This was headed by the two Empresses, who were to exercise equal powers, and the Prime Minister, one Lung Chi.

Gathering driftwood out of swollen streams and trying to keep soul and body from permanent divorce on nothing to eat were hard tasks. To step into the place of a discarded wife and not quarrel was a harder task. But another task was the hardest of all. The empire was almost in ruins. Failure of crops had left the people starving. The public debt was enormous. Conspiracies ruled the palace; uprisings came daily in one province or another. Tsi An never faltered before any difficulty; she met no problem beyond her power to solve. But 27 years old and face to face with the old Empress and with the cunning of the Prime Minister, she saw she must do something, and "do it first."

Kung, young brother of the dead Emperor, was the apparent head of affairs. He had stood in the place of the Emperor when that one had fled and the treaty was made with the intruding Occidentals. He had as little use for the regency as Tsi. How to get rid of the regents?

Their duty was to celebrate annually the rites at the grave of the dead Emperor. While performing these ceremonies they were seized, charged with grave errors in the performance and duly beheaded, Lung Chi among them. This brought peace for a few years, and China began to get into better conditions in all respects. But Prince Kung, being a man, was getting all the glory. This was not agreeable to ambitious Tsi, who, having jumped out of the fetters of a slave to a throne, would be Empress in fact as well as in name. Hesitation or fear were not for her. She made a grab at the Prince, tore off all his peacock feathers, all the buttons on his cap and his jackets, red, yellow and green. This made a noise even in China, and the diplomatic Tsi issued a second edict restoring the Prince to place, but not to power. He was content to have the place and leave the power to the dowager Empress, no doubt thinking that the surest way to prevent his head from following his cap. The slave girl had now reached the pinnacle of her glory.

In 1872, Tung-Chi, being of the age of 23 years, his imperial and imperious mother thought fit to make him a shadow of a king. His education had been in the maternal hands, and is said to have been so managed as to render him incapable of ever being anything more than a puppet. He had much taste for pleasure, little ambition for power. His tastes were largely gratified and no ambitious honors were thrust upon him. An empress had to be gotten, and one was chosen in the same way Tsi had trod to reach the royal bed, but Tsi took care that her son should have the right kind of wife. The mother made the selection for her son. The girl's name was Al-Sau-Ti, daughter of Cheng, a true Manchu. She was comely, virtuous; what more was to be asked? The marriage ceremonies were gorgeous. The bride received rich presents, retired to her private apartments in the palace and has scarcely ever been heard of since.

Tsi An did not intrude her personality on the world. The older Empress kept to one wing of the palace and the young one to the other. They seldom met. The mother naturally had her son near to her and exercised great influence over him. The lonely old Empress, who knew what had happened to her associates in the regency, was content that they let her merely live. The Emperor lived but a few years and died in 1875. The young consort was about to become a mother. The possible birth of an heir made some convention between the Empresses necessary. They put aside the widow of the dead Tung Chi, chose a son of the younger brother of the old Emperor Hien-Tung as heir to the throne, and this secured the actual power to Tsi An for a future term of years. She kept as figurehead Prince Kung near to her until 1884, when he was degraded and replaced by Chun, also brother of Hien-Tung and father of the adopted heir to the throne. But Tsi's real right hand was now Li Hung Chang, perhaps the greatest Chinese to appear yet, so well known in Europe and America.

There is a tradition that when the Empress was a little slave she fell from a boat into a dangerous stream and that Li, also a slave and deck-hand, plunged in and rescued the child. The first wife of Hien-Fung died in due time, and from that time to this Tsi An has had no real rival near the throne on which the Emperor sits, but from behind which she rules.

The sick Emperor is now 37 years old. Li Hung-Chang died about eight years ago, aged 80. The dowager Empress is approaching the same advanced age. She and Li are the greatest of all Chinese in authentic history and both were slaves.

"SWOLLEN FORTUNES" MULTIPLY.

If it is a sin to have wealth then this is the most sinful age of the world and we are the most sinful people. We hear so much of "predatory wealth," of "tainted money," and "swollen fortunes;" but in spite of it all this generation in this land is building more churches than ever known before; large numbers go to church, make more liberal contributions for religion. The same is true of education. No other generation, no land, ever spent such sums on learning as ours. So is it of hospitals, asylums of all kinds, and of all the institutions that are not merely material but which minister to the higher needs of humanity.

And the shocking thing about these "swollen fortunes" is that they are becoming more numerous. They were once confined to "trust magnates" and such "undesirables." Now they are spreading down among the "common peepul" and there is danger that Socialists may at no distant day be numbered among the "sinfully rich."

The farmers are all being corrupted with excess of wealth. They ride in autos; their wives go to church in silks; their daughters play on grand pianos. Farmers have bank accounts, loan money and take usurious interests on their "ill-gotten gains." They invest in elevators, buy bank stock, finance factory enterprises. And the most alarming of all is now about to happen. Up along the Columbia River the farmers are negotiating for the purchase of a railroad line to carry their crops to tidewater at Portland.

Think of these evil days on which we have fallen when a man can no longer remain poor, try he ever so hard. He may run like a scared coyote, but the corrupting dollars fly on eagles' wings and get into his pockets, do what he may.

The wicked "railroad magnates" have put up freight rates and "amassed great fortunes." They have coined the sweat of the poor man's face into money. This was bad, but not a sign of universal "undesirableness." This came when the honest farmers sent butter up to 50 cents a pound, eggs to 60 cents a dozen, and turkey to 35 cents a pound. No more drumsticks for the baby on Thanksgiving Day! Yes, and the cow that gives us milk and the patient mule that hauls the brick wagon and kicks to spare us the trouble are to be bereft of their ration, too. Hay $20 a ton! Think of these farmers who have joined the army of the "predatory rich" and walk heads high in the air, so proud of their "swollen fortunes" that they care not a straw how "tainted" money may be, if they can get their nibs on the "root of all evil!" Hu[illegible]

LEFT IN THE SAME HANDS.

RIGHT LIVING.

We are in the dark as to the details in the plan of a Chicago clergyman to expand the scope of church work by teaching the theory and practice of "right living." The fundamental idea is preventing diseases of the body, or of relieving patients who are suffering from physical ills, by a way of right living. But there is reason to believe that the fundamental idea is a good one, if it is properly worked out.

There is something of the idea of healing by suggestion in this new work proposed by Bishop Fallows, but he is wise, it seems to us, in not stopping there. More than half the physical ills we suffer from might be avoided by right living. Here an ounce of prevention is worth a hundred times a pound of cure. Among the poor there is a woeful ignorance as to right living, and the very poorest are the most ignorant. Many thousands of women marry and undertake to manage households, including the raising of children, who know not how to cook a meal out of any given ingredients, and who know less about raising children than sparrows or cats do about their offspring.

If Bishop Fallows can secure a coöperation of Christian women who do understand these matters, with the requisite tact to gain access into the homes of the poor and to win the confidence of the housekeepers in these homes, he may accomplish great good. Not only the preparation of food is not understood by many of them, but the best way to dress at the least cost needs as much explanation. The care of the sick is another branch to be taken up.

But it will not be easy to secure the proper talent. Few who know these things well can neglect the work of their own homes to teach others. Fewer still have the tact. It will not be easy to make the poor realize that teacher is not a "stuck-up" interloper. But no doubt the difficulties can be overcome by patient, kindly perseverance.

Modern church work has been apt to stand aloof from the world. Opportunities for spiritual culture are afforded, but when the feast was spread of old the servants of the Lord were compelled to go out into the highways and hedges for guests. Is this done now as zealously as it should be?

Then, too, religious teaching has been sometimes too much concerned in teaching us how to die rather than how to live. The preaching of a life to live beyond the grave in a world we know little of and the sermons on the divine nature, a subject of necessity incomprehensible, are responsible for many poorly attended churches.

HOW DO FOREST FIRES START?

Who starts forest fires which cause so much ruination? "Campers and locomotives," is the usual answer, while many other things which start blazes in the forests are forgotten. No one keeps a complete report of the fires on the private forests of the country and their causes, but Uncle Sam is careful to account for the damage done by fires on his timberland under forest administration, issuing a full report thereon soon after the close of each calendar year.

While waiting for that report for 1908 the figures of the forest service for 1907 will probably answer the question, "How do forest fires start?" On the national forests last year 1355 fires were discovered, all of which were checked by the forest service rangers before they had destroyed more than fourteen-hundredths of one per cent. of the national forest area; campers caused 346; railroads, 278; lightning, 176; donkey engines in lumbering, 65; careless brush burning, 34; incendiaries and herders and hunters, 30. For more than 400 of the 1355 fires the cause is not known.

The rangers on many of the national forests have been kept busy fighting fires which, if left to run unchecked, would have done incalculable damage. By quickening communication between important points by telephone lines and building roads and trails, the national forests have been made more accessible during the past two years and fire-fighting has been greatly facilitated. No mistake has been made in the government's appropriations for this purpose, although they might have been more economically expended.

He Said a Hair.

Roger Minot Sherman, while arguing a celebrated case, said his opponent could no more prove his point than he could cut a hair lengthwise. While he was still talking the opponent, who happened to have a very sharp knife, pulled a hair from his beard and split it. As he held it up the court began to laugh and Mr. Sherman quickly called out. "I said a hair, sir; not a bristle."—[Exchang[illegible]

"I say, Marquis, I want to introduce you to a lady who knew you at Biarritz—by sight," and before he could expostulate or escape, Mr. McWilliam was muttering: "Mrs. Sherry-Shayne, may I present the Marquis de Sarasin? Mrs. Webber, the Marquis de Sarasin," and he found himself launched on a new acquaintance.

After a little talk about the weather and the run, "Won't you come right away and sit with us, and have a chat?" said Mrs. Shayne, handing him her empty cup. "I am devoted to Biarritz, and we are sure to have some mutual friends."

"No doubt," he answered, with a low bow, and he followed the ladies to their special sheltered nook, and assisted them to arrange their rugs and cushions, with a dexterity that betokened long practice.

After some desultory talk about Biarritz, golf and various entertainments, Mrs. Shayne proceeded, in a delicate and subtle fashion, to question her new acquaintance with respect to his plans. She touched on money investments, trusts and matrimony; but Paul adroitly parried all inquiries, and the sharp-witted American widow found that she could make nothing of the gallant but elusive Spaniard. He remained an agreeable mystery; nevertheless—or, perhaps, on account of this fact—he became exceedingly popular with his new friends. He was cultivated, charming and attractive; so were they. The ladies lured him into the library to play bridge—25 cents a hundred—introduced him to various pretty girls, promenaded the deck in his company, took him into their set and under their wing—in short, petted him to his heart's content. This, needless to say, was no new experience for Paul de Sarasin.

But, alas! when within three days of New York, that capricious termagant, the Atlantic, flew into a sudden fury; she arose and scattered the clever ladies who played bridge, emptied the steamer chairs, separated Paul from his charming friends, and left him to pace the deck in meditative solitude. The weather was bad, and Paul had the promenade more or less to himself; many of the men were playing cards in the smoke-room—or prostrate elsewhere.

As Paul paced the long expanse with his hands in his pockets and the inevitable cigarette in his mouth, he had ample time for reflection. Here there was nothing to distract his attention, beyond the angry storm clouds and the tumbling expanse of heaving, gray seas. He was alone in mid-ocean, entirely cut off from the world—his own world; and here he could ponder without interruption on his future and on his past. His was not a retrospective mind; hitherto life had been too full and too crowded; one event had ever come treading on the heels of another, and compelled him to forget certain affairs and overlook certain people. But no mad elbowing or thrusting had ever succeeded in driving La Rubia entirely from his thoughts; it had not needed Mrs. Shayne's probing questions respecting the handsome red-haired English girl, to recall her to his memory. He winced as he realized that his conduct had been indefensible; no reasoning could disperse this conviction. She had solemnly warned him of her particular failing—jealousy, and she had not exaggerated her weakness. It was true that she had, by her own act, released him because he had openly set her aside in favor of his cousin, Dolores; subsequently La Rubia had ignored his existence, and cast him out of her life forever. Nevertheless, he had a sure intuition that she loved him. This girl from the North was proud and sensitive, there was something reserved and even stern in her nature; but a man of Paul's enormous experience could see beneath the surface. La Rubia adored him, although she held him inflexibly at arm's length. She would walk with him, sympathize with him, open her heart to him, and even weep to him; but he had never once kissed her. How few pretty women of his acquaintance could make this boast!

Hers was the deeply-set love of a naturally cold nature, and Paul, despite the deadly breach and the distance which yawned between them, was confident that her heart belonged to him. Yet such was her disposition and her pride, the chances were that he would never look upon her face again. His experience of other women had misled him. Hitherto he had believed that he had but to raise his hand and beckon them back; but for once he had found himself tragically mistaken.

The melancholy reflections of the Marquis de Sarasin were brusquely disturbed by the cheerful strains of the adjacent dinner bugle, and, to the envy of many, he hurried below in order to prepare for the meal.

The notorious banks were skirted without fog or incident, and it was the last day on board. The weather was better, so were many invalids, who once more reappeared in deck—not a few of the ladies in brand-new frocks, worn to qualify for the customs. Cards were freely exchanged, bridge accounts were settled, and cabin boxes studded the long passages.

Paul de Sarasin's chief friends, restored to society, gave him a warm invitation to visit them at St. Louis, and, after the ship had passed Nantucket lighthouse, did the honours of their country with pride. They indicated various interesting scenes—the forts, Coney Island, the Statue of Liberty—last, but not least, the sky-scrapers.

It was altogether a busy, lively outlook; ocean steamers passed them, and ferry-boats, shaped like Noah's arks, darted across under the very bows of the liner. At last the Baltic arrived alongside her berth, where a great crowd had assembled to welcome the travellers. The unparalleled bustle of the Customs, the celebrated draughts in the windy shed, the conscientious manner in which the luggage was examined—none of these facts had been exaggerated. Here Paul took leave of his pleasant smoking-room acquaintances and his two lady friends. These parted from him with palpable reluctance, urging him, in a hospitable duet, not to fail to visit them at St. Louis. He placed them in a big carriage, carefully handed in their small effects and jewel-cases, then, hat in hand, saw them depart. Paul liked them both, especially Mrs. Shayne. Was this because she had assured him that she adored Grenada as much as her countryman Washington Irving? or was it because she declared that "she admired the red-haired girl—to death!"

The Marquis de Sarasin and his valet had a long and weary wait under the letter "S," but at last they were free to drive to the Hotel Waldorf, where rooms had been secured, and, although crammed with people, the hotel seemed a quiet haven of repose and refuge after the din of Broadway, with its electric cars, and ponderous street traffic.

"Un Palacio!" murmured Pedro to himself, as they surveyed the great marble staircase, pillars, floors, and statues, the palm-trees and the pictures.

When his master entered the parlor to scribble a letter for the outgoing mail, he was astonished to notice on a four-faced clock the actual time, not only in New York, but in Madrid, his native city. What a bustling, lively place it was!—the gaily-dressed, chattering throng, streaming along the corridors en route to the restaurants the hurrying pages, porters, messengers, the rattle of the elevators; whilst above the hum and buzz of the crowd penetrated the delicious strains of a fine string-band. However Paul de Sarasin had not come to New York merely to look and listen—he desired to act; and as soon as he had despatched his letter, he proceeded to the palm-room, which was already crowded with people, including numbers of smartly-dressed girls wearing marvellous feathered hats and expensively simple summer gowns; and magnificent matrons, superb in embroideries and crepe de Chine. His critical eye immediately recognized the studied finish of their toilettes, and as he glanced round from table to table he said to himself: "So, here is America at home!"

Presently he set out in search of 4005, Fifth avenue. It proved to be a small but superior establishment, merely displaying in the window a few choice articles of jewelry and some lengths of old lace. He entered without delay, and found that here was no sudden, hawk-like pouncing on the customer; he had ample leisure to look about before he was accosted and asked if he wished to be served.

"I would like to see the proprietor," he said; "my business is urgent."

The proprietor presently appeared—a clean-shaven middle-aged man, with mobile features.

"I have come to America on purpose to call on you, Mr. Le Vey," said the customer.

"It is with respect to a necklace you purchased at Biarritz from the agent of a firm in Madrid."

"Well, that is so," assented Le Vey; "I bought a necklace at Biarritz, that's sure."

"Of pearls, with a large pendant?"

"That's right," agreed the tradesman "rather a nice thing."

Rather a nice thing! Here was a description of the pride of the Sarazins!

"Have you got it still?" inquired Paul.

"Oh no—that class of article goes at once—picked up like hot cakes. Of course, one has to be mighty cautious over the buying in Europe; there is such a lot of faked goods, and some of the dealers would just soak you! You are interested, I surmise?"

"I am," assented Paul; "the necklace is an heirloom in our family, and we wish to recover it."

"Ah-h-h!" drawing a long breath. "I guess you'll have trouble along of that. I doubt if the purchaser will do a deal."

"May I ask to whom you sold it?"

"Why, certainly. I sold it about three weeks ago to a Mrs. Van Boosa—her friends live up Central Park way. She has a keen eye for old things. I'm real sorry you have had your journey for nothing," and his glance expressed commiseration.

"I hope not. Will you favor me with the lady's address?"

"She lives out West," said Mr. Le Vey, scribbling on a card, "but spends a good while with her friends along Fifth Avenue. I guess she's here now. I may tell you this—that if she sells the necklace, the price will be fierce! You may drive up"—handing the card as he spoke—"and see her right away."

UNVEILING OF WHITE MEMORIAL

CEREMONY AT THE COURTHOUSE EARLY NEXT MONTH.

Committee Completes Plans for Displaying to Public Gaze Figure of Man Whose Works for Southern California Will Endure With History—Details of Programme.

The unveiling of the Stephen M. White memorial, occupying a prominent position on the westerly side of the Courthouse, will be December 11, according to the present plan of the Executive Committee, which met at the office of Attorney Joseph Scott, yesterday afternoon.

Gov. Gillett and other prominent men of the State are expected to be present, and the ceremony is to be of unusual significance. Opening remarks will be made by M. P. Snyder, chairman of the Executive Committee, who will review the history of the movement for the erection of the memorial, and then will introduce Gen. H. G. Otis as the president of the day.

Former Gov. Henry T. Gage, at one time a law partner of the late Senator White, will deliver an address, followed by the unveiling of the memorial by a daughter of the man whose face has been remarkably reproduced by the famous deaf-mute sculptor, Douglas Tilden. Joseph Scott will give the presentation speech, to which response will be made by Gov. Gillett. Edward White of Watsonville, a brother of the late Senator, will be asked to respond on behalf of the family.

The venerable mother of the late Senator White, and all members of the family, will be given especial invitations and the list of State, county and city officials will be comprehensive. It will be prepared by the Committee on Invitations, consisting of W. J. Hunsaker, R. F. Del Valle and I. B. Dockweiler.

At the meeting yesterday, the following members were present: M. P. Snyder, chairman; Joseph Scott, secretary, and A. B. Cass, M. H. Newmark, W. J. Hunsaker, F. W. Braun, R. F. Del Valle, Sumner P. Hunt, Isidore B. Dockweiler, Arthur B. Benton and D. W. Cunningham.

The reports of the Construction and Programme Committees were discussed and approved and the following were chosen as an auditing committee to examine the accounts of the treasurer and the disbursements of the fund: George H. Stewart, president of the Chamber of Commerce; J. M. Schneider, president of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, and F. W. Burnham.

The organization of the Executive Committee was perfected at the suggestion of several friends of the late Senator White. Mr. Snyder, then Mayor of Los Angeles, was elected chairman and Joseph Scott, secretary. John F. Francis, the first treasurer, died about five years ago and his successor was James C. Kays. The work of the committee which now draws to a close, began in February, 1901, shortly after Mr. White's death.

The response to the call for funds with which to erect a memorial met with hearty response, not only from his fellow-citizens but from the nation at large. Contributions have come from all over the country and the fund, with accumulated interest, now approximates $24,000.

The movement was assisted by those of all classes, creeds and shades of political belief as a testimonial to the man, who, of strong partisan convictions, was noted for his loyalty to the people of Southern California, and whose efforts in behalf of the San Pedro harbor won the respect and admiration of his political opponents.

The memorial perfected by Douglas Tilden has been a labor of love. The noted sculptor was born in Santa Cruz county, the birthplace of Mr. White, and he has put all the fire of his genius into making a striking likeness to the man whose memory it will perpetuate. The selection of the Courthouse site was determined upon for two reasons. First, on an appeal to the various subscribers to the fund as to their preference, and later upon a vote of the people, who returned an affirmative reply to the question submitted to them at a general election.

TO HELP THE NEEDY.

The Daily Opportunity Club, the purpose of which is to extend help to worthy poor people not helped by any other organization, will have a handkerchief sale next Monday evening at the home of H. A. Baldwin, No. 153 West Twenty-fourth street. A large number of handkerchiefs and a few other articles that have been donated by members of the club and their friends, will be disposed of. The amount received will be devoted entirely to the relief of the needy. Everybody is invited to attend, and it is hoped a large number will be present.

PASADENA.

CLUB'S DINNER DANCE IS GAY.

GUESTS WALTZ AMID SHAGGY CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Financial Men of the East Make Many Reservations at Hotels—Flying Crowbar Nearly Kills Electric Railway Official—More Sellers of Liquor Are Arrested.

Office of The Times, No. 36 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, Nov. 13.—The Country Club was the scene of a gay dinner dance yesterday evening. The ballroom was profusely decorated with shaggy white chrysanthemums and music was furnished by Arend's Orchestra. Those participating were Mr. and Mrs. H. Page Warden, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crans Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison I. Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carman, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cuppies Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mortimer Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Callery, Mr. and Mrs. William Park, Mr. and Mrs. Niel and Miss Niel, LeRoy Macomber and A. L. Avery.

Mrs. Ralph Hannan of Magnolia avenue entertained yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Elizabeth Means and Misses Mildred and Marie Holway of Los Angeles. Miss Batterson furnished vocal music and a collation was served. Those present were Misses Love, Emery, Cecil, Hanan, Ethel Henderson, True Batterson, Cora Gaylord and Mrs. Victor Bell.

Mrs. Robert T. Vandevort, Miss Dorothy Vandevort and Mrs. Frederick Gleason, who have spent several months in European travel, arrived home last evening and will occupy their East Colorado-street residence this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. McHenry and daughter, Miss Abbie McHenry, have returned from their summer in Denison, Iowa, and are settled in their winter home in Ford Place.

MANY HOTEL RESERVATIONS.

"Many reservations, dated after Taft's election to the Presidency, have been received from financial men east of Denver and from all over the country come orders for the earlier months of the hotel season," said Walter Raymond, manager and proprietor of Hotel Raymond, last night. "I have received letters asking for quarters from such men as C. B. Kounts, the Denver banker who has come here frequently; W. J. Pope and family and his old golf partner, W. H. Sard of Chicago. A. C. Magnus of Chicago is another recent applicant as are J. H. Whittimore, C. H. Schwabb and Mrs. Nelson Morris. Nearly all of the old-time people are coming early this year and by January 1 I expect to see the house as well filled as during the height of the season last winter."

Hotel Raymond will open on December 17 for the winter, and for the first time in the history of the two well-known tourist hotels, the old and new Raymonds, Walter Raymond will himself act as manager. Many of the former employés of The Raymond will come here for the winter, arriving on December 14, in time to take charge of affairs and have everything in readiness for the opening. On November 30 the renovation of the hotel will begin.

William Watson, who did not return here last year as golf instructor at the Raymond, will come back to begin his seventh year of service at the club. Adam Green, manager of the club last year, is now in Virginia, in charge of the golf club where President-elect Taft is sojourning.

Charles G. Mozzi, formerly chef at the Union League Club in Chicago, is to be the new chef at Hotel Raymond this winter, and Miss Jennie Ekker will re-assume her position as housekeeper. J. J. Wallace will again act as steward, and A. W. Edds comes as head clerk, while W. B. Smith is to be head waiter, and H. S. Ward, cashier.

Mr. Raymond is highly pleased with the outlook for a prosperous year in every line of business. He anticipates a season's success unprecedented in the history of the tourist hotels in Southern California.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Charles Russell, track construction foreman of the Pacific Electric Railway Company, and a resident of Sixth and Flower streets, Los Angeles, was nearly killed here, yesterday afternoon, by a flying crowbar, which struck him in the left temple, rendering him unconscious. The bar lay across a tie, and as a heavy ton rail was laid down on one end of it, the leverage threw the bar into the air and the heavy end struck Russell in the head. He was rushed to the emergency hospital of the Pacific Electric Company, where Dr. F. F. Rowland attended him. His skull was found to be crushed. Late last night the unfortunate man was taken to his home in Los Angeles. He is married and is 35 years of age.

MORE LIQUOR CASES.

Four more arrests for alleged illegal sale of liquor were made yesterday afternoon by Constables Austin and Newell of this city, in conjunction with the City Attorney's men. Ernest Battelle and James Roddrick of Sherman and S. S. Anderson and Con Gepfert of the Cahuenga Tavern, Hollywood, are the defendants. They are held to appear on $500 bond. Anderson and Gepfert have secured as their attorney Earl Rogers of Los Angeles. Battelle was unable to furnish bail last night.

ACTION POSTPONED.

Postponement of definite action as to securing Evangelist Torrey, now in Los Angeles, for a short series of meetings here was decided on last night.

TO LAY NEW LINE.

Rails were hauled to California street yesterday by the construction forces of the Pacific Electric Railway Company. Before New Year's Day both tracks will be down to the park, affording a convenient service to patrons of the tournament.

INVITATIONS FOR INSTALLATION.

Many patrons of Throop Polytechnic Institute received invitations yesterday evening to the installation services of Throop Institute at the First Methodist Church, Thursday night of next week, at which time Dr. James A. B. Scherer will be formally installed as president. Besides an address by Dr. Scherer, a number of prominent heads of colleges will take part in the exercises.

AFTER LOS ANGELES TEAM.

If the local High School football team defeats Harvard Military Academy eleven at Tournament Park this afternoon, Manager Gibbs and Coach Wilson will endeavor to secure a game with Los Angeles High School. Though not expecting to beat the big Angel City team, the locals believe they could make a good showing against them, as they have not been beaten thus far this season. The Pasadena men average 146 pounds.

Capt. George Loughery said yesterday that he was much disappointed over the disruption of the Hollywood eleven. He was not responsible for the condition of Tournament Park grounds, and members of his own team suffered on the hard ground as much as did the Hollywood players. He denied the implication of the Hollywood captain that Coach Wilson, the Pasadena High School instructor, told the locals to lay Hollywood's men out.

SCHOOL BASEBALL.

Grammar school baseball teams of this city are ready for the opening of the annual Anti-Cigarette League games here next week. The new baseball diamond at Carmelita Gardens will probably be completed in time for play, and it is probable that a number of the games will be held there. At the Wilson school last night Walter Harris was elected captain and T. Verner, manager of the school nine.

PASADENA NEWS NOTES.

Rev. Leslie Learned, rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, will open a series of sermons dealing with the Emmanuel movement, Sunday evening. "Brain and Personality," the subject of a recent book, will be the theme of his first address. Rev. Mr. Learned is a deep believer in the movement and as an easterner his views of this new theory in church work will be exceptionally interesting.

At the fourth annual meeting of the Emergency League, held Thursday night, reports for the past year were read. They showed a balance on hand of $307.41 and disbursements for the past year amounting to $1694.92, while the receipts have been $1646.41. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. William F. Knight; vice-presidents, Mrs. F. A. Gaylord, Mrs. J. D. Thompson, Mrs. Adalbert Fenyes; secretary, Mrs. Revel L. English; treasurer, Mrs. H. I. Stuart; directors, Mrs. Anna M. Luckey, chairman of Relief Committee; Mrs. Margaret Bonney, chairman of Membership Committee; Mrs. P. L. Auten, Mrs. D. M. Linnard, Mrs. W. J. Austin and Miss Elizabeth Greer.

OBJECTIONS.

TOO EXPENSIVE OF OPERATION.

SANTA MONICA'S CHARTER NOW ADVERSELY CRITICISED.

Citizens Hold Meetings and Request Board of Trade to Take Steps to Prepare Necessary Amendments for Submission to People at Early Date—Tax Rate Grows.

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 13.—The matter of amending the city charter is the chief topic now being discussed by residents and property owners. Interested citizens held a meeting last night for the purpose of taking initial steps to secure the amendments deemed essential. It was decided to carry the matter to the Board of Trade. The meeting adjourned to reconvene Tuesday evening, when it is proposed to go fully into the situation and ask the civic association to appoint committees and prepare the necessary amendments for submission to the electors for their approval before the meeting of the Legislature.

CHARTER TOO EXPENSIVE.

The statement is made that the present charter is not satisfactory for the reason that it is expenesive of operation. In a report to the City Council, Alderman J. E. Miles stated that the tax rate had grown from $1.05 in 1906 to $1.70 for last year and $1.60 for the current year. According to his figures, it cost $53,912 to run the city during 1906, while the expense this year will be $120,752. These figures do not include any of the revenues from licenses and fines. He says the increased expense of running the city for the year, being $41,089 over the preceding year, is directly chargeable to the new charter, which he concludes is proving an expensive experiment.

"DEAD LINE" FOR OIL WELLS.

Santa Monica is rapidly developing a division of opinion as to the proposed establishment of a "dead line" for oil wells. A voting contest has been instituted. Many are in favor of permitting the erection of no derricks west of Seventeenth street, while others would make the prohibited zone as far east as Twenty-sixth. Some are against prohibition, while a considerable sentiment is developing in the direction of holding the wells east of Seventeenth street as far south as Front, and thence south on Eighth. This would bring the hill section within the zone of oil activities.

The football squad of the California Military Academy will go to Bairdstown tomorrow for a game with the eleven from the Los Angeles Military Academy.

WILL TALK ON TOURIST.

Santa Monica will tomorrow send ten delegates from the Board of Trade to attend the tenth semi-annual meeting of the Counties Committee of the California Promotion Committee. C. J. Noyes of this city is on the programme for a brief talk on "The Tourist in California."

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hassett of Fifth street have returned from their summer visit to Wyoming and Michigan. They were accompanied by Miss Marguerite Marble of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., who will spend the winter here.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Huxtable of Upland have been enjoying a honeymoon visit by the sea. They were married at Upland on the 11th inst., the bride having been Miss Frances Dundas.

Althouse Bros., real estate, 430 S. Broadway. Coronado pleases everybody.

ALHAMBRA.

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Lamme and the Misses Roach are building a large house on Second street.

The Episcopal Church is now out of debt owing to a memorial offering from F. Q. Story.

Granada avenue is being opened through to Huntington Drive. This will give the eastern part of the city an outlet to the north which has long been needed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hogle will shortly move to their new bungalow on South Granada avenue.

The entertainment given by the Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal Church was a great success.

Mrs. Fargo has presented the Wednesday Club with a handsome set of andirons. Mr. Husker has given several fine pictures.

STREET NAMES TO BE CHANGED.

MUCH CONFUSION OCCASIONED BY DUPLICATES.

Board of Public Works to Remedy This—Foundry Company Organized in Connection With Ship Plant. Musicians Arrive from East—Pacific Electric Defies Wilmington.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 13.—Early in the history of this city, not much attention was paid to the numerous tracts and subdivisions which were placed on the market and in consequence there are today many confusing names of streets and several duplicates. To remedy this the Board of Public Works has undertaken a systematic inspection of every street and avenue in the city. The names of several were changed today. Railway street, in the eastern part of the city, will hereafter be known as Anser street, and Short street, in the Seabright Harbor tract as Long street.

The Craig Foundry Company has been organized, in affiliation with the Craig ship plant, to carry on an extensive foundry business. A half dozen shipments of pig iron have been received. The foundry is especially equipped for making enormous castings, one item being a twelve-ton ladle, double the size of any other in this part of the country. The plant is now making castings for the ocean-going tug built for service in San Francisco Harbor.

Four musicians from the East joined the Donatelli band yesterday, and six more are expected here Tuesday. This will increase the band to twenty-five members.

A rumor comes from Atlantic City that Marco Vassella, former leader of the Royal Italian band has married Mrs. Goings, a wealthy New York widow, who spent last winter here, and was frequently seen with the handsome Italian bandmaster.

In case the Wilmington Trustees will not modify their demands that the Pacific Electric run a line across certain streets of the city, its officials have decided to build a road through the property of the Domingues Investment Company, a distance of two miles, starting from the Long Beach end and connecting with its San Pedro line west of Wilmington. This announcement was made last night at a meeting of the Domingues company in this city.

At the Craig ship plant tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, the hull of the big dredger, the first product of the company, will be launched in the inner harbor.

On his promise that in future he would be a better husband and father and properly provide for his family, Justice Brayton, today, suspended Elmer Allstedt's sentence until February 12. It was while under arrest on this charge that Allstedt attempted to escape and was shot twice by Officer Brown. He says he has learned a lesson that will be lasting.

Mayor Windham today issued a call for a mass meeting of citizens at the Auditorium Thursday evening, to discuss the question of voting bonds for a municipal water plant.

The police have been asked to look for Carl Jacobson, who disappeared from his home at No. 4455 Metler street, Los Angeles, Tuesday. He had made threats of suicide, and it is thought he may have come to Long Beach. He is 39 years old, 5 feet 8 inches in height, and wore a dark hat and suit of clothes.

The 1600-pound fire alarm bell has been shipped to the fire station at West Long Beach.

Mrs. David B. Henderson, widow of a Speaker of the House of Representatives, arrived this morning with her daughter and will spend the winter in apartments at the Cynthia. Her son, Den, is in business here.

REJOICE OVER BONUS RAISING.

GLENDALE PEOPLE COLLECT FOR NEW RAILWAY.

Money in Escrow and Within Ninety Days It Is Expected Yellow Cars Will Be Running Into Town by Way of Eagle Rock—Grading to Start Monday.

GLENDALE, Nov. 13.—The bonus has at last been raised for the new electric railway to connect Glendale, through Eagle Rock, with Los Angeles. The money is in escrow at the Bank of Glendale.

According to the contract work must be begun by the 17th inst., and on Monday the first poles will be hauled and grading will have started. Glendale is happy over the success of Dr. Robert Blackburn and E. D. Goode, road commissioner, in securing the bonus. For a time it seemed their efforts would fail. Some of the heaviest taxpayers, with property along the right of way, refused to pay bonus money, but at last the cash has been collected. The sum is $3500. In ninety days yellow cars will be running into Glendale.

The directors of the Bank of Glendale today announced the purchase of the southeast corner of Glendale avenue and Fourth street, upon which they will at once build a handsome pressed-brick bank building. An architect is now making plans.

L. La Grande, Pacific Electric Railway station manager, reports that the sale of tickets in October was by far the greatest in the history of Glendale. Freightage was just one-third heavier than ever before. Twelve loads of lumber for the Valley Lumber Company, three carloads of coal for valley supply, twenty-five carloads of pressed brick, two of cement and two of tileing for the Union High School are enough to show what the road is doing at this point.

Raspberries from North Glendale, strawberries from the cañons and the valley go in for city consumers every day. Hundreds of tons of tomatoes have gone into Los Angeles this season by wagon. During the entire winter there will be the same abundance for the markets from this source, as there is now more acreage under crop in North Glendale, Verdugo Cañon and thereabout than ever before.

Mrs. T. C. Miles of Butte arrived yesterday and is the guest of her brother, Andrew McIntyre, an old-time resident. She will spend the winter here.

APPOINTED TRUSTEE.

Conscientious Worker Given Position on Sierra Madre Board—Free Clinics to Be Held.

SIERRA MADRE, Nov. 13.—At the regular meeting of the Trustees, Laurel E. Steinberger, a well-known citizen, was appointed Trustee to fill the unexpired term of J. J. Kraft. "Gene" Steinberger, as he is commonly called, is one of the pioneer citizens of this place, and it is felt that his presence will give prestige to the board. He is a fearless, conscientious worker and true to his convictions. His appointment was brought about by the other members of the board taking up the matter from a geographical standpoint, they being desirous of having a representation embracing all sections of the city.

FOR GAS PLANT.

It is said the bond election for the erection of a gas plant is an assured thing. Many have agreed to take gas at a $1 rate whether from a municipal plant or a private corporation. Not all the property owners are in favor of municipal ownership, but all want gas.

The yearly bazaar for the benefit of the Episcopal Church is to be given by the Ladies' Guild of the 19th and 20th inst. An attractive programme has been arranged. E. M. Bunnell, an old-time minstrel man, now enjoying private life, has arranged to appear in monologue and minstrel stunt. Many new features are to be introduced. The proceeds will probably go to the organ fund. The church installed a magnificent $4000 instrument some time ago.

FREE PUBLIC CLINIC.

The board of health has arranged for free public clinics, to be held Saturdays at the City Hall. This will be for the indigent of the city. Health Officer Coffey and City Physician Mackerras, assisted by the city visiting nurse, Miss A. R. Polley, will be in charge. Miss Polley has been rendering valuable services to the city, and the demand upon her services, owing to the growth of the city, has been constantly increasing.

An effort is being made by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to have a permanent representative located in this city. There is great need of one. It is thought the Woman's Club will probably interest itself in this matter.

REDONDO CITIZENS WILLING TO PURCHASE SHARES.

Eager to Have Automobile Factory Established in Their Town—Meeting Will Be Held Tonight to Advance Matter—Elks to Provide Home for Visiting Brethren.

REDONDO, Nov. 13.—A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce has been called for 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening for the purpose of raising the money for the stock subscription to the new automobile company. It is understood that the general public will be invited to participate in the meeting. The committee having the matter in charge has made a tentative canvass of the financial end of the situation and it is believed no difficulty will be encountered in raising the necessary $5000. A number of well-known wage earners have announced their willingness to subscribe. The management of the Redondo Improvement Company, which owns the land desired, has been in telegraphic communication with President L. T. Garnsey, who is in New York, and it is believed that there will be no difficulty as to that part of the proposition. The committee is thoroughly satisfied with the outlook.

FOR ELKS HOME.

A number of prominent Elks are engaged in the work of organizing a club for the primary purpose of providing a local home for visiting Elks next spring, when the annual convention is to be held in Los Angeles. As there are about thirty-five or forty members of the order residing in this city, it is not improbable these arrangements will be perfected at an early date. No quarters have been selected as yet, but negotiations are on with several property owners.

CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS.

William Bennett was arrested last night by Constable Weaver for the theft of harness from C. Carlson of the Weston ranch, several miles east of here. The man was caught with the goods, and when he came to trial this morning had no defense to make. He was fined $10 or ten days.

KINNEY IS SILENT.

He Says Nothing When His Wife Is Presented With Counterfeit Doge of Venice.

VENICE, Nov. 13.—The enlivening feature of a largely attended meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, held aboard the ship Cabrillo tonight, was the surprise presentation to Mrs. Abbot Kinney of a life-size oil painting of the doge and builder of Venice. The picture was the gift of the residents and so well were the plans carried out that but few of the large number present knew of the incident that was in store. The presentation speech was made by President H. B. Eakins of the Board of Trustees. Mrs. Kinney said a few words in expression of her appreciation. Mr. Kinney surveyed the counterfeit doge from long range but would say nothing.

DISCUSS ANNEXATION.

The topic of discussion was the projected annexation of Venice to Los Angeles. Speakers from Los Angeles had been expected to be in attendance, but they did not come. City Attorney Hanna fully explained the details of annexation as it might be accomplished under existing laws.

WOMAN LECTURES TO POMONA CLUB ON PHILIPPINES.

Shows How American Methods Are Responsible for Saving of Thousand Lives Daily—Sixth Annual Convention of Pasadena District of Epworth League Starts.

POMONA, Nov. 13.—Miss Kate L. Bassett addressed a largely attended meeting of the Pomona Ebell Club at the Unitarian Church this afternoon. She spoke of the educational work being done and the general conditions existing in the Philippines where she has been teaching for the past few years. She says much is being accomplished through the schools to better the physical and domestic conditions of the native families. In former times a thousand deaths a day would sometimes occur in a cholera epidemic; after the United States government came into control of the islands and the sanitary and educational commissions began to work the number of deaths was reduced to 100 a day, and now has been lessened to six or eight a day, when cholera is prevalent. Parents meetings are held in connection with the schools and the heads of families are taught to boil the household drinking water and to keep their food covered and away from the flies, which have been great carriers of pestilence. The educational authorities, working in conjunction with the health and sanitary commissions, are thus accomplishing much.

The sixth annual convention of the Pasadena District of the Epworth League opened its sessions here today, a large number of delegates being in attendance. The forenoon was taken up with a general reception and the customary registration work. A luncheon was served the visitors in the banquet room of Trinity Methodist Church, where the sessions are being held. The opening praise service this afternoon was led by Rev. Lorenzo Dow Van Arnam of the First Methodist Church, this city. An address was delivered by Rev. C. H. Scott of Ventura, whose subject was, "The Increase of Power Through Education." George Runyon of Los Angeles, spoke upon "What U.S.C. Has Meant to Me," and Miss Helen Dyar of Ontario rendered a vocal solo. "The Value of Personal Work in Soul Winning," was discussed by Frank Baker of Los Angeles. Rev. C. V. Cowan of Ontario had for his subject, "The Perils and Opportunities of the Epworth League," and Miss Bessie Leebrick of Covina, talked upon junior and intermediate work. This evening the service was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. A. W. Lamport of Trinity Church and music was furnished by members of the San Dimas and Upland Epworth leagues. An address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Firey of this city and Rev. D. F. Howe of Los Angeles spoke at length upon "The Artesian Life."

At Pilgrim Congregational Church vesper service Sunday evening, Dr. F. W. Thomas of Claremont will, upon request of Rev. George E. Soper and the local physicians, discuss mental healing from a physician's standpoint.

Rev. Frank M. Dowling was here from Pasadena yesterday calling upon friends. He attended the Yeuell revival services in the evening. Mr. Dowling was a former pastor of the local Christian Church.

The Men's Sunday Evening Club of Pilgrim Congregational Church, enjoyed a banquet in the church parlors last evening. After the repast, numerous toasts were responded to by Messrs. Walter A. Lewis, John P. Storrs, F. C. Wells, E. E. St. Clair, L. T. Bishop, A. F. Snow, D. B. Fitch, John Leadingham and Carl Lorbeer.

P. J. Brannen, who owns acreage southeast of the city, is here from Oceanside, looking after the property. He may conclude to move to Pomona.

TROPICO.

TROPICO, Nov. 13.—Supervisor-elect Pridham attended the meeting of the Tropico Improvement Association in Logan's Hall last evening. He spoke on good roads. Mr. Pridham also commended the work accomplished by this society. He discouraged the idea of incorporation and said that from a logical and financial standpoint it was advisable to become annexed to Los Angeles.

A petition is being circulated by Dr. J. Oscar Garmon, president of the improvement association, for the opening of Brand boulevard from Glendale city limits on the north to the Los Angeles River. Dr. Garmon is also receiving a number of subscriptions for this enterprise, which will mean a vast improvement to the boulevard. The cost will approximate $3000.

HUNTINGTON PARK.

HUNTINGTON PARK, Nov. 13.—More than 450 people attended a charity concert given here tonight in aid of a poor family living in the city. The Women's Improvement Club, which had charge of the programme, provided some excellent musical talent and the concert was one of the best ever given here.

WIDOW CHARGES HUSBAND'S KIN WITH THEFT.

Settlement of Estate of Late Orange Orchardist, Who Died in Ireland, Develops Surprising Situation. Supervisor's Promise to Property Owners Brings Peace After Turmoil.

SANTA ANA, Nov. 13.—Mystery is mixed up in the settlement of the estate of the late Oliver Cooper, a well-to-do orchardist of Orange county, who died in Ireland a year ago, while visiting his old home. Cooper had $1000 in drafts and coin in his possession at the time he died.

None of it has been recovered by Mrs. Emma Cooper, his widow and the administratrix of his estate. It was intimated in open court today by Attorney H. C. Head, representing Mrs. Cooper, and Attorneys Clyde Bishop and R. Y. Williams, representing a contesting heir, that relatives of Cooper stole the money when he died in the old country.

Adding mystery to the case was the visit of a man named Jackson, who claimed to be a cousin of Cooper. Though present when Cooper died he would give no information to Mrs. Cooper concerning the money and papers. Attorneys prepared to cite Jackson to come into court, when he suddenly disappeared. He wrote a letter from New York to Mrs. Cooper demanding money, intimating that he had papers in his possession that would harm the widow's claim to half of the $35,000 estate.

"I think this man Jackson came out here from Ireland," said Attorney Head in court, "expecting to find a lot of ignorant Westerners. He went away disappointed."

The widow was in court today asking for a final distribution of the estate. Her daughter, Mrs. Lettie Williams of Orange county, contested the final account; she asserts the attorney was to have received $620 instead of $350. A brother was to have been given a share but her father had given the young man a $4500 ranch just before leaving for Ireland. She also asserts the account did not show all items.

Mrs. Cooper admitted she had collected a $50 note due the estate. Judge West continued the case for a month, in the hope the Irish end might be cleared up by that time. Attorney Head said he had written to Cooper's relatives and office there without getting an answer of any kind, and he did not expect to recover the $1000.

PROMISE BRINGS PEACE.

The Supervisors today agreed to give $4000 for building dikes along the Santa Ana River for the protection of county roads against overflow, on condition that property owners along the river deed the right of way for a river channel. The property owners are after the right of way along which they will dike the Santa Ana River from the Santa Ana sewer farm to the head of the Talbert drainage ditch, which leads to tidewater.

With the promise of the Supervisors, river men sight the end of years of bickerings and fights in court and out. The dikes and the egress to tidewater, they believe, solve the overflow problem in the lowlands of this county.

Eighteen months ago the Newbert Protection District was formed and bonded for $185,000. Several suits were brought to tie these bonds up, the warring factions refusing to get together. Last winter flood waters entered the drainage ditch, and it was shown that, with the way clear, the river would cut its own channel to the ocean. Working on this demonstration, ranchers offered a compromise to the opponents of the Newbert Protection District, which in substance is the one proposed today to the Board of Supervisors, but the compromise was turned down. Then the friends of the compromise went to work on another line, and today the county's help was invoked and given. Ranchers in the overflow district will add to the $4000 promised by the county.

The right of way will be secured, cleared and diked. If the channel is cut to the sea by natural flow, there will be no more overflows and all fights will necessarily be called off.

BUSINESS MEN WANT A LOCAL CONTRACTOR FAVORED.

San Diego Board of Public Works Has Problem in Matter of Hundred-Thousand-Dollar Reservoir — Los Angeles Firm May Seek Injunction. Theosophy Case Decided.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 13.—That a strong effort will be made to prevent the contract for the construction of the University Heights reservoir, which is to cost approximately $100,000, from being awarded to any but a local contractor, even though there be lower bidders, came out today, when a petition was presented to the Board of Public Works, signed by the leading mercantile and manufacturing interests of the city.

Thirteen bids were opened by the board, and it was found that the lowest and the one next to it differed by only $241.91. It was decided to postpone awarding the contract until a special meeting is called. The lowest bidder is the American Light and Power Company of Los Angeles. The next lowest is Stephen Brown of San Diego. The former's bid was $97,444, and Brown's $97,713.91. It remains to be seen whether the board will favor a San Diego firm, and it is believed that it will.

It is said that the Los Angeles company, which is represented by one of the leading attorneys of this city, is prepared to enjoin the awarding the contract to any other concern.

Other Los Angeles firms bidding for the work are the California Compressed Brick Company, Andrew Molloway, F. A. Noyes, Jr., Construction Company, F. O. Engstrum, Cotton Bros. and Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Construction Company.

MOTHER KEEPS CHILD.

Judge Lewis of the Superior Court this noon rendered his decision in the case of John Fitzpatrick against May Fitzpatrick. It has special interest because the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical homestead were involved, in that the child has been in the custody of the homestead. The action primarily was brought to modify the decree of divorce by which the custody of the daughter was awarded to the mother.

Fitzpatrick, in his complaint, asked that the child be given to him on the ground that the mother had abandoned it to the homestead; that it was not properly nourished at the institution, and that it was taught theosophy, instead of Christianity.

The decision of Judge Lewis was that the allegations of abandonment had not been shown, but that it had been proven, on the other hand, that the mother was constant in the care for the child; that it had not been shown that the child had not been properly nourished, but that it had been proven that the people at the homestead had been particularly watchful of her welfare, as of other children there.

In the matter of religion, the judge decided that the law of the State would not permit him to go into it. He, however, stated that the testimony showed that theosophy, as a religion, was not taught in the school.

The decision leaves the custody of the child with the mother, and therefore at the theosophical homestead, where the mother resides.

That G. B. Barnes, who shot and killed Lew M. Madison in a saloon Wednesday night, will put up the defense that he committed the act to save his own life is given out by the attorney engaged to defend the prisoner. The lawyer claims to have secured statements from several witnesses that Madison drew his gun and flourished it in front of Barnes on two occasions. The fact that this gun was not loaded was not known to Barnes, it is claimed. The prisoner has requested that news of his deed be kept from his mother, who is 70 years old. The police and District Attorney say they are unable to learn the nature of the conversation which took place between Barnes and Madison prior to the shooting. The prisoner denies that Madison's wife, or any other woman, was the cause of the trouble. The Coroner's inquest has been twice postponed, at the request of Barnes, in order to give his counsel time to summon witnesses. It will probably be held tomorrow afternoon.

OFFICIAL VOTE.

The official vote of San Diego, the counting of which was completed today, is as follows: Taft, 5412; Bryan, 2393; Debs, 1347; Chafin, 212; Hisgen, 46; for Supreme Justice, Melvin, 5136; Murasky, 2513; Lewis, 1278; for Congress, Eighth District, Smith, 5269; Shepherd, 2372; for Assemblyman, Seventy-ninth District, Hinkle, 2942; Dodson, 2211; Swanson, 757; Assemblyman, Eightieth District, Johnson, 1411; Riley, 1119; Superior judges, Lewis, 5540; Guy, 4137; Andrews, 4096; Elliott, 1162; Fletcher, 1749; tax amendment, yes, 1626; no, 3732; capital removal, yes, 819; no, 4885.

SUPERIOR JUDGESHIP CONTEST?

It is said that Democratic friends of Judge W. R. Andrews have prevailed upon him to contest the election of W. R. Guy as Superior judge. The official returns show that Guy is elected by 41 plurality. Judge Andrews's supporters say that the "spoiled" ballots counted for Guy, if thrown out, would leave a bigger vote for Andrews than that received by his opponent. Cassius Carter, former District Attorney, is said to have taken charge of the contest matter. Mr. Guy and his friends say that if a recount is ordered, enough votes now counted for Judge Andrews would be thrown out to offset those for Guy that might be cancelled.

BETTER SERVICE DEMANDED.

Escondido People Complain Because There Is Only One Train a Day to Oceanside.

ESCONDIDO, Nov. 13.—This town is striving to secure better train service to Oceanside, and Fallbrook wants reopened the branch road to Temecula.

The people of Escondido contend that the valley is entitled to better service. Under the existing schedule there is only one train a day, and it takes ninety minutes to cover twenty-two miles. Traveling men are brought here too late to do business on the day of arrival and they have no time to solicit trade before the departure of the train next day, making a stop of two nights and a day necessary.

FALLBROOK'S ARGUMENT.

Fallbrook people urge that if the Temecula Cañon roadbed was built up from the center of the cañon, on higher ground than the old one, there would be no trouble about washouts. Recently the rumors have been persistent that the Santa Fe was thinking strongly of reopening the Temecula Cañon link.

Mrs. H. F. Bloom of San Marcos, daughter of Gen. A. G. Malloy, died Tuesday evening after a short illness. She leaves a widower and one daughter, Miss Pauline. Mrs. Bloom was a native of Niles, Mich., but had been a resident of San Marcos a little over a year. The funeral was held today, Rev. Mr. Sherwood officiating.

THE MARKETS.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The chili season is on. The hot seasoning from farms in this vicinity and particularly from Mexico is, beginning to arrive in large quantities and in all the various forms. There is an excellent demand for it and when quotations were officially placed on the Produce Exchange list they showed prices higher by a cent this year than last. The ever-popular chili was quoted at 11 cents and sun-dried was fixed at the same price. Ground chili was fixed at 7½ cents. The Mexican blend chili, the variety which is raised chiefly in the southern republic, is worth 9 cents a pound. These prices are all due for an advance to-morrow in the middle of the week.

The largest sales of case-count eggs in several weeks were recorded on the exchange. There were arrivals of only thirty-nine cases and of these twenty-five were traded. The price on them ranged between 27 and 28 cents with the last sales strong at the top figure. This was made the official quotation on the case-count goods. Candled eggs were allowed to remain the same. There were a few good offerings of eastern eggs and storage stock.

Butter receipts were 11,997 pounds. There were a fair offering of stock. Commodity is a change, but the demand, as usual during the past two weeks, was light.

Cheese arrivals were 8213 pounds. Northern fresh cheese was in good demand. Swiss imported and domestic is having a good sale at present.

Milkfield potatoes were in special call and two cars were sold on 'chage at prices ranging well up to current quotations. There were good offerings of Salinas but they were held high. Receipts were 3180 sacks.

Onion receipts were 130 sacks. They were nearly all of the Australian Brown variety. Although many were placed on sale none were taken.

Only sixty-eight sacks of beans were noted among arrivals. Pinks and Lady Washingtons were well offered. There was a little activity in the sweet potato market. Twenty-five sacks were sold above a dollar, showing the gradual advance of the market on the sweet spuds.

Apple receipts were as large as usual. They totaled 11,463 boxes. The demand for bellefleurs was supreme and twenty-five boxes of 4-tier and fifty boxes of 4½-tier were sold. Spitzbergens were also good sellers and twenty-five boxes changed hands on 'change. There is a good prospect of an advance on some of the fancier apples for the next week. Other fruits were unchanged with the possible exception of figs, which were a trifle lower owing to the larger supply and a small demand.

Vegetables were also about the same. The feature was the arrival of a number of large shipments of celery from Coachella Valley and from Smeltzer. Lettuce was plentiful. Punch goods all moved well and the general market showed improvement all around in the way of sales.

While the corn market dropped $2 per ton, barley went up to $1.60, an advance of $1 per ton. With heavy receipts of corn, there is a slight scarcity of rolled corn meal, the millis having too much other grain on hand to grind much corn at present.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

MARKET STILL; "HOODOO DAY."

"FRIDAY, THE THIRTEENTH" SEES LITTLE BUSINESS.

Local Traders, Supersitious, Spend Their Time in Gossiping and Handle Very Few Orders—Associated Oil Slumps Sharply Under Heavy Selling Pressure.

Either the local traders are superstitious, or there was a great dearth of orders, for the business on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday amounted to practically nothing. Friday, the thirteenth of the month at that, was probably too suggestive of the "panic time" of a year ago for traders to do much else than gossip about the market.

Two shares of Union Oil sold at $5.00 regular delivery. The stock was in fair demand, closing 1-8 of a point higher than on Thursday in the bid price. The asking price was off 1-4, closing at $4.37½@$5.25. Union Provident was quoted at $3.50@$4.25, up 1-8, and off ¼ a point compared with the preceding close. United Petroleum was unchanged.

Associated Oil, true again to predictions, slumped off quite sharply under a selling pressure, closing at 37.75@38.75, off 3-8 of a point in the bid. The asking price was 1-8 point higher than on Thursday. There was some slight trading in fractions of shares of the new stock, with prices at 34.00@37.00.

Amalgamated Oil was wanted at 73.12½@80.00, but none was sold. Columbia Oil was 1 point higher in the bid, and ½ up in the asking price at 1.00@1.05. Continental closed with a 1-4 point advance at 19 1-4@24, unchanged in the bid. Rice Ranch was wanted, closing with a gain of 4 1-4 points in the bid at 70 1-4@1.00, off 5 points in the asking price.

There was a good feeling about the industrial list. Home preferred closing with a 1-4 point gain in the bid at 59.00. None was offered. Edison preferred was 1 up 5-8 in the bid at 73.62½@81.00. The common was ¼ point lower on the bid at 59.50@62.50. The bond list and bank stocks were about as usual.

Trading on the mining call was extensive in Searchlight Parallel at 4¾ regular. Nevada Searchlight at ¾ of a cent. Johnnie Consolidated at 2 1-4, and Consolidated Mines at 3 1-4 regular, and at 3 3-8 buyer sixty days. California Hills slumped off to 15 1-2@31.

Flurry in California Hills Is Feature of Day's Trading—Wild Rush to Unload Holdings Follows Heavy Buyer's Failure to Clear and Stock Breaks Heavily.

Business on the Los Angeles-Nevada Mining Exchange yesterday showed little or no change compared with the preceding day's trading. There was little real news to influence the market in the large Goldfield issues, and as the San Francisco market was rather stagnant, there was practically no movement in quotations, and almost nothing as far as trading is concerned.

California Hills was the local feature. This stock slumped off bad

CALLS DANCE INDECENT.

"Did He really heal you, Mrs. Neff?" the evangelist asked.

"He did," was the brief answer from an elderly woman in the audience.

"I can't do it always, but did it that time," said the preacher.

A chorus of "Thank God," was the response of the people.

RIVETS ATTENTION.

Dr. Torrey has such a simple, direct way of telling things, that he is particularly attractive to the old people. He rivets their attention, and there is an atmosphere about the afternoon meetings that one rarely encounters in great revival movements.

At the close of each service, men and women crowd about the doctor to renew old acquaintance or to grip his hand as an evidence of the pleasure he has given them.

His topic, yesterday, was of particular interest to elderly Christians. It was: "Who may pray so as to get what they ask?"

"This book tells you," he said, as he picked up his Bible, "and you and I can become that sort of a person."

Opening at I John iii, 22, he read: "And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight."

"God says, 'you listen to my commandments and I will listen to your prayers,' but if you refuse to do what he asks you to do, your prayers will never be answered.

"The whole of Christian life consists in doing those things that God asks you to do, and leaving undone those things he tells you not to do."

The evangelist then took up the subject of personal amusements, and the tabernacle echoed repeatedly with choruses of affirmative ejaculations. He began by asking:

"Ought a Christian go to the theater? Ought he dance and play cards? The real question is: Will it please the Father? Now, everybody must answer the question for himself; nobody can be accountable for anybody else. There are theaters and theaters, actors and actresses. There are some plays that are in some respects good, but most of them are bad—just as bad as they dare be.

BLOWS AT THEATER.

"The stage is an institution, and the question is, not what the stage might be but what the stage is. Everybody knows that it is almost impossible for a woman to go on the stage and retain all that a woman hopes to be. Knowing the theater as I do, I would rather see my daughter in a casket than on the stage. No Christian can patronize an institution that is doing more than anything else to lower the conception of womanhood."

He denounced in yet more scathing terms the dance, picturing the familiarity between the sexes as a thing that would be permitted nowhere in decent society except on the dancing floor, where the innocent girl and the pure wife appear in the embrace of the moral leper and degenerate.

"Now, I don't believe for a moment," he continued, "that every man and woman who dances has wrong thoughts every time they dance, but if any modest woman were to hear the talk of young men after the dance, no pure, self-respecting woman would ever again go on the dancing floor, and there is nothing on earth makes the fight for purity so hard as the dance.

"Playing cards is not so bad, but it is bad enough. You mothers and fathers who are teaching your children to play cards are bringing them up for a gambler's ruin.

"I once knew a father and mother who thought to make everything pleasant at home and keep their three boys there, instead of having them go out to play cards, so they played cards at home. One of them did not care for cards, so he escaped, but the other two became gamblers, and I'm one of them. I hate cards because I know what it means.

TOBACCO TABOOED.

"The next thing is tobacco. You men have been listening very approvingly up to this point. Tobacco-using is wrong because it is physically injurious; is expensive without any return, and is selfish. Try as you will to avoid it, you must puff your smoke into somebody's face. You have no more right to puff your smoke into the air I have to breathe than you have to squirt tobacco juice into the water I have to drink. Can anybody enjoy fellowship with the Holy Ghost and do anything so harmful to others?"

At the conclusion of the address Dr. Torrey asked that all present who had anything in their lives that hindered them in prayer, and who wished to give it up for all time, to please rise. A number of men and women responded.

NIGHT MEETING.

At the meeting last night, religion was classed by the evangelist with infidelity, universalism, and moral goodness, as a "refuge of lies," behind which people hide to avoid service for God. The tabernacle was crowded to its capacity and even the platform was occupied by men, women and children, rags and silks commingling.

Dr. Torrey took this text from Isaiah: "And the hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies."

"Every man," he said, "needs a refuge from his conscience. Almost every man realizes this need. The trouble is that some have a refuge in a hope that is hopeless. It were better that these had no hope, rather than be misled by a false one.

"There is a way by which we can prove our hope—whether it be false or true. Four tests are provided. First, does it satisfy; second, does it make you better, day by day; third, will it stand the test of the dying hour; fourth, will it stand the test of the judgment day.

"Here in Los Angeles men trust their own moral goodness, their uprightness, and say that they are ready to stand before God on this foundation. Let us apply the tests.

APPLY TESTS.

"Does your moral goodness satisfy you? If it does, may God help you. I never met but two men in all my life who were satisfied with their own goodness. One of these was a Jew with whom I traveled across the Atlantic. He was satisfied, but before we reached New York he was the worst-hated man on the ship. Don't be like that man.

"Is your morality helping you to become a better man? My experience is that people of this class become selfish as they grow older.

"Will your morality stand the test at the last hour of your life? My first pastor was the most self-righteous man I ever knew. He had no use for anyone else—me in particular. When the doctors told him he must die, he cried: 'Send for Dr. Torrey.' I tried to make salvation simple for him and sat up with him all night trying to show him the way to God. But he died crying: 'I wish I were a Christian.' It was too late.

"Will you look in the face of the Almighty on the judgment day and tell him that you were a moral man, and should therefore be allowed to be with him in glory? If you think so, don't wait for that day, go try it tonight. See how it will take the self-righteousness out of you.

CALLED FALSE HOPE.

Many are taking refuge under the cloak of Universalism—the hope that God is too good to damn any one, and that there is no hell. If this satisfies, then you must be like the boy who disobeyed his mother just because he knew that she would forgive him. This boy made his mother's love an excuse for trampling her law under foot. How about we grown-ups? Are we going to trample the laws of God under foot and then make his love for us an excuse. If we do, we ought to go and hide for shame.

"Has Universalism made you a better man? My father believed in it and I believe that he was a godly man, but for the most part it is used as a cloak to cover a godless life.

"Will it stand the test of death? I know a boy who cursed his father on his dying bed for having preached to him that God was too good to punish and that there was no hell. He said that he knew he was bound for hell, and that his blood lay upon his father's head.

"Will we stand before the judgment seat and tell God that He is too good to damn us, although we have never followed Him. Try this tonight in your closet alone. Tell Him now, and you will know the answer.

INFIDELITY SPREADING.

"The third refuge is infidelity. It is spreading in England, Ireland and Scotland, and, I fear, here also. This will not satisfy you, or make you better, and to your dying hour you will flee from it. You can never stand in the day of judgment and tell Christ that you did not believe in His existence and that you even doubt that there was a God, and expect forgiveness.

"Religion is the fourth refuge behind which many hide. I never preached religion in my life. It is just as much a false refuge as any of the others that I have mentioned, for religion never saved anybody.

"It is one thing to say that you have religion, and another to say that you believe in Christ. You may pray, read the Bible, say Ave Marias and Pater Nosters, but they won't save you.

"In answer to an oft-repeated question, I have said that the Roman Catholic religion will save a man as quickly as any Protestant religion, but I always add that none of them will save.

"Test your religion. Does it bring you peace? Some of the most unhappy people in the world have religion. It does not make them better, either. I know a churchman who is very active in religion, but he has a reputation of beating people in business.

TALE OF MILKMAN.

"There was a business man in Dublin who said he could not become a Christian and hold his job. He was a milkman, and his employer, who had religion, gave him fifty quarts of milk to supply sixty customers, who each took a quart. If there is one part of hell deeper than another, that employer, who had religion, will get there.

"Peter Cartwright, when visiting the Middle West, met a man and asked him if he was a Christian. The fellow replied by asking if Cartwright was a Methodist. Then he added that he had left England, New England, Ohio and the Mississippi Valley to get away from the Methodists, but seemed unable to escape. Cartwright told him that he would never succeed, for he would find Methodists if he went to heaven, and he would find other Methodists if he went to hell.

But there is a refuge that is not a refuge of lies. Look in Isaiah xxviii, 16: 'Behold I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner-stone, a sure foundation; he that believeth shall not make haste,'—and in Corinthians iii, 11: 'For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.' He will stand the test."

NO MEETINGS TODAY.

There will be no meetings in the tabernacle this afternoon nor tonight, but the usual services will be held on Sunday afternoon and evening. The afternoon meeting will be for women only, and that in the evening for men only. At 3:20 in the afternoon a meeting for men will be held in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium, to be addressed by Edward Wilson Spencer and Rev. Mr. Jacoby. Dr. Torrey's associate, Lefebre, the saxophonist, will play. At 12:10, Monday, and each succeeding day of the week, a service will be held in the Los Angeles Theater for men only, and will be addressed by Dr. Torrey. It will close at 12:50.

COLLEGE GIRLS.

when the girls of the different colleges get together for any purpose.

Some of the tables were set in the open court. Here was the Occidental group of eighty members. The University of Southern California had eighty-five representatives present. Forty Pomona girls sat together for effective yelling purposes and the singing of college songs. The Girls' Collegiate had a fine delegation, and the Los Angeles and San Diego Normals and Whittier College each contributed a goodly quota of pretty co-eds.

Mrs. Frank A. Dewey, president of the association; Mrs. Z. D. Mathuss, chairman of the Territorial Committee, with the two territorial secretaries, Miss Abbie McElroy and Miss Gertrude Davidson, were the hostesses, and the toastmistress of the evening was Mrs. George Gates of Pomona College.

During the banquet, Kubelik's Orchestra, with tin pans and other interesting instruments, was a continual source of entertainment, while the yells and college songs punctuated the atmosphere.

Mrs. Gates, in introducing the first speaker, Mrs. Carl Johnson, said: "This has been called an age of things, but if the ear is pressed close to the ground one will hear the word spirit, as it has never been heard before. We must try these spirits."

Then she presented Mrs. Johnson, who spoke of "The Association Conference Spirit." Miss Mary Baker told of "College Stunts," and the magnetic national secretary, Miss Bertha Conde, who goes to these student conferences in India, China, Japan, and other countries of the earth, declared that the first question the English-speaking students in other parts of the world always ask her, is "what is a stunt?"

Miss Conde gave delightful pictures of the great annual conference of Y.W.C.A. workers all over the world. There are nine yearly meetings in the United States, and others in England, Australia, India, China, and Japan.

"Graduate schools for workers," she called them, and she spoke feelingly of the great missionary spirit that exists in all of them and seems to embrace all the girls in the world. Each conference has caught, she thinks, the vision of service for fellow women.

After the banquet, a reception for the visitors was held by the city association. This morning at 9 o'clock, the conference will open, and will continue until noon. There will be no afternoon session, the conference being resumed this evening at 8:30 o'clock. Sunday afternoon a gospel service for women will be conducted by Miss Conde, and there will be another service in the evening.

This evening the Territorial Committee will entertain with a dinner for the presidents and the faculty members of each college represented at the conference.

Miss Bertha Conde,

national student secretary of the Y.W.C.A., who spoke at the Capitola banquet last night.

"AUNTY MAHER" DEAD.

Mrs. Margaret Maher, known widely as "Aunty Maher," died suddenly of old age last night, at the home of her nephew, M. J. Sheridan, No. 441 South State street. The deceased was aged 86 years, and was born in Athenoy, County Galway, Ireland. Interment will be Sunday afternoon at Calvary Cemetery.

HEARING DENIED.

The cases of Carr against Howell, Gisske against Sanders and the Riviere will suit have been denied rehearings by the Supreme Court. Notice of the decision of the court was received here yesterday by Deputy Clerk Dunlap
